Carbondale, Ill., July - A School Transportation Conference will be held at Southern Illinois University Wednesday, July 7 and 8, under sponsorship of the College of Education

Three off-campus transportation authorities will serve as consultants for the conference, according to Dr. Howard E. Bosley, associate professor of education, who is in charge of arrangements.

These guest speakers are Glenn Featherston, specialist for pupil transportation, U. S. Office of Education, Washington, D.C.; Marian Telford, senior field representative, school and college division, National Safety Council, Chicago; and J. C. Mutch, assistant superintendent in charge of transportation, Illinois State Department of Education, Springfield.

Mr. Featherston will speak at the Wednesday morning session on "The Characteristics of an Administrative Unit Necessary for a Satisfactory Transportation System" and on "Experiences of Other States in Making School Bus Transportation Safe."

Miss Telford will discuss "Safety Factors in School Transportation" Wednesday afternoon and "Accident Report Forms and Procedures" Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Mutch will talk on "Safety Requirements for Pupil Transportation" Wednesday afternoon and "School Transportation Records and Reports Required by the State of Illinois" on Thursday afternoon.

Carbondale, Ill., July - The twelfth Annual Summer Conference of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers will be held July 7 and 8 at Southern Illinois University, according to Ralph A. Boatman, University health coordinator.

Mrs. J. W. Heylmum, chairman of the PTA committee on college cooperation, is in charge of the program which will include three of the state association's leading members who will speak to University education classes and education workshops on the role of the PTA in the school.

Mrs. Russell Oplinger, president of the Illinois Congress of PTA, will discuss the work which the PTA does and how it can be integrated in the school. She will conduct a general meeting with the local PTA groups following a luncheon at Hotel Roberts on Wednesday, July 7. They will cover plans of organization, program making, and improvement of school and home conditions.

Mrs. P. E. Peterman, chairman of the Illinois committee on health, will lead the discussion on how the PTA can assist with the school health program. She will give special emphasis to health projects which can be carried on in the school.

Mrs. Melvin Lockard, chairman of the state committee of parent education, will show how the organization can be of service in educating the parents to school and teacher problems.

Immediately following the morning session Thursday here on the Carbondale, Ill., July - Approximately fifty companies and agents will be represented at the Educational Materials Exhibit to be held July 7 and 8 in the men's gymnasium at Southern Illinois University, according to Dr. Victor R. Randolph, exhibits director.

All education materials including textbooks for all school levels, reference books, visual education materials--projectors and films, and general classroom equipment will be on display for those who are interested in better library and teaching materials.

Wednesday evening's program will be the annual Exhibitor's picnic to be held at Giant City Park.

Dr. Harold Lancour, assistant director of the library school at the University of Illinois, will address Southern Illinois educators and school officials on "Books for Today" at 9 a.m. Thursday in Shryock Auditorium.

A native of Duluth, Minnesota, Dr. Lancour was formerly librarian and professor of bibliography at Cooper Union, New York City. His broad literary experience also includes five years in publishing and the book trade in Seattle, Washington, two years on the New York Public Library staff, and several years as an instructor in the Army Library School at Paris during the war.

Publications by Dr. Lancour include bibliographies in the fields of heraldry, American art auctions, early passenger ships to American and engineering education. He is also a frequent contributor to periodicals.

Everyone, particularly teachers and school officials, are invited to attend the exhibit and to hear Dr. Lancour.

Carbondale, Ill., July 7 - Illinois is out in front in the post-war expansion of school transportation, and is pioneering in safety regulations for the protection of pupils being transported, a speaker today told a School Transportation Conference at Southern Illinois University here.

J.C. Mutch, assistant superintendent in charge of transportation for the State Department of Education, reported a 100 per cent increase in the number of school busses placed in operation in the last year in this state, though he declared many more are still needed.

He said approximately 2,500 school busses are now being run in Illinois.

Stringent safety regulations must be observed, he reminded the conference. He described the efforts that are now being made to set up national standards for school transportation safety.

Often, he cautioned, small busses are not equipped with sufficient safety facilities such as special lights, special identification signs, protection for gas tank, double defroster and windshield wiper, etc.

Miss Marian Telford, senior field representative, National Safety Council, also spoke before the conference today, on "Safety Factors in School Transportation." Another speaker, E. Glenn Featherston, U.S. Office of Education transportation specialist, was unable to be present because of family illness.

The conference will continue through Thursday, with discussions on local organization and administration of the transportation system, motion pictures, and a demonstration safety lane and school bus inspection.

The conference is being attended by Southern Illinois school superintendents, principals and teachers interested in pupil transportation.

Carbondale, Ill., July - Appointment of two new associate professors at Southern Illinois University, to assume their duties next fall, has been announced by University President Chester F. Lay.

Dr. Hellmut Hartwig has been appointed associate professor of foreign languages. A bachelor's graduate from the University of Illinois, he holds the master's degree from Louisiana State University and the doctor's degree from the University of Illinois. Serving for two and one-half years in the U. S. Army, he had reached the rank of captain at the time of his discharge.

He has taught German and Latin at L.S.U., Indiana University, the University of Kansas City, and Union College.

Dr. Amos Black, now head of the mathematics department at Lebanon College, has been appointed associate professor of mathematics at Southern. He holds the bachelor's degree from Marietta College, the master's degree from West Virginia University, and the doctor's degree from Cornell University. He has taught at all three of these institutions before going to Lebanon.

Carbondale, Ill., July - Southern Illinois University here received an eight-page spread of text and pictures in the Annual Report of the State Department of Registration and Education, recently distributed by the department's director, Frank G. Thompson.

The report on Southern, by University President Chester F. Lay, recounts the 1946-47 developments at this institution, which on July 1, 1947, assumed its new name--Southern Illinois University.

Tracing new steps in university organization, faculty growth, enrollment trends, educational developments, student affairs, and physical expansion, the Southern report is accompanied by photographs of President Lay, "Old Main," acceptance of veterans housing projects, award of a master's degree, ground-breaking for temporary classroom buildings (now in use), radio broadcasting, a physics laboratory, the kindergarten-nursery school, Dean E. G. Lentz with a rare book from the Tilton Library, and a music student at the chimes.

Carbondale, Ill., July - "Civilization is a race between education and catastrophe," a librarian-bibliographer told Educational Materials exhibitors here at Southern Illinois University.

Dr. Harold Lancour, assistant director of the Library School at the University of Illinois, said that the children of today are being educated by the mass persuasion of the radio serial, motion picture, and the sensational comic book.

"Teachers, librarians, publishers and parents have failed to give the child the proper background to ensure growth in reading knowledge, so that the child may have a bulwark of intelligence and knowledge in combatting mass emotional appeal," Dr. Lancour pointed out.

He stated further that 25 percent of the nation's soldiers in World War II were functionally illiterate with less than a sixth grade education. About 40 percent of the people in the city of Chicago have never read a book, and 60 percent have less than an eighth grade education.

These figures show the great need for improving our reading techniques in the school. The obligation falls on the teacher in the school to make reading an enjoyable step to new ideas; on the librarian to select worthwhile materials for the school and public library; on the publisher to print the best works; and on the parents to give the children the correct start and to support better opportunities for the future.

"We are engaged in the greatest war in history--the war against ignorance," he concluded.

Carbondale, Ill., July 8 - Adequate training of school bus drivers is an essential regulation in a safe school transportation program, according to Glenn Featherstone, specialist for pupil transportation, U. S. Office of Education.

Speaking at a two-day school transportation conference conducted Wednesday and today by Southern Illinois University, Mr. Featherstone advised against drafting teachers to drive the school busses--"the teacher's place is in the school building or on the school grounds," he declared.

"Proper driver training is as essential for the safety of pupils as is proper training for teachers," he insisted.

Twenty to 40 school children are killed annually in school bus accidents, he said. Many of these deaths could be avoided by proper training of drivers.

He urged a nation-wide standardization of safety regulations for school bus operation, pointing out that only half require some driver training, that only a few require a physical examination for drivers, and that, while some 40 states have fixed certain standards for safety, these standards vary widely.

Illinois, he said, comes close to meeting the present national standards.

Children should be taught safety rules to follow in entering and getting off busses, Mr. Featherstone cautioned, and added that regular safety instruction along this line should be given by the schools.

Other phases of today's program included discussions on administration of school transportation systems and inspection of some half dozen school busses exhibited here by manufacturers.

Carbondale, Ill., July - First step in a proposed long-range plan to take theater to the people of Southern Illinois, the Little Theatre of Southern Illinois University will stage its summer production, "Village Green," at the Perry County Fair in Pinckneyville, July 20, at 8 p. m.

"We hope this start will be the forerunner of a summer-long tour which will take our plays to every county fair in Southern Illinois within a few years," Dr. Archibald McLeod, associate professor of speech and director of the student dramatic group.

"In the East there are summer theatres everywhere, and throughout the country there are dramatic institutes and stock companies in colleges and universities," he explained.

"But the speech department at Southern is making what we believe are unique plans to provide our students with the opportunity to play week after week for popular audiences in every part of Southern Illinois."

This unusual summer educational-dramatics program will give students training and experience which they cannot obtain elsewhere, he pointed out, and will make available to the people of Southern Illinois excellent popular theater.

"Village Green", is a play centering around a New Hampshire senatorial candidate, his daughter and her artist sweetheart, a gossip-provoking mural in the town hall, and the burning of the town hall.

Members of the cast are: "Judge Peabody," the candidate, Bayless Grey of Carbondale; "Zeke Bentham," Vern E. Baird of Elkville; "Margaret Peabody," Patte Manesse and Charlott Waggener both of Herrin; "Norah," also Miss Manesse and Miss Waggener; "Harriet Peabody," Martha Sue Collins of Fairfield; "Jeremiah Bentham," George Seifert of DuQuoin; "Henry Ames," Charles Walker of Carbondale; "Hubert Carter," Bob Van Horn of Golconda; "Dr. Horace Shurtleff," Roy Weshinskey of Marissa; "Walter Godkin," Jerome Seltzer of Altamont; "Harmony Godkin," Bunky Paterson of Carbondale; "Rev. Arthur McKnight," Joy Rezetka of Benton; "Abby Tate," Carolyn Larson of Carbondale; "George Martin," Wyman Jones of Carrier Mills; a Boy Scout, Ed Bicknell of Carbondale; "Dawson," Jim Patterson of Mt. Vernon; and "Sally Post," Betty Rains of West Frankfort.

The production will be designed and directed by Dr. McLeod, who holds the doctor of philosophy degree from Cornell University. He has had professional experience in stock company and has directed dramatics at Kansas State Teachers College, Texas State College for Women, and Louisiana State University. Scenery for the play is being constructed and painted by members of the Little Theatre and students in a summer play production course.

The play will be presented on the campus on July 29.

Carbondale, Ill., July - A noted American folk singer is a guest artist at Southern Illinois University this week, July 19-23.

John Jacob Niles, who has become famous in the United States and abroad as a singer of ballads, is appearing before University classes and in public concerts sponsored by the University.

He will appear on the program of an open meeting of the Illinois Folklore Society Wednesday July 21, at 7:15 on the steps of the University Auditorium.

On Thursday evening, Mr. Niles will be featured at the weekly community concert in Centralia; and Friday evening he will be presented in a concert at Golconda.

Accompanied only by his own hand-made lute-like dulcimer, Mr. Niles sings the old folk songs in their original form as they have been passed down from generation to generation in the mountains and valleys of our own country and in Europe.

He has sung in the White House; in Paris, London, the Hague; at Harvard, Oxford, Princeton; in night clubs, and schoolhouses. This is his second visit to Southern in two years.

Carbondale, Ill., - Southern Illinois school custodians and engineers will have an opportunity to study problems common to janitors in special schools being held in Southern Illinois communities during August, according to Raymond H. Dey, Director of the Extension Division at Southern Illinois University.

Dr. Bruce Merwin, University Professor of education, is conducting special schools for school custodians August 9-10 in Belleville; August 11-12, Edwardsville; August 16-17, Fairfield; August 18-19, Anna; and August 23-24, East St. Louis.

These schools are an outgrowth of the custodian schools set up at Southern fourteen years ago by Dr. Merwin to help clarify general questions regarding the job of janitor and to explain contemporary legislative acts that effect their positions and those of other non-certified employees.

These various district workshops are being held to supplement the one-day session held earlier this spring in West Frankfort.

Carbondale, Ill., July - College students may be deferred from the draft, according to reports received by Southern Illinois University officials from the Association of American Colleges, Washington, D. C.

The report states that it is now evident that men will not be called for induction under the SELECTIVE SERVICE ACT OF 1948 until the latter part of September or later. In consequence college students in good standing who are pursuing a full-time course will have their induction postponed until the end of the academic year.

Section 5 (i) of the Selective Service Act of 1948, now Public Law #759, provides that high school or college students may be deferred until the end of the school year as long as the student satisfactorily pursues a full-time course of instruction. High school students may be deferred until such time as their graduation or until they reach twenty years of age.

In order to receive deferment, the student must report to his local induction board and present proof of his scholastic standing.

College students who have served for more than 18 months, between September 16, 1940 and July 19, 1948 or those veterans who have served more than 90 days but who have assumed certain Reserve obligations will be exempt from induction under the New Selective Service Act.

Carbondale, Ill., August 1- That man with a lantern on the Southern Illinois University campus looking in big, strong men's faces isn't Diogenes looking for an honest man, it's Football Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin searching for a quarterback.

Martin, coach of the 1947 Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and Corn Bowl champions, has been looking for a new quarterback for many, many months. The brilliant Bill Malinsky of Flora, who guided the Maroons in 1947, has graduated, and after eight moons Martin is still looking for a suitable replacement.

With a capable, seasoned quarterback on deck for the coming campaign, Southern would appear set to repeat their possession of the I. I. A. C. crown. Martin expects 20 first-line lettermen, including 8 regulars, to report for practice drills early in September.

The line will have seasoned veterans in every position, and behind them, more seasoned veterans of almost equal caliber.

Bob Colborn, Flora junior who was named Most-Valuable in 1947, and Joe Hughes of West Frankfort will insure superb end play, with Galen Davis of DuQuoin on hand for insurance.

Capt. John Corn of Benton and Warren Littleford of Vandalia, rangey 215 pounders, leave nothing to be desired at the tackles.

Jim Lovin of Benton, the Maroon's outstanding player in 1946, versatile Charlie Heinz of Gillespie, who has previously played both halfback and center, and J. L. Gross of DuQuoin will be outstanding veterans at the guard positions. Robert "Bunker" Jones, the 225-pound West Frankfort linebacking star is expected to lend his formidable talents to closing any holes which do appear in the Maroon forward wall.

Bill "Cotton" Cosgrove of Benton and J. Pieron of Murphysboro, number one and two centers from 1947, are both expected to be present and eliminate all worries about ball-snapping.

Ignoring the quarterback position, the backfield looks excellent. Five halfbacks, George Sawyer of Wood River, Bob Johnson of DuQuoin, Dick Seelman of Flora, Roy Ragsdale of Carbondale, and George Beltz of Marion all have a remaining year of eligibility and are expected to contribute variety and deception to the ball-toting chores.

John "Bummy" Rusich of Johnston City, who earned a letter in 1946 but was not in school last year, will be a welcome returnee. Along with Jack Stephens of West Frankfort, Ruzich will take the fullback post held last year by Don Riggs of Fairfield, 1947 All-Conference fullback who will not return this September.

But then there's quarterback, and no lettermen--nothing except dreams and untried freshmen.

Carbondale, Ill., July 27 - Award of contracts on construction of the central building in the new training school project at Southern Illinois University, announced today in Springfield, brings to actuality a program long sought by the University, according to University President Chester F. Lay.

Contracts have just been awarded by the State Department of Architecture and Engineering, totaling $2,243,804, as follows: general contract, Federal Construction, Inc., Chicago, $1,592,525; heating and ventilating, L. H. Prentice, Chicago, $244,064; plumbing, Economy Plumbing and Heating Company, East Chicago, $180,851; electric wiring, Phillips Electric Company, Belleville, $135,258; pipe covering, Standard Asbestos Manufacturing Company, Chicago, $91,106.

Construction is to be completed within 500 calendar days after notification of the awards, which took place on July 19. This would place completion of the building about December 1st, 1949.

Bids received June 30 on construction of the building were slightly in excess of the amount of money available, President Lay explained, therefore the architects and the University administration had to make some slight modification in the original plans.

These modifications consisted of the elimination of some $75,000 in what was primarily equipment. Appropriations to provide for the items omitted will be sought from the next legislature, President Lay said.

The building, according to President Lay, will have three uses: (1) class instruction, largely for the campus laboratory schools but with some space for University classes; (2) office space; and (3) general public rooms such as an auditorium and a small theater.

This is the first educational building to be constructed at Southern in 20 years, President Lay pointed out.

Plans for the building have been developing for almost ten years and money for its construction have been appropriated since the 1939-41 biennium. Some 15 months ago, final approval of University officials was given to detailed plans and the project was placed in the hands of the State Department of Architecture and Engineering.

As time has gone on, each succeeding appropriation has been deemed inadequate to complete the building due to rising construction costs.

In the plans of recent years, it was contemplated that the project would embrace a central training school building, a small shops building for manual arts, and the first half of an education-administration building to house among other activities the Graduate School and graduate seminar rooms.

Both the shops and the education-administration building have necessarily been cut out because of costs, and the central main building will probably be used temporarily for all purposes envisioned in the entire project, President Lay said. Actual allocation of space within the central building has not been made.

Utility tunnels to accommodate the new building have already been completed as part of the $1,383,000 power plant and tunnel system now under construction. Much of the landscaping on the site has already been done, in preparation for actual building construction. Steel work is now going forward on the power plant itself.

Of modified Williamsburg architecture, the new building will occupy the site north of Grand Avenue and south of a projection of Thompson Street. It will stand on a high knoll, and will have several levels for entrances. A tower some 200 feet high will surmount the central lobby. Playgrounds and parking areas will be provided adjacent to the building.

Carbondale, Ill., July - For the first time in history, Southern Illinois University will hold a summer commencement for seniors and graduate students completing their degrees during the current summer session.

The event is scheduled for Friday morning, Aug. 6, at 9:30 a. m. in Shryock Auditorium. Program details have not yet been announced.

Approximately 152 students have applied for degrees to be conferred at the summer exercises.

Carbondale, Ill., July - An outdoor concert will be presented by the Southern Illinois University summer band Monday evening, Aug. 2, from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m., Harold C. Hines, band director, has announced.

The concert will be presented on the campus in front of Shryock Auditorium. In case of rain, the performance will be postponed until Wednesday, August 4, Hines said.

The summer band is composed of 35 pieces.

Carbondale, Ill., July - The new central building in the training school project at Southern Illinois University, contracts for which have been awarded at a cost of $2,243,804, will have the most modern structural treatment, according to information received here from Joseph F. Booton, chief of design for the State Division of Architecture and Engineering.

It will be lighted with fluorescent lighting throughout, its interior walls will be of painted concrete which will give satisfactory sound absorption, the 450-capacity auditorium will be accoustically treated, the whole building will be air-conditioned, and it will be equipped with radiant heat.

Actually, because rising costs have made it necessary to eliminate temporarily some of the fixed equipment and other features, the air-conditioning system will not be completed under the present contracts, Mr. Booton said. However, addition of compressors will be the only step remaining to complete the system, when additional funds are secured.

University officials say funds will be asked of the next General Assembly to complete the building and equip it.

The building will have a "split system" of heating, Mr. Booton explained. "Stand-by heat" will be provided by radiant copper coils in the ceiling, which will maintain a low heat in the building at night and on week-ends when the building is not in use. The auxiliary heat for day-time use, to originate in the University's new power plant now under construction, will also come through copper piping in the plaster of the ceilings.

"There will be no unsightly radiators," Mr. Booton said.

Another unusual feature of the building will be the lavish use of color. Exterior architectural design is modified Williamsburg, modernized particularly as to windows to provide the ample natural light required in schoolrooms. It will be finished in red brick with off-white window sashes.

The interior walls will be finished in gay colors, particularly in the kindergarten, nursery school and grade school classrooms. For the upper grades and the high school, the colors will be more subdued--pastels and muted colors. Rooms for each grade will have doors different in color from those of the the other grades.

The building will provide 1,353,000 cubic feet of space, Mr. Booton said. The 94' x 49' auditorium will provide a seating capacity of 450. The gymnasium measures 100 by 73 feet.

The center unit, under the tower, will be four stories high, the gymnasium wing will be two stories high, and the auditorium section will consist of one story and basement.

Plans for the building have been completely redrawn since the war ended, Mr. Booton said, and architects have tried to utilize the latest developments in materials and in construction in order to provide the best in accoustics, lighting, heating, cooling, and color.

The building is due to be completed in 500 calendar days after contracts were awarded, which would mean completion about December 1st, 1949.

Carbondale, Ill., Aug. - Dr. Joseph K. Johnson, chairman of the department of sociology at Southern Illinois University, who holds a commission as lieutenant colonel in the Organized Reserves, United States Army, has received orders placing him on active duty with the Fourth Army at Fort Ord, California, for a period of refresher training.

He will leave Carbondale immediately after the close of the summer session at Southern and will complete his tour of duty in time to be back on the Southern campus for the first day of the fall quarter registration, September 13. He plans to travel to California by automobile, and will be accompanied by his wife and daughter Kathryn, a senior student at Southern.

During World War II, Colonel Johnson held various assignments with this Army in the United States and in France and Germany. His last assignment was as chief of the Attitude Research Section, Information and Education Service, Headquarters United States Forces in Europe. His wife and daughter spent several months with him at his station near Frankfurt, Germany and returned to the United States with him by Army transport in April, 1947.

Carbondale, Ill., July - Gift of a painting by Jacob Lawrence to Southern Illinois University by the American Academy of Arts and Letters had been announced by Ben Watkins, acting chairman of the Southern art department.

The painting, entitled "The Seamstress," will be unveiled Sunday, Aug. 1, at a Southern Illinois Art Association tea in the Little Gallery at the University. Time of the tea is 3 to 5 p. m.

Dr. Eugene J. McFarland, visiting professor of art on the University's summer faculty, will give a lecture discussion at the art association meeting, and Kenneth Ervin, assistant professor of art, will present an interpretation of the Lawrence painting and remarks concerning the artist.

The painting represents a seamstress at work at her sewing machine, with dress models in the background. Vari-patterned dress materials form a mosaic in the foreground.

The American Academy of Arts and Letters made the gift as administrators of the Hassam Fund, established by Childe Hassam, American impressionistic painter who died in 1935. At his request, some 350 of his paintings and drawings were sold to endow a fund in perpetuity, income from which is to be used to purchase works of contemporary artists to be presented as gifts to art gallery and museums throughout the U. S. and Canada.

Carbondale, Ill., Aug. - Any cow in a dairy herd which cannot yield at least 4,000 pounds of 4 per cent milk per year is a low producer and therefore unprofitable, a Southern Illinois agriculturist declares.

Moreover, according to the 1945 U. S. Census, the average production of all cows in the 16 southernmost counties of Illinois was only 3,536 pounds per year.

"This is evidence that there are a number of cows producing much less than 4,000 pounds of milk per year," asserted Alex Reed, assistant professor of agriculture at the University, who comes up with some basic economics for the Southern Illinois dairy farmer.

Any cow in the farmer's dairy herd which cannot produce enough milk to show a good profit over an above all expenses--including feeding, housing, milking and handling the product--"should not be kept on the farm," Reed said.

A cow must produce approximately 4,000 pounds of 4 per cent milk or 160 pounds of butterfat per year to pay all expenses, he explained. Cows producing less than this are kept at an actual loss.

Moreover, he added, the margin of profit widens as production goes up, for the value of the product increases about three times as fast as the increased cost of keep.

For example, the average return above feed cost of cows producing only 200 pounds of butterfat per year was $80, out of which other production costs--housing, labor and management--must be paid, Reed said, using figures from the Dairy Herd Improvement Association of Illinois. Cows producing an average of 300 pounds of butterfat per year returned $162 above feed costs.

In other words, the 300-pound producer required $12 more feed, but yielded $82 more milk. Moreover, a 400-pound producer required $16 more feed and returned an additional $78 in products.

Reed advised checking the production of each individual cow, and the disposal of any animal yielding less than 4000 pounds of 4 per cent milk.

"You can save feed and actually realize a greater profit per herd with fewer cows," he asserted.

"The only method of determining the profitable and unprofitable cows in the herd is by weighing and testing the milk of each cow," he said. "Some dairymen are in a dairy herd improvement association but many do not have large enough herds to feel justified in joining such an association.

"It is a very simple job to weigh the night and morning milk of each cow once a month and calculate her production on that basis. In many communities the vocational agriculture departments in schools will cooperate with the farmer by making the butterfat tests for him. Even though the test is not available it would be better to have the record of production along than to have neither."

There are three ways in which the dairyman can increase his profit margin: (1) increase production per cow, (2) lower cost of keep, and (3) increase value of product, Reed explained.

"It is quite evident that the quickest way to increase profit is by culling out low producers and keeping only the high producers--those yielding more than 4,000 pounds of 4 per cent milk," he said.

"Lowering the cost of keep increases profit by widening the margin between cost of production and value of product. This may be done by a more liberal use of good pastures and good roughage, as these are the cheapest feeds available.

"Feeding each cow according to her production will also reduce the cost of keep as a cow giving only 25 pounds of milk per day does not need as much feed as one giving 40 pounds per day. Too many dairymen fail to recognize this fact and continue to give each cow in the herd the same amount of grain."

"The value of the product can be done through improving quality.

Producers of grade A milk receive a higher price for their products than the average producer. Cream producers can also improve the quality of their product and receive a higher price."

Carbondale, Ill., Aug. - Dr. James F. Price, chancellor of the University of Denver, will deliver the commencement address to Southern Illinois University's first summer graduating class, on Friday, Aug. 6, Dr. Chester F. Lay, president of Southern, has announced.

Dr. Price, a native of Kansas, holds both the bachelor of laws and the master of laws degree from Stanford University, and the honorary doctor of laws degree from Kansas State College. He has also attended Swarthmore College, Kansas State College and the University of Paris, and spent 1926-27 as a student in the University Afloat, on a 'round-the-world cruise.

For a number of years he served simultaneously as professor of business in the University of San Francisco and as head of the business department of Menlo Junior College. In 1941 he became dean of law at Washburn Municipal University, Topeka, Kan., leaving in 1945 to become president of Kansas State Teachers College. In 1945 he was appointed dean of the School of Law and dean of the School of Commerce at the University of Denver, and in 1947 he was named acting chancellor, and has now been appointed permanently to that position of chancellor.

Before entering the educational field, Dr. Price held a vice presidency for two years, 1930-32, with the Raven Trust Company, Shanghai, China, and spent 1932 to 1935 as managing partner with Hedge & Price investment company in New York. In 1942-43 he served as director of the Kansas Industrial and Development Commission.

He is a member of the California and Kansas bar associations, the American Bar Association, and a number of honorary and professional societies.

The commencement exercises will be held in Shryock Auditorium, starting at 9:30 A. M.

Mrs. Helen Rose Pegelow of Mattoon, member of the State Teachers College Board, governing body for Southern, will confer the degrees on the graduates.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. - Southern Illinois University will soon receive title to a pumper fire truck formerly used at the Illinois Ordnance Plant, President Chester F. Lay of Southern has been notified by the Federal Security Agency of the United States Office of Education.

Preliminary negotiations were carried on by R. W. English, now on leave of absence and working on his doctor's degree at the University of Pennsylvania. More recently negotiations have been carried on by E. R. Wolfe who has succeeded English as Government Surplus representative. Final transfer of title to Southern will be made as soon as routine procedures can be completed.

The truck and accessory equipment cost more than $10,000.00 when new and is still in excellent condition. It will be transferred to Southern as war surplus at no cost to the University.

The pumper truck is of the conventional bright red in color, huge in size, has a wailing siren and a lot of shiny, bright gadgets on it. It is just the kind of "fire engine" that boys from 6 to 60 years of age have a secret desire to ride on.

It can really pump water, too. Five hundred gallons or more per minute. It can be "played" as a gentle sprinkle, or, a solid stream under tremendous pressure, able to smash in a window or knock down a damaged wall, if desired.

Southern has use of this truck while final negotiations are being carried on. It is being used to protect the 95 veterans apartments and the surrounding buildings at the Ordnance Plant Veterans Housing Project. A trial run was made Sept. 2. Fire hydrants and pumping stations were located and the lengths of hose needed to reach various points, noted. The truck was then brought to the Chautauqua Street Veterans Housing Project in Carbondale and to the main campus, where it was found to be capable of throwing a stream of water over any building on the campus.

Several buildings were given "beauty treatments" by having their walls washed, and the hard, stone-dry football field was sprinkled.

Carbondale, Ill., Aug. -"Building construction at Southern Illinois University has been proceeding at a feverish pace despite desperate material shortages."

It's true that a new power plant is being built, and contracts have been awarded for a new 2 1/4 million dollar training school, but the construction mentioned above is an entirely different proposition.

The new buildings that have taken shape in recent weeks were tiny models, built by students in architectural modelling classes under the supervision of Kenneth Ervin, art instructor.

The Art Center on South Thompson Street, where design and ceramics classes are held, during the summer term just ended, took on the atmosphere of the World of Tomorrow, as tyro architects, designers, contractors and plasterers raced to complete their projects before the final deadline at the end of the term.

Enrolled in the class, in addition to art majors, were such students as Phyllis Cockrum of Sesser, a home-economics major; Glenn Eaves, Anna; and John Hickman of Carbondale, majors in industrial education at Southern.

"These students may not plan to continue as professional designers," Ervin declares, "but their opinions and tastes will be an important factor in the world which they will aid in building."

Miss Cockrum evolved a design for a country estate, complete with a main house, a smaller recreation building and an observation tower for a perfect view of the rolling landscape. In fieldstone and reinforced concrete, this estate would be worthy of any tired businessman with impeccable taste, according to Ervin.

Eaves took modern transportation as a special problem. His airport model is complete with checker-top hanger, comfortable waiting room and restaurant, covered walks and a tribute to aviation in the form of an impressive monument symbolizing speed.

Lucian Hill, art teacher in Marion's Washington School, completed a section of a modern city built around a winding stream.

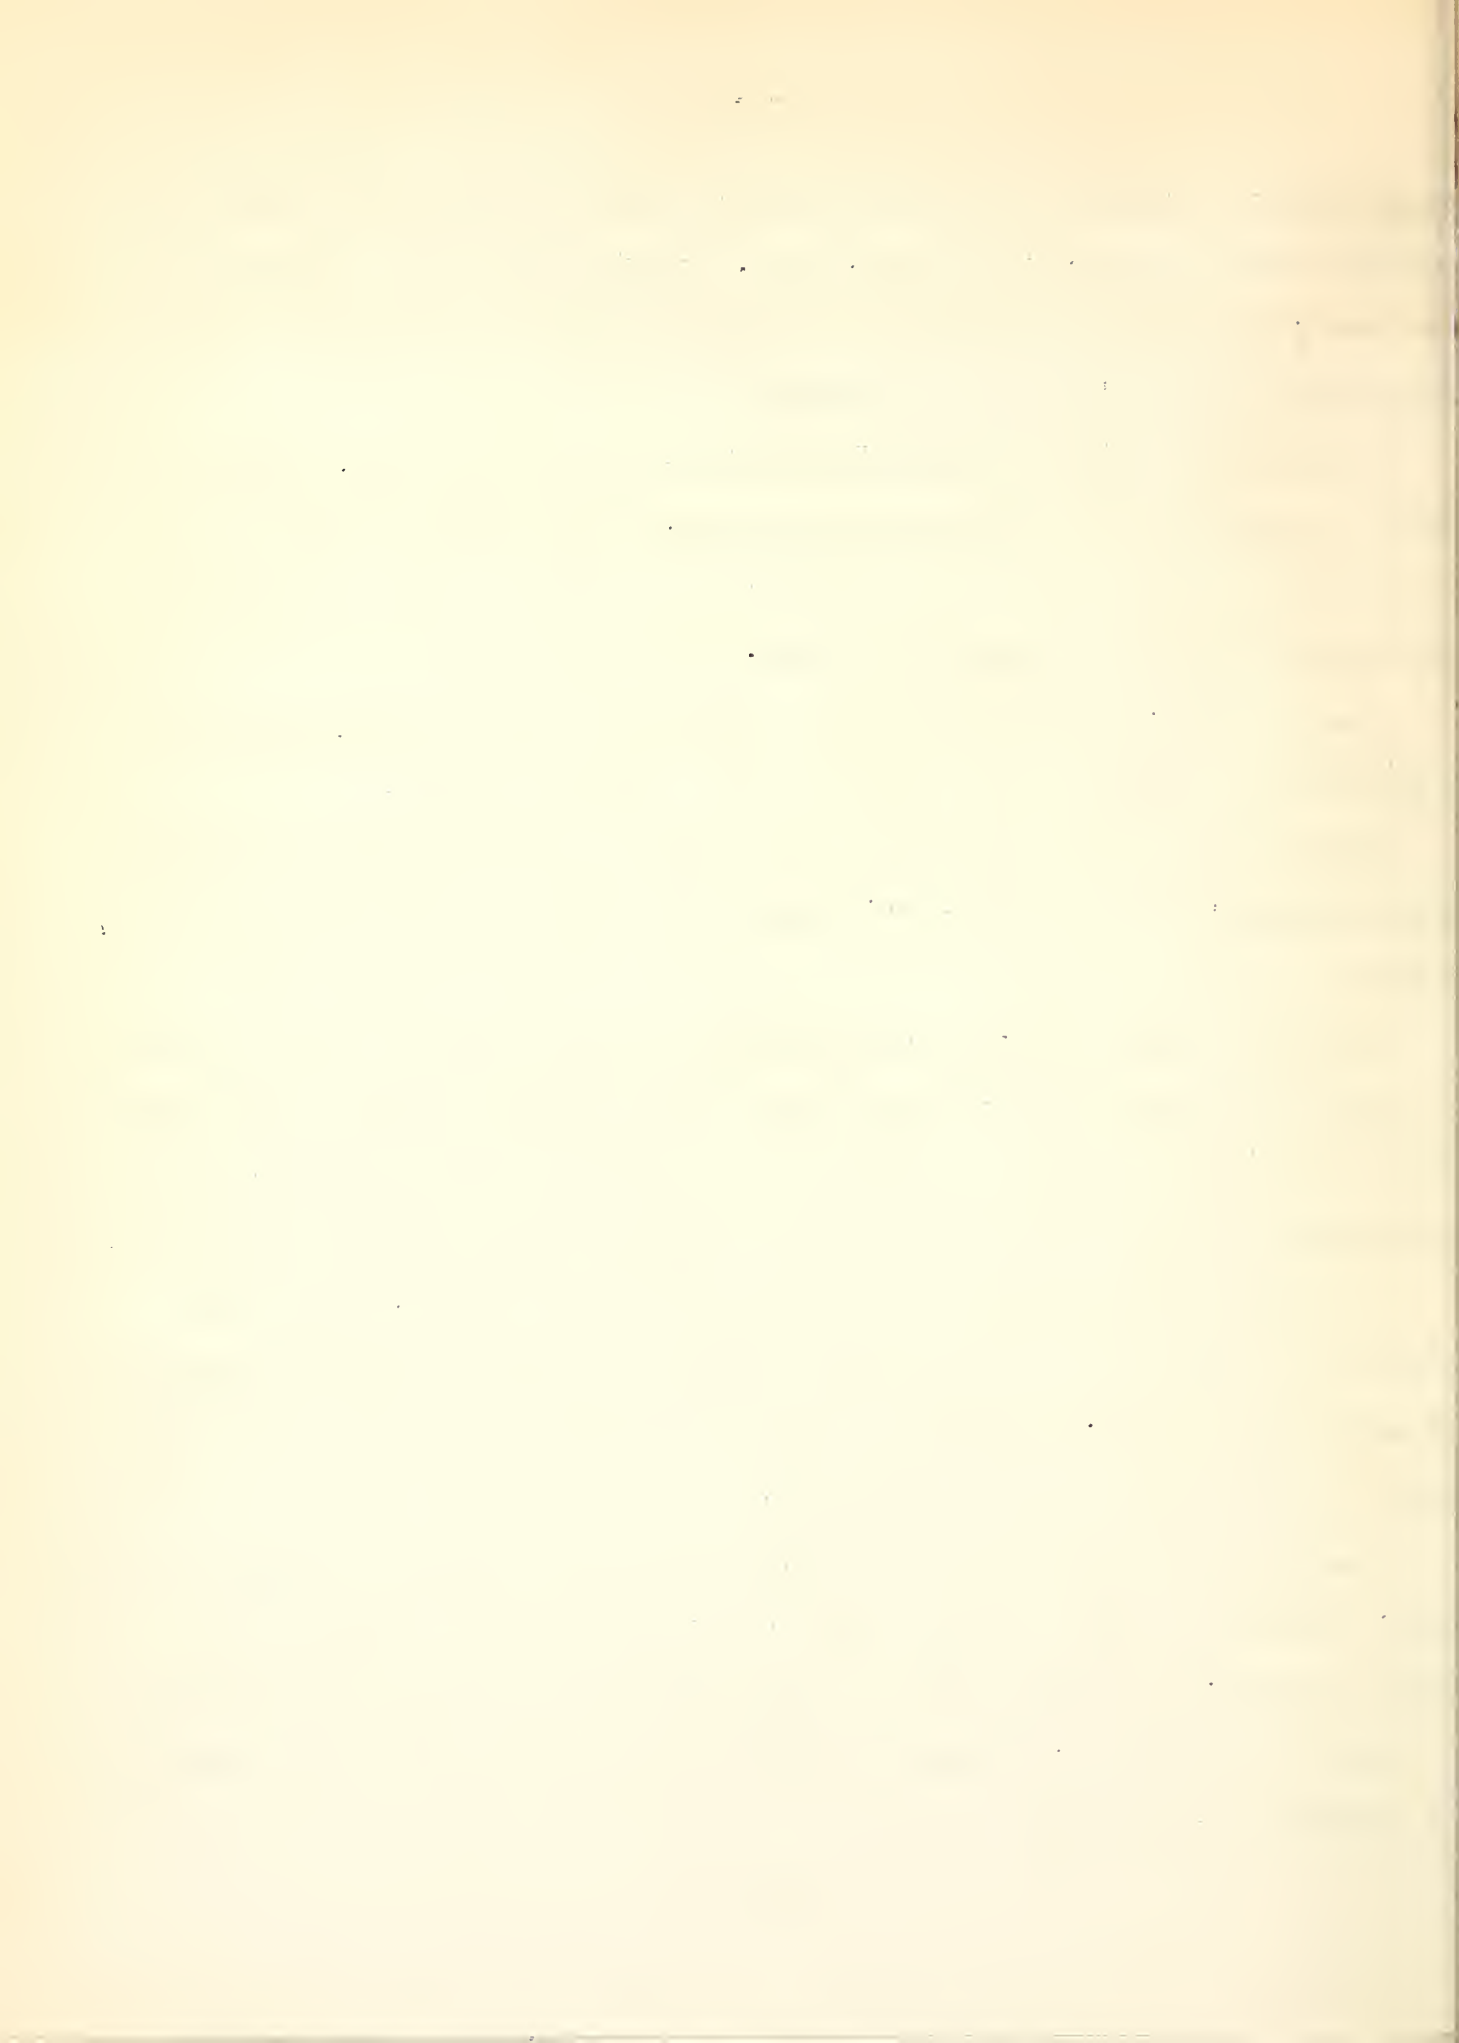

Designs for small homes were constructed by Don Lencé, Carbondale; Frank McCurdy, Fayette City, Pa; Mavis Upchurch, Marion; and Mayme Clay, Ullin.

Richard Willard of Utica, New York and Jane Wallace of Marion revelled in the freedom from restrictions which the project offered. Both created models for resort hotels so expansive and lavish that they planned the installation of International Business Machines to keep track of guests.

Charles Sheffler, architectural student and ex-G.I., from West Frankfort, developed a design which promises to provide the ultimate in swimming-pool luxury. Sheffler said he dreamed about such a refreshing spot all during his period of service.

Leslie Brumfield, of Mt. Vernon, labored valiantly, planting plaster trees, building garden walls, walks and bridges, but he still has a vexing problem. He never quite decided what the project was intended to

At last report Mr. Ervin himself had a problem. The art department has run out of plaster.

Carbondale, Ill., Aug. -No slump in enrollment at Southern Illinois University is expected this fall, despite an anticipated 10-15 per cent drop in veteran attendance, according to University officials.

This forecast coincides with a nation-wide survey recently made by the American Council on Education, sampling both high schools and colleges.

The survey revealed that 6 per cent more students graduated from high school this year than last, and that 2.3 per cent more of these graduates contemplate attending college than did last year.

College graduates for 1947-48 increased 33 per cent over the preceding year. Southern graduated 390 students this year, compared to 345 last year.

Of the 164 college officials queried in the survey, 74 anticipated enrollment this fall to remain about the same as last, 49 looked for a smaller enrollment, and 38 expected an increase.

At Southern, fall term enrollment is expected to total approximately 2,850, or about the same as last year. Present applications of new freshmen total about 1,000, or about the same as last year.

The American Council on Education survey, quoting a special report from the Veterans Administration, showed that the number of veterans enrolled in colleges under the VA program had declined from 1,235,761 at the end of November, 1947, to 1,141,488 at the end of April, 1948. A

Veterans Administration estimate, prepared in August, 1947, forecast that slightly fewer than a million veterans would be enrolled in the fall of 1948 and spring of 1949, while the number would decline by perhaps a third in the fall of 1949 and spring of 1950.

"Recent legislation increasing the subsistence allowance payable to college trainees may have some effect on the forecast figures," the VA report added.

At Southern, veteran enrollment declined from 1,512 in the fall of 1946 to 1,377 in the fall of 1947. This number is expected to drop still further to about 1,150 this fall.

Carbondale, Ill., Aug. --News pictures, salon prints, and photograms comprise the first exhibit hung in the new Graphic Arts gallery at Southern Illinois University.

Located on the first floor of the Main Building in the hall by the northwest door, the gallery supplements the Little Gallery on the second floor and will be used primarily to encourage and display student work in photography.

Student work displayed includes work by Frank McCurdy, Fayette City; James Tucker, Wolf Lake; Julius Swayne, DuQuoin; and Oliver Vernor, Wood River.

Also displayed is a collection of photograms by Kenneth Ervin, instructor in art, and several photographs by Robert A. Steffes, instructor in journalism.

Carbondale, Ill., Aug. 13--With educational space per student totaling less than half the desirable amount, Southern Illinois University needs immediate construction of more than $11,000,000 in new buildings, according to University President Chester F. Lay.

The University president said requests would be presented to the Teachers College Board, and "we hope" to the General Assembly, for appropriations to build two new classroom buildings, a health unit, dormitories for men and women, a new library, several University Farm structures, an education-administration building, and service shops.

These structures have been recommended on a "priority list" drafted for the last General Assembly by a joint faculty group composed of the Advisory Council to the President and the Long-Term Planning Committee.

Latest estimates on costs of these urgently needed buildings amounts to $11,526,950.

"The urgency of our needs lies in two facts," President Lay declare "First, there has not been a single educational building constructed at Southern in more than 20 years. In other words, the space we have in permanent buildings for educating Southern Illinois young people is the same as it was 20 years ago. Even 20 years ago, some of our buildings were outmoded and inadequate.

"Second, our enrollment has shot upward during the last few years, so that buildings which were already antiquated and overcrowded before the war are now tragically inadequate."

The president cited a survey recently made of campus space by a faculty committee on building needs.

This survey, shows that Southern has only 219,000 square feet of space in the eight permanent type buildings on the campus, or 68 square feet per student for the 3,323 students (2,855 University students and 368 training school students) enrolled in the fall of 1947.

An additional 55,000 square feet is available in temporary buildings, most of which are of wooden construction and some quite old. The space in temporary structures brings the total average per student to 85 square feet.

These figures--68 square feet in permanent buildings, or 85 square feet in both permanent and temporary structures must be compared with "the standard of 155 square feet per student which the President's Commission of Higher Education recommends as satisfactory 'with maximum utilization,' and the 140 square feet of space per student which the University of Illinois claims" that it now has in use.

President Lay called attention to the fact that contracts have been awarded on construction of a new 2 1/4 million dollar training school project, to be completed late in 1949, and that a $1,383,000 power plant and utility distribution system is also being built.

"The power plant, however, will provide no additional classroom or educational space," he explained.

"The training school is urgently needed to accomodate the campus laboratory schools, but must of necessity be used to house some University classes and offices as well until other construction can be provided.

"So great are our needs that the new training school when completed will still leave us greatly overcrowded.

"Our 2,850 University students need modern facilities, not building that were out-dated many years ago. Some high schools of this area provide more efficient, attractive and modern quarters than does the University, which is charged with training future teachers for this area future businessmen and women, and future citizens.

Citing the much-discussed shortage of teachers and the demands being made on the state's colleges and universities to train more teachers, Dr. Lay asked, "How can we be expected to provide the highest quality of education for the men and women who are to teach our youth, if we must train them in such crowded, outmoded quarters?" "How can we be expected to provide first-class university education in the liberal arts and sciences, in vocations and professions, and in the Graduate School, without adequate classrooms, laboratories, and library facilities?

Facts and figures on Southern's building needs laid by University officials before the Alumni Association Board of Directors at its meeting here tonight, and support of alumni for the building appropriation request will be sought.

Carbondale, Ill., Aug. -A new departmental chairman for the home economics department at Southern Illinois University has been appointed, to assume her duties at the opening of the fall term, Sept. 13, according to University President Chester F. Lay.

Dr. Elizabeth Eileen Elliott has been appointed professor and chairman of the department.

She will replace as chairman Miss Lucy K. Woody, who at her own request will be released to devote full time to her teaching duties during her last year of service before her retirement. Miss Woody said today that she wished to feel free to retire during the year if she so desired, and therefore requested that Dr. Elliott's appointment as chairman take effect immediately.

Miss Woody joined the University faculty in 1911, and she has served as department chairman since 1945.

Dr. Elliott, whose home is in Grayson, Mo., comes to Southern from Stout Institute, Menomonie, Wisc., where she has been serving as chairman of the department of foods and nutrition.

A graduate of Northwest Missouri State Teachers College, she holds the master's degree from Teachers College, Columbia University, and the doctor of education degree from the University of Missouri.

Dr. Elliott has taught at Northwest Missouri State Teachers College, Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, Stephens College, and

Attention: Sports Editor

8-25-48

Carbondale, Ill., Aug. 25 - Southern Illinois University Football Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin stated here today that his 1948 Maroons, defending Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and Corn Bowl champions, should be "almost as strong as last year's team" but that they would be "lucky to win three games."

Martin was refering the increasing strength of all his opponents, especially in the I. I. A. C. Although the Maroons should be a powerful team, they will greatly miss six star players who will not return.

Included in the absentees will be three regular backfield stars, quarterback Bill Malinsky of Flora, fullback Don Riggs of Fairfield, and halfback George Sawyer of Wood River, all of whom received post-season mentions for their brilliant play.

Only one of these positions, fullback, seems to be in secure hands. John "Bumny" Ruzich of Johnston City, a 1946 freshman letterman, is calculated to make the fans forget Riggs, the I. I. A. C.'s All-Conference fullback.

Two men, Bill Fly of Carbondale and Charles Oyler of Hoopeston are rated to have the inside track in the battle to replace Bill Malinsky at quarterback. Fly and Oyler are both freshmen, however, and will have to stand the test of college ball before the job can be turned over to them permanently. Other quarterback candidates are Pat Kelly of Murphysboro and Fred Brenzel of Staunton.

In his files "Abe" Martin has two sets of play formations to distribute to his players. He would like to stick with the T-formation but he fears that his material at quarterback may not be suitable to the T. If not, he wants the single wing handy for a mighty quick change. It all depends on the quarterbacks, and especially on Fly and Oyler. In high school Fly was a great ball-handler and passer from the T-formation, but he is greatly handicapped by his diminutive stature and may not be able to make the change from high school to college.

Oyler is a rough 200-pounder who has a good high school reputation from Hoopeston. But Coach Martin has never seen him play and his ability to pass is a moot question.

Under strict questioning Martin commented, "Our line should be on a par with 1947." However, he also pointed out that it will be only one deep, with very few capable reserves, back of the first string.

The ends, Bob Colborn of Flora, 180, and Joe Hughes of West Frankfort, 185, should be one of the highlights of the team. Galan Davis of DuQuoin, 175, will serve as a capable relief man.

John Corn of Benton, team captain, 216, and Warren Littleford of Vandalia, 220, should be terrific at tackles but they seem to have no reserves.

The guards slots are in good shape since Jim Lovin of Benton, 210, and Charlie Heinz of Gillespie, 195, are upper-brackett linemen. The only reserve is J. L. Gross of DuQuoin, 180.

Center will be held down by Bill "Cotton" Cosgrove of Benton, 185, with J. Pieron of Murphysboro, 210, as a substitute.

In the backfield, outside of quarterback, veterans are present with Ruzich at fullback, and four halfbacks, Bob Johnson of DuQuoin, Dick Seelman of Flora, George Beltz of Marion, and Roy Ragsdale of Carbondale ready to share duties. George Sawyer, who was Southern's most effective open-field ace in 1947, is playing professional baseball and is not expected to report for football. His absence will be strongly felt unless some newcomer such as Joe Budde of Belleville, Southern's 9.9s sprint star, can make good in his first season of football. Budde did not play in high school.

Southern will open at Detroit Sept. 25 against Wayne University. The complete card lists five home and three road games.

Carbondale, Ill., Aug. - Appointment of two new faculty members-- a professor of speech and an instructor in business administration-- has been announced by the President's Office at Southern Illinois University.

Dr. C. Norton Talley, who holds the bachelor's degree from Simpson College, the master's from Northwestern University and the doctor's from the University of Iowa, has been named professor of speech.

He will take over the duties of chairman of the speech department this fall, succeeding Dr. P. Merville Larson, who has resigned to accept a position at the University of Denver.

Dr. Talley has taught at Nebraska Wesleyan University, and more recently at Texas State College for Women.

Gordon J. Chapman, holder of the bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Missouri, has been appointed instructor in business administration. He has served four and a half years in the U. S. Marine Corps, with the rank of major.

Carbondale, Ill., Aug. - Southern Illinois University will stage a large and comprehensive exhibit at the DuQuoin State Fair, Aug. 30-Sept. 6, according to Miss Lorena Drummond, director of the Information Service and chairman of the fair exhibits committee.

The University has been assigned the central section of the large new exhibit hall on the second floor of the Grandstand Building--120 feet of wall space on either side of the hall.

With the theme "A University Emerges for Southern Illinois," a central unit of the exhibit will portray Southern's organization as a University, with three major functions--teaching, research and service. A huge four-color chart will highlight these three functions, and will show the various branches of instruction carried on in the colleges of Education, Liberal Arts and Sciences, and Vocations and Professions, and in the Graduate School.

A large map of the United States will reveal in blue, and green and gold dots and red stars the various colleges and universities over the country where Southern faculty members have been educated.

Showing research activities as a university function will be displays from the new Biological Science Research Laboratory, the Library, the Lincoln library collection, and the Museum.

Service activities will be depicted in charts, graphs, films, models, and photographs, and by equipment of various kinds.

Films from the Audio-Visual Aid Service which are available to schools and other organizations will be shown daily, as will a motion picture of "Maroon Athletics on Parade" and a foreign science film.

A wire recorder will be operated for a period each day by the speech department, to enable Fair visitors to hear their own voices, and another recording device will be operated by the foreign language department.

The zoology department exhibit will feature live hamsters, tiny golden brown animals which are used instead of guinea pigs for laboratory purposes.

An 1831 McCormick reaper will be exhibited by the Museum.

Two cases of rare historical books from the Clint Clay Tilton Library of Lincolniana.

The Corn Bowl football trophy and the N.I.A.B. basket ball banner won by Maroon athletic teams will be displayed.

A huge wall relief map of Southern Illinois and a relief model of several Southern Illinois counties will be shown by the geography department.

A model nursery school-kindergarten, murals done by grade school children, several prize-winning science projects from University High School, and a series of architect's sketches for well-planned public schools will be included in the College of Education section.

Dolls, appropriately dressed, will illustrate the various types of training offered by the home economics department.

Every branch, department and activity of the University will be represented in the display.

The University has throughout the summer displayed sections of the exhibit at county fairs of Southern Illinois, including the following: Washington, Massac, Perry, Pope, St. Clair, Franklin, Johnson, Wayne, Wabash, Union, White, and Clay counties. Displays will also be shown at the Williamson County Fair, Sept. 6-10, and the Richland County Fair, Sept. 12-17.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. - "School starts" for some 1,000 or 1,200 new students at Southern Illinois University Wednesday, Sept. 8, instead of Monday, Sept. 13, official registration day, according to Dr. Marshall S. Hiskey, dean of men and chairman of Freshman.

Set up to help freshmen and other new students "get off on the right foot," Freshman Week will enable these newcomers to register without delay, with a comprehensive understanding of the University, its various student services, the program of study they want to undertake, and a large circle of new acquaintances.

Freshmen who do not report for Freshman Week, Dean Hiskey cautioned, will be delayed in registering, since they must take a variety of tests, including their physical examinations, and they will miss much valuable information that will assist them in selecting wisely the courses they will take.

Already more than 225 families of new students have indicated they will be on hand for the faculty-student-parent picnic lunch at 11:30 on the opening day of Freshman Week.

The schedule for Freshman Week includes convocations, conferences with deans and department chairmen, tours of the library, campus tours, physical examinations, a session on how to register, and the various freshman tests---aptitudes, reading, English and music.

Social and recreational activities are liberally sprinkled throughout Freshman Week, and include the picnic lunch, a freshman mixer, parties at the Student Christian Foundation, Baptist Foundation and Anthony Hall, a morning snack party, and a campus movie and weiner roast.

Fraternity and sorority rush activities will start at 2:45 Thursday afternoon, and ^{will} be continued Friday afternoon and on Saturday morning. Y.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. retreats will start Friday afternoon. Church services will be held at all Carbondale churches on Sunday morning.

Official registration for the fall term will begin Monday morning, Sept. 13, at 8 a. m.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. - Resignation of Dr. Chester F. Lay as president of Southern Illinois University, effective Sept. 10, brings to a close what is perhaps the most eventful period thus far in the institution's 74-year history.

During the three and three-fourths years since President Lay came to Southern, the institution has made the change from a teachers training institution to a full-scale university, recognized as such both by law and by national educational accrediting agencies.

Three undergraduate colleges, a Graduate School, and an expanded Division of Extension and Adult Education program have been placed in operation to achieve a university-type organization.

Carrying out the three functions of a real university--teaching, research and service--Southern has almost doubled its teaching staff in the past three and three-fourths years, has established a number of new services for both students and the public, and has launched an internationally known Biological (and cancer) Research Laboratory, and stimulated a number of other smaller research projects.

Other major developments during the Lay administration include:

1. Legal change of the institution's name to Southern Illinois University.

2. Increased operating budgets during the past two bienniums. The biennial appropriations for operation of the University have been boosted from 1 1/2 million dollars for 1943-45 to four and one-half million dollars for 1947-49.

2. Increased appropriations for physical plant expansion. For 1945-47 the University received 4 2/3 million dollars for physical plant expansion, including land acquisition and buildings. The land purchase program was carried out, but post-war shortages and rising costs prevented actual start of building construction. Reappropriations made by the General Assembly for 1947-49 provided funds for the construction of a $1,400,000 power plant and utility distribution tunnels, and a 2 1/2 million dollar training school project.

3. Physical plant expansion started. Approximately 50 tracts of land adjacent to the campus have been purchased, at a cost of approximately $700,000. The major network of new utility distribution tunnels has been completed to service not only the present campus but the proposed expanded campus. Construction is under way on the new power plant and the new training school project.

In the land acquisition program, a large number of residences were acquired, which have been converted to house educational activities or faculty members as rapidly as they are vacated. As departments or activities are moved into these residences, space is released in permanent buildings for additional classes, laboratories or offices.

To further enlarge the University's educational space, Southern has secured Army buildings which have been converted into five classroom, library and office buildings.

4. Two veterans housing projects, accommodating 200 student veterans and their families, have been developed.

5. New university-type services have been started: student counseling and testing, housing counseling, veterans housing supervision, alumni service, information service, and field service. Other activities formerly carried on part-time by faculty members have placed under the direction of a full-time specialist--such as extension and adult education, and dormitory supervision. Physical plant, and the library. The Film Service has been expanded into the Audio-Visual Aid Service with a full-time director.

6. Research stimulated. For the past three years, faculty members have been encouraged to engage in research, aided by monetary grants or by partial relief from their teaching loads. Graduate students have been stimulated to carry on advanced work by the award of graduate assistantships or faculty assistants to outstanding candidates.

On January 1, 1948, a new Biological Science Research Laboratory was opened, with an international recognized geneticist at its head. This scientist, since he has been at Southern, has already made a number of scientific reports that have attracted widespread attention. He has spoken at a number of scientific meetings in this country, and spent several weeks this summer in Europe, appearing before international scientific congresses in Sweden and France.

7. Enrollment has reached an all-time peak of 2,855 students during the fall term of 1947. Enrollment in off-campus extension classes has reached an all-time peak of 2,322 last year.

8. The faculty has been increased from 127 in January, 1945, to 227 staff members at the present time.

When President Lay on Sept. 10 turns the administration of the University over to the incoming president, Dr. D. W. Morris, he will place in his hands an institution which continues its long teacher training service in Southern Illinois, but one which has been transformed into a recognized regional university in full operation, with broad and solid foundations for greatness.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. 10 - With some 1,300 to 1,500 freshmen and new students expected, including those who started during the summer term, enrollment at Southern Illinois University this fall will probably shoot above last fall's peak of 2,855, according to latest estimates.

More than 900 of the incoming freshman class are well on the way to becoming "old hands," as they complete Freshman Week today and tomorrow. They will have completed all their preliminary tests and physical examinations, and have been briefed on how to enroll and what to take, and on registration days will be able to sign up without delay.

New freshmen who have not participated in Freshman Week will be required to take the freshman tests before registering.

Registration will start Monday morning, Sept. 13, at 8 a. m. and will proceed on the following schedule: 8 a. m., students working in registration; 8:30 a. m., students whose last names begin with letters from T through Z, and also veterans entering under Public Law 16; 10 a. m., students whose names begin with letters A through B; 11 a. m., C-E; 1 p. m., F-H. Tuesday, 9 a. m., I-Mc; 10 a. m. M-P; 11 a. m., Q-S; 1 p. m. completion.

Late registrants may enroll up to noon, Saturday, Sept. 18.

Classes will begin at 8 a. m. Wednesday, Sept. 15.

A total of 285 courses are being offered this fall in 30 departments

The department of biological science and research, newly created, will offer four new courses all for graduate students: "Genetics of Lower Plants and Animals," "Metabolism of the cell," and "Research in Cell Metabolism."

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. 10 - As Southern Illinois University opens its 75th regular long session next Monday, Sept. 13, returning students will be greeted by 30 new full-time faculty members.

Some of these new people began their duties during the summer session, but 17 of them are making their first appearance with the opening of the fall term.

In addition, 17 part-time teachers have also been added during the summer or appointed for the fall term, giving the University a total of 228 faculty and administrative staff members on duty this fall.

The list of new personnel includes three full professors, seven associate professors, five assistant professors, eight instructors, and seven administrative staff members.

The list of course is headed by a new president, Dr. D. W. Morris, who is expected to be on campus by Monday morning to start his official duties. Dr. Morris comes to Southern from Ohio State University where he was professor of speech and director of a speech correction service. He succeeds, as president of Southern, Dr. Chester F. Lay, who has resigned to accept a position as professor and chairman of a new department of management in the School of Business at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas. Dr. Lay leaves for his new post this weekend.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. - Southern Illinois University, minus six key players from last season, will be forced to rely upon newcomers as they begin preparations for defense of their Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship.

The missing men include Bill Malinsky/^{of Flora} All-Conference full-back, "Bunker" Jones of West Frankfort, who received recognition on last seasons Little All American team, George Sawyer of Moro, regular right half, and Bob Etheridge of Fairfield, a standout at guard.

The quarterback slot appears to be the hardest hit as three of last season's signal callers are missing. Little Pat Kelly of Murphysboro is the only man returning with experience at leading the team although Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin is counting heavily on Bill Fly of Carbondale to fill the bill. Fly, although small, is a ball handler deluxe plus an excellent passer.

John Ruzich, a 195 pound fullback from Johnston City, and Tommy Gher of Carbondale, a center, have both returned to school after lettering previously at Southern. The two did not compete last season.

Other newcomers expected to help out this season include Roy Loman, 185 pound guard from Benton, Don Cross, a Christopher product who plays tackle, and Gobby Etherton of Carbondale who tips the scales at 250. Backfield prospects other than Fly include Don Oyler, 190-pound halfback from Hoopeston, Jack French of Murphysboro, Bob Diviac of East Chicago, and Fred Brendle of Staunton.

Southern will open its 1948 season against Wayne University in Detroit on September 25.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. 13 - Before this week is out, Dr. D. W. Morris, new president of Southern Illinois University, will have met with every major group connected with the University, and will have been introduced to a number of civic organizations.

He arrived on the campus Friday morning, and that afternoon spent nearly 4 1/2 hours in session with the Long-Term Planning Committee and two Chicago architects, considering the University's long-range and immediate building program.

The architects, Joseph F. Booton, chief of design for the State Division of Architecture and Engineering, and Chance Hill, consulting architect, submitted latest estimates on construction of the proposed buildings.

A second meeting of the committee with the President is scheduled for tomorrow (Tuesday) for final study of the plans, and announcement is expected by mid-week, giving details of the building program which the University will request from the General Assembly in January.

President Morris held his first press conference this afternoon, followed that with a general faculty meeting, and met with the council of the University Alumni Association at a dinner session tonight.

On Tuesday, he will also hold a meeting with the non-faculty employees of the University.

Wednesday, he will meet with the Student Council at 3 p. m., and at 6:30 will address the Carbondale Businessmen's Association at a dinner meeting.

Toward the middle of the week, Dr. Morris plans to return to Columbus, Ohio for a brief period, to settle his affairs there, where he was professor of speech at Ohio State University.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. 14 - Southern Illinois University, bolstered by a resolution adopted unanimously today by the Jackson County Board of Supervisors, is proceeding to apply for legal title to the 35 buildings in its 105-apartment Chautauqua Street veterans housing project, according to E. R. Wolfe, veterans housing supervisor.

Wolfe said that the Board of Supervisors today adopted a resolution giving its approval to waiver of the section of the Lanham housing act which would have required removal of the buildings by January, 1949.

Further approval of the State Director of Registration and Education and the Attorney General must be obtained, Wolfe said.

The University secured the temporary housing project under the Lanham Act which permitted educational institutions to obtain surplus war buildings for conversion into veterans housing but which provided that the temporary structures be demolished by January, 1949.

The 80th Congress, however, enacted the McGregor Act, signed by President Truman June 28, 1948, permitting any educational institution to apply for and receive title to any veterans housing project located on land owned or controlled by the college or university.

"Without the resolution by the Jackson County Board of Supervisors," Mr. Wolfe said, "we should have to remove the buildings, so we are gratified that we could demonstrate the continued need for the use of the buildings and could show that we are maintaining them as desirable living quarters."

Attention: Sports Editors

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. -Southern Illinois University began preparations in earnest today for their inaugural tilt of the 1948 campaign with Wayne University in Detroit on the night of September 25.

Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin sent his 76 charges through a long two-hour scrimmage session in an effort to determine the strength of his 1948 Maroons. He was well pleased with the showing of some of his newcomers, especially little Bill Fly of Carbondale who is vieing for the signal calling slot with the veteran Pat Kelly of Murphysboro. Fly was a standout at Carbondale Community High last season and gained wide recognition for his expert ball handling and passing.

Others seeking the quarterback berth include Fred Brenzel, 175 pound punting star from Staunton, Herb Cummings of Harrisburg who spent a month working out with the Illini before reporting to the Maroon squad, and Don LaSusa of Murphysboro who lettered at guard for Southern in 1944 and has now turned his talent to the backfield.

Both of last season's scat-backs, George Beltz of Marion and Bob Johnson of DuQuoin, were sidelined with injuries giving Chuck Ohler of Hoopeston and Bill Collard of Carmi a chance to exploit their wares. Martin was especially pleased with the performance of Ohler, who is a speedy back despite his 190 pounds.

The fullback slot appears to be nailed down with John Ruzich of Johnston City returning to Southern after a year's absence. He apparently has lost none of his drive and speed by his year's lay-off. Understudies of promise include Bob Diviac of Chicago, and Jack French of Murphysboro who last season performed with the Red Devils undefeated, untied, and unscored upon football machine.

The center of the line appears to be strong with lettermen Bill Cosgrove of Benton and Tommy Gher of Carbondale as alternates at the center spot plus Harvey Stocker, husky 215-pounder who checked into camp Monday after transferring from Mohawk College. While at Mohawk, Stocker was a standout for two seasons.

Coach Martin has added strength to the guards by shifting Jay Pieron of Murphysboro from his normal center position. Pieron, a stocky lad weighing 215 pounds excels on defense. Martin has also shifted Chuck Heinz of Gillespie from fullback to aid regulars Jim Lovin of Benton and June Gross of DuQuoin. Another promising prospect at guard is Roy Loman, 17 year old freshman from Benton.

One noticeable weakness is the lack of experience of the tackle reserves. Captain John Corn 220-pounder from Benton, and Warren Littleford of Vandalia are certain to be the regulars with a flock of others fighting for second team berths. Leading the pack at present are Don Cross of Christopher who is a converted fullback, Dick Etherton, a giant from Carbondale, who stands six feet four inches tall and weighs 225 pounds, Bill Thompson of Mt. Vernon who won a major letter in 1946, and Joe Trapani of Johnston City.

There is also a lack of capable reserve ends with experience to back up regulars Bob Colborn of Flora, Joe Hughes of West Frankfort, and Galen Davis of DuQuoin. This trio gives Southern one of the finest combinations in the history of the school but unless they can be nearly 60-minute men, Southern will be weak on the flanks. Two men, Jerry Wiley of Plano and Fred Oppen of Carlinville, were with the Maroon "B" squad last season and they might be pressed into service if needed.

Southern, however, does not at this time appear to be as strong as they were last season when they waltzed away with the Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship and the first annual Corn Bowl game championship held in Bloomington on Thanksgiving Day.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. -Two members of last season's Illinois State Basketball Championship team have enrolled at Southern Illinois University, it was learned today. The Pinckneyville pair, Frank "Pud" Gladson and Tom Millikan, were both instrumental in the Panther parade to the coveted state title.

Gladson, "the darling of the state tourney", was chosen captain of the All-Tourney team the past season and was also a member of the All-Tourney team in 1947. While at Pinckneyville high, he was also a standout at football but he has given up the gridiron to begin early preparations for the 1948-49 basketball season.

Millikan specializes in rebounding and "feeding" and his abilities played a huge part in the success of the Panther quintet. Aside from his basketball techniques, Tom is a half-miler and his running abilities should add considerable strength to the Maroon cinder squad.

Both men will begin basketball drills at Southern under the guidance of Coach Lynn Holder the first of next week.

Another outstanding freshman to register was Kenny Anderson of East St. Louis. This 18-year-old lad won ten major letters while attending East Side high. Four of these came in track, three in cross country, and three in basketball. He, too, will begin basketball practice next week.

Note to Editor: This story was filed to wire services last night but is being sent you in full for your information--LD.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. 15 - Partial condemnation of the library building at Southern Illinois University came today from C. Herrick Hammond, State supervising architect, Springfield, in a telegram to Edward V. Miles, Jr., University business manager.

The wire also forecast extensive repairs needed for Old Main Building.

The telegram recommended vacating the stackroom section of the building until the loading is reduced by 75 per cent, and also reduced loading of the reading room section.

State Director of Education and Registration Frank G. Thompson, chairman of Southern's governing board, in a wire to University President D. W. Morris, directed compliance with the State architect's recommendations, in order to protect the physical safety of the student body.

"In our opinion," Hammond stated, "structural repairs to this building to enable continued use as library not economically feasible.

"Roof construction of Old Main Building requires extensive repairs recommendation to follow."

University officials immediately started a search for some available space for the books to be removed from the library. President Morris hoped for recommendations in the morning from the space committee

"We are desperate for building space," the president said.

"With nearly three thousand students enrolled this fall, to be accommodated in a library build in 1903 to accommodate a student body of 250 or three hundred, we are already in a serious plight. There is at present no space on this campus to store the books that must be removed, and no place that can be converted into a supplementary reading room.

"With Old Main as our principal classroom building, if the roof repairs require halting of classes there, we shall just be in an impossible situation."

University authorities and building committee have been meeting during the past week drafting a list of new buildings to be asked from the next legislature. The first unit of a new library is No. 1 on the list of new construction, superseded only by funds to complete a power plant, now under construction, and to complete a training school for which contracts have been awarded.

"Southern has had no classroom building since 1928," President Morris declared.

"The entire physical plant is completely inadequate for the demands placed upon it. It would be inadequate in size for a student body one-third that now enrolled, and none of its buildings are sufficiently modern for present-day needs.

"Because of the antiquated nature of the plant, so well illustrated by the findings of the State architect, it is clear that Southern Illinois University is literally faced with a need for a new physical plant.

"Now the necessary abandonment of essential buildings places the University in a most difficult situation. There are only eight permanent-type buildings on the campus, and now it appears that two of them will be withdrawn from full use."

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. - Removal of books from the library building of Southern Illinois University to the basement of Anthony Hall, girls' dormitory, to the library basement, and to the basement of the Old Science Building is being started, to lighten the load on the over-weighted structure, Dr. Marshall S. Hiskey, chairman of the space committee, reports.

Clearance of much of the book load of the library has been recommended by State Architect C. Herrick Hammond as a safety measure.

The 47,000 books to be placed in the basements of Anthony Hall and the library building can be available for student use, it is expected. Space is still being sought for another approximately 13,000 volumes.

Other space assignments being made this fall, to afford fullest possible accommodations for the 2,885 students currently enrolled, include the following:

Offices of the deans of the College of Education, the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, and the College of Vocations, and the office of the chairman of the Graduate Studies Committee will be moved in a few days to the new temporary office building, located on Harwood Street.

The deans of men and women and the testing, employment and housing services will be moved soon to 305 Harwood Street.

The Audio-Visual Aids Service will be moved to a former residence at 310 W. Grand.

The business administration, sociology and speech departments--offices and classes--have already moved to the temporary classroom buildings on West Chautauqua Street.

The government department is moving to the third floor of Old Main Building, while Harwood Hall--released by government and sociology--will be occupied entirely by the Health Service. This move will give the Health Service two buildings, both former residences.

President D. W. Morris will occupy a residence at 1006 S. Thompson.

Several further moves are being considered by the space committee, Dean Hiskey said, in order to accommodate the unprecedented enrollment this fall.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. - Football Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin of Southern Illinois University was sporting a big smile on the campus today because of the return to school of George "Bonehead" Sawyer, his regular right halfback of a year ago.

Sawyer, baseball captain of the Maroons for 1948, dropped out of school in the spring to assume a position with the New York Yankee baseball farm team at Joplin, Mo., but has returned to Southern to resume his education. An important cog in last season's Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and Corn Bowl championships, Sawyer will be eligible to compete in football this fall.

Coach Martin's smile faded sharply, however, when it was disclosed that George Beltz of Marion has been forced to drop football because of an increased academic load. George, a three year letterwinner at Southern on the gridiron, was counted upon heavily to aid in the backfield with his speed and deceptiveness. His loss will be keenly felt. Recently married, Beltz must work during his spare time.

He stated that he plans on participating in track in the spring. Last spring, he acted as track captain and during the cinder schedule, he established a new track record for Southern by clipping off the half-mile in 2.01.6.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. - Several recommendations of proposed plans were discussed at Bloomington on Saturday as the Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference coaches met for their annual fall meeting. These suggestions will be acted upon at the winter meeting of the I.I.A.C. in Chicago.

Among the proposals was a rotating schedule for basketball to be set up for a period of five years. Another was the proposal of a plan to eliminate postponed games during the baseball season. Games that cannot be played on the specified date will be cancelled rather than put off to a future date, thus eliminating the chance of one team refusing to play off a rained out game in order to protect their league standing.

One item definitely decided upon was that the cross-country conference meet will be held at Normal on Nov. 13.

Those attending the meeting from Southern Illinois University included Director of Athletics Glenn "Abe" Martin, track coach Leland "Doc" Lingle, basketball mentor Lynn Holder, Cecil Franklin, the new chairman of physical education for men, and Norm Nilsson of Granite City, student reporter.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. - Orrin Tucker and his orchestra will play for Southern Illinois University's 1948 Homecoming dance to be held Saturday night October 16, according to Dr. Orville Alexander, faculty chairman of the Homecoming committee.

"The Danciest Band in the Land," as the group is billed, will bring to the Southern campus some new and novel ideas of musical expression. Tucker has created an original effect for his organization by using colored lights to express the mood of the various instruments of the band.

The organization, with featured vocalist Jeri Ray, comes to Carbondale after a successful tour of hotels and theaters across the country. Some of the outstanding engagements include the Palmer House and the Chicago Theater in Chicago, the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, and the Paramount Theater in Los Angeles.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. - Two girls from Hawaii and a graduate student from India have enrolled at Southern Illinois University this fall.

The Indian student is Mohini Mundkur, 20-year-old wife of Balaji Mundkur, young Indian scientist who is carrying on microbiological research in Southern's Biological Science Research Laboratory here for his doctor's degree at Washington University, St. Louis.

Mrs. Mundkur's native costumes have become the talk of the campus, and she has become a popular favorite at the Chautauqua Street emergency housing project where she and her husband have an apartment. A graduate of the University of Bombay, she is taking graduate work here in education.

The Hawaiian girls are Florence Kee-ra-ha-ra and Helen Miyabara, both from the island of Maui.

Although they knew each other at home, neither knew the other was to enroll at Southern. Now they are roommates.

Florence, 19, whose home is at Paia, attended Eastern New Mexico State College, Portales, last year. She is majoring in music, with piano as her specialty.

Helen, also 19, has had two years' study at the University of Hawaii. She is studying to become a medical technologist. Her home is at Makawao.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. - Homecoming for 1948 and plans for the returning Alumni have started to roll at Southern Illinois University. The Homecoming Committee has just released its schedule of events for what each year amounts to be the two biggest days at Southern. The dates this year are Oct. 15 and 16.

Dave Rendleman, a sophomore from Anna, has been elected student general chairman by representatives of approximately 75 campus organizations. Dr. Orville Alexander, director of Alumni Services, is faculty chairman.

The program for the two days will include a pep rally, a Little Theatre play, "Kiss and Tell," a parade, the Southern-Western football game, and the climax Saturday night with the dance and coronation of the Homecoming Queen.

In addition to Rendleman, the steering committee includes nine students: assistant general chairman, Lewis Waters of E. St. Louis, and the following sub-committee chairmen: publicity, Rod Kraatz of Ullin; pep committee, Ruth Beach of Herrin; parade committee, Lou Gaskins of Harrisburg; decorations committee, Martha Spear of Carbondale; dance committee, Ralph Myers of Grand Chain; concessions, Bill Bonali of Herrin; finance, Virgil Spruell of Mt. Carmel; and queen committee, Dan Cox of West Frankfort. Each student chairman is assisted by a member of the faculty who serves as sponsor.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. - Announcement of a series of three children's plays, sponsored by the American Association of University Women, has gone out this week to public schools of Southern Illinois, according to Mrs. Ledford J. Bischof, faculty assistant at Southern Illinois University and chairman of the play series.

The plays will be presented by the Clare Tree Major Children's Theater, in Shryock Auditorium on the University campus.

For the past two years, A.A.U.W. has sponsored one play each year, but because of the popularity of the productions has expanded the program this year, Mrs. Bischof said.

Plays on the schedule this year are "Little Women," Dec. 9; "Toby Tyler," Jan. 24; and "Hanzel and Gretel," March 17.

Season tickets will be available in a few days. Inquiries concerning tickets may be sent to Mrs. Alice Rector, ticket chairman, care Southern Illinois University.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. -After dropping the season's opener to Wayne University, 26-0, in Detroit last Saturday, the Southern Illinois University Maroons are making preparations for their Carbondale debut on Saturday of this week against Cape Girardeau. Both team will be seeking their initial win of the young season as Cape was beaten Saturday by Middle Tennessee, 20 to 7.

Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin was not discouraged by the showing of his Maroons at Detroit and is grooming them with renewed vigor for the home opener this Saturday.

Two Wayne scat-backs, Charley Morgan and Johnny Hazely, proved to be more than the local lads could handle as they scooted for 53 and 60 yards respectively during the course of the game. Outside of these two runs, the Southerners played Wayne on an even keel until the middle of the fourth quarter when they weakened and allowed the Michiganders to tally the final two touchdowns.

Southern was hampered on the first play of the game when George Sawyer of Moro was slightly injured and saw little action during the remaining part of the game. Sawyer, who was expected to carry the blunt of the Maroon attack, will be back in action for the Cape encounter.

The following players made the trip: Bill Fly, Carbondale; Pat Kelly, Murphysboro; Bob Johnson, DuQuoin; Bill Collard, Carmi.

Bob Myers, Carmi; Bob Colborn, Flora; Galen Davis, DuQuoin;
Lexington, Ky.
Lawrence Wheeler; Herb Cummins, Harrisburg; Dick Seelman, Flora; Tom

The first part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the general principles of the theory of the structure of the atom. It is shown that the structure of the atom is determined by the laws of quantum mechanics, which are based on the principle of the conservation of energy and the principle of the conservation of momentum. The second part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the experimental results obtained in the study of the structure of the atom. It is shown that the experimental results are in good agreement with the theoretical predictions of quantum mechanics. The third part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the applications of the theory of the structure of the atom. It is shown that the theory of the structure of the atom has many important applications in the fields of physics, chemistry, and biology.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. -An ancient Chinese writer got a 2200-year jump on the rest of the world's economists, according to a Southern Illinois University economist.

Written in the fourth century B.C., the Kuan-Tzu was the first contribution to economic thought on the quantity theory of money, declares Dr. Lewis A. Maverick, professor and chairman of Southern's economics department.

Dr. Maverick points out that no economic philosopher after the Chinese writer contributed any comprehensive study on the theory until the writing of Jean Bodin in the fifteenth century.

A series of lectures will be presented during October by Dr. Maverick in the Clint Clay Tilton library. The material will be based in large part upon a translation of the Kuan-Tzu now being completed by Tan Po-fu, a graduate student from Lias-Ning Province, Manchuria, who began his study at Southern last December.

On Oct. 2, the topic will be "The Concern for Agriculture"; Oct. 16, "The Quantity Theory of Money"; and "Statism, Planning and Totalitarianism," on Oct. 30.

Dr. Maverick first became interested in the study of Chinese works while serving as chairman of the economics department at the University of Southern California in 1935. He came to Southern in September, 1946.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. - It will be a crippled band of Southern Illinois University Maroons that will face the Cape Girardeau Indians on the Carbondale gridiron Saturday. Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin's charges, hampered by the rained-out practice sessions this week, and the minor injuries suffered at Wayne, will definitely not be up to par for the Cape encounter on Saturday.

Bill "Cotton" Cosgrove, scrappy center from Benton, received a severe wrist sprain in Detroit and will see limited service as will his replacement, Harvey Stocker of Utica, N. Y. who is nursing an old leg ailment. To ease the shortage at the center slot, Coach Martin has returned Jay Pieron of Murphysboro to the pivot position. Jay, a 215-pounder, had been shifted to guard earlier in the season. Tommy Gher of Carbondale will also see plenty of action at the center post.

Backfield men missing for Saturday's home opener include Bill Collard, promising freshman halfback from Carmi who is suffering from a shoulder separation, Pat Kelly, second string signal caller from Murphysboro with a foot ailment, and Chuck Oyler, powerfully built 190-pound halfback from Hoopeston who will be lost to the Maroons for half of the season with a broken bone in his right foot. Oyler was expected to do the major share of the punting for the Martinmen this year. Jack French, freshman fullback from Murphysboro, will also see limited action due to a minor recurrence of an old knee injury.

Warren Littleford, ministerial student from Vandalia, will be slightly handicapped at his left tackle position due to a minor leg injury received in the Wayne University game.

Other Maroonmen returned from Michigan intact and appear ready to redeem themselves for the Wayne contest. Coach Martin has been drilling his charges on passing this week in an attempt to better their four-out-of-seventeen record of completions against Wayne, and Saturday's fracas may find the air loaded with Southern aerials. Dick Seelman of Flora and Billy Fly of Carbondale did the major share of the passing against the Tartars in Detroit and the same combination is expected to toss the pigskin this weekend.

The Southern-Cape game will be aired by radio stations WCIL of Carbondale and WJPF of Herrin. Game time is 2 o'clock.

Students from 57 high schools in Southern Illinois have been invited to participate in the choral group which is expected to exceed 700 voices. Arrangements for the clinic-festival are in charge of Floyd V. Wakeland, associate professor of music and director of the Southern choir.

The clinic was first organized in 1941 for the purpose of helping the high school choir directors to stimulate interest and enthusiasm in their organizations.

The first choir was directed by Mr. Wakeland and David S. McIntosh, associate professor of music at Southern. After this beginning, the event grew very rapidly and has featured such nationally famous conductors as Howard Kelsey, Nobel Cain, Walter Aschenbrenner, Peter Tkach, Olaf Christiansen, and Maynard Cline.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. - Eighty-six Southern Illinois University students are carrying the load of arrangements for the 1948 alumni Homecoming scheduled for Oct. 15-16. This large committee is headed by Dave Rendleman of Anna-Jonesboro as general student chairman, assisted by Lewis Waters of East St. Louis, assistant chairman. Dr. Orville Alexander, director of Alumni Services, is general faculty chairman.

Several pre-Homecoming rallies and assemblies are planned for students before the alumni reunion actually opens. One of these, on Wednesday morning, will introduce the Homecoming steering committee, composed of sub-committee chairmen and faculty sponsors. Queen candidates and nominees for Queen's attendants will also be presented. Thursday night, a giant pre-Homecoming rally and bonfire will be held on the old football field, when freshmen will burn their green ribbons and become accepted as full-fledged members of the student body.

On Friday morning a rally will present the 1948 Maroon football team.

Homecoming will officially open with the Little Theatre Play, "Kiss and Tell" on Friday night. Saturday morning will be given over to organizations' reunion breakfasts and the varsity-alumni women's hockey game. At 12 noon, the Homecoming Parade will start from downtown and end up passing through the stadium in front of the crowd gathered for the Southern-Western football game.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. - Athletic Director and Head Football Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin of Southern Illinois University was the principal speaker at the Illinois State Engineers banquet in Christopher this week (Tuesday evening).

Martin's topic was the "Trends in Football." He discussed the number of participants of the game down through the years, the various formations used since the beginning of the game, the changes in equipment since football's origin, and in general, surmized the progress of the game in the past decade.

He followed this with a brief analysis of his 1948 Maroon eleven pointing out the strong and weak points of his squad and how this year's edition would stack up against Southern standouts of yester years.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. - Dry-outs for the Southern Illinois University cross-country team were held Tuesday evening with eight boys reporting to Coach Leland P. "Doc" Lingle and then running the gruelling distance through hill and through dale.

Three returning letterwinners of a year ago made the jaunt with Joe McLafferty of Carbondale setting the pace. Last season, Joe went undefeated during the harrier schedule.

Other lettermen finishing the three-mile jag were Ed Miller of Carbondale and Leonard Burden of Herrin. A surprise finisher was Art Menendez of E. St. Louis. Art finished strong to take third place behind McLafferty and Ray Palmer of Belleville.

Phil Coleman of Carbondale rallied to finish fourth ahead of Miller and Burden and it appears that Menendez and Coleman will be pushing the regulars of last season for positions when the Maroon winter track squad opens its season at Eastern October 7.

Other boys coming in for some consideration are Lowell O'Daniel of Lane Tech High in Chicago and Valdean McFarland of Centralia.

The schedule for the remainder of the season is as follows:

October 16	Western here
October 23	State Normal there
November 3	Eastern here
November 13	Conference meet at State Normal

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. - Revenge is the keynote of the daily Southern Illinois University practice sessions as they prepare for Saturday's encounter with the always strong Indiana State Scyamores on the Maroon gridiron. The Sycamores were one of the two teams to defeat Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin's championship team of a year ago as they outfought the Martinmen at Terre Haute to gain a 21 to 6 verdict.

Southern will enter Saturday's game as the underdog for the Indiana lads have annexed to straight wins this season, a thrilling 9 to 7 victory over Illinois Normal and a 14 to 0 conquest of Valparaiso.

The Maroons, on the other hand, dropped the season's opener to Wayne University in Detroit 26 to 0 and then rallied to push back a stubborn Cape Girardeau eleven, 25 to 13, last Saturday.

Martin has changed the personnel on the Maroon forward wall in an attempt to bolster his defense. Jim Lovin of Benton, All-Conference guard of a year ago, has been shifted to left tackle, and Jay Pieron, 215-pounder from Murphysboro, will operate at Lovin's old position. Defense was the only notable weakness in the Southern win over Cape last week and Martin believes the changes will give him a well-balanced eleven.

The Sycamore's attack is built around a pair of halfbacks, Bob Chester of Vincennes and Max Woosley of Linton. This combination has scored all of the Indiana points thus far. Woosley with three tallies to his credit and Chester with three conversions and a field goal. These two men should give Coach Martin an indication of the strength of his lineup changes.

Maroon fullback John Ruzich of Johnston City, who incidentally picked up 106 yards in 23 tries against Cape, will be out of action due to a severely sprained left ankle and Bob Divjak, an East Chicago lad, will operate at the full back slot in his absence. Third string full back, Jack French of Murphysboro, will also see a limited amount of action due to the recurrence of an old knee injury.

Saturday's game regardless of the outcome, should give the Southern fans a pretty good idea of the strength of the Maroons this year in comparison to the I.I.A.C. champs of last year.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. - The Division of Extension and Adult Education at Southern Illinois University is offering 22 classes in the Southern Illinois towns this fall with a total enrollment of 1109.

Despite the fact that this is a decrease from last year's enrollment of 1,333, 14 of this year's group are considered overloaded in that each has more than 40 students enrolled, according to Raymond H. Dey, director of the extension service.

Additional classes cannot be provided at present, Dey said because of lack of staff. Teachers for extension classes are drawn from the regular University faculty, who are already heavily loaded in their on-campus courses because of the 3,000 enrollment of resident students.

It would be desirable, he explains, to add faculty specifically appointed to teach extension courses in certain fields. It is hoped this can be done during the next biennium, if funds are provided in the 1949-51 biennium appropriations. He also hopes that regular University departments will be able to furnish additional extension teachers as additional funds become available.

Most of the present courses now being offered are in the field of elementary education. Mr. Dey explains that this is the most urgent need at the present time because of the great shortage of teachers trained to teach in the elementary grades.

Last fall a course in public speaking for business and professional people was presented in Cairo. The course was so popular that it was repeated in the spring. This same demand exists in other areas as well. Courses in art, home economics, music and business are also in demand and will be offered as soon as possible.

Extension instructors last year travelled 91,000 miles in offering courses in the various towns of Southern Illinois. With more funds, that figure will be increased, says Dey, until courses are offered in every Southern Illinois town where the demand will warrant it.

Following is a list of communities where classes are being held this year: Anna, an education course, enrollment 41; Belleville, education, 52; Cairo, education, 47; Carmi, English, 45; Carmi, education, 11; Centralia, music, 71; Chester, education, 72; E. St. Louis, art, 65; Edwardsville, education, 96; Elizabethtown, history, 30; Fairfield, health education, 68; Harrisburg, English, 37; Harrisburg, English, 29; Marion, education, 92; Herrin, education, 40; Mt. Vernon, geography, 69; Nashville, education, 39; Pinckneyville, education, 74; Vienna, education, 36; Waterloo, geography, 36; West Frankfort, music, 59. The classes at Belleville and Carmi are offered for graduate credit if desired.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. - A survey of recent birth-rate statistics for Illinois indicates that at least a 25 per cent enrollment increase may be expected within the next three years in the elementary schools of the state, according to Dr. Howard E. Bosley, Southern Illinois University educator.

Dr. Bosley is chairman of Southern's committee of consultants on school reorganization.

The increase in school enrollments throughout the state is already occurring, and follows a period of relatively stable enrollment during the years 1937-45, when approximately 115,000 children entered the elementary schools of Illinois each year, Dr. Bosley said.

Considerable increases in first grade enrollments have been observed for 1947 and 1948 because of the birth rate increases during 1942 and 1943, he explained.

Additional increases may be expected in 1949 in most areas.

"However, the 170,921 children born in Illinois in 1946, who will reach the first grades by 1952, and the 192,287 children born in 1947 who will reach school age by 1953, will swell lower grade enrollments by almost 50 per cent over 1937-45 figures, will represent approximately a 25 per cent increase over the fall of 1948," he said.

"Figures now available indicate no marked increases in the number of children expected to enter school during 1950 and 1951, but school systems will need to prepare additional new buildings and enlarged teaching staffs to meet the enrollment crisis immediately after 1952.

"This is especially true in those areas in which schools are already crowded for space, and where teacher shortages exist."

Some schools, he pointed out, already have more than 45 pupils per room. Such schools can hardly stand a further increase of some 25 per cent.

"The high post-war birth rate may be expected to subside after a period of time," Dr. Bosley said, "and will result in enrollment reductions some six years after the peak is reached.

"However, an abnormally high elementary school enrollment of some 25 per cent over 1948 figures seems certain for 1952 to 1960, and in high schools from 1960 to 1964."

Birth rate data which were analyzed by Dr. Bosley were supplied by the Illinois State Department of Public Health.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. - All vocalists of Southern Illinois are invited to report for the first rehearsal of "The Messiah," to be presented as a pre-Christmas oratorio, according to Dr. Maurits Kesnar, Southern Illinois University music department chairman and conductor of the oratorio.

First rehearsal will be held Monday evening, Oct. 11, at 7:30 in the Little Theatre at the University.

This will be the third year this oratorio has been presented by the Southern Illinois Oratorio Society, organized by Dr. Kesnar. Outstanding professional soloists will sing the lead roles.

The University Choir, directed by Floyd V. Wakeland, associate professor of music, will participate, as will several Southern Illinois church choirs, but other organizations are invited to participate, as are individual singers, Dr. Kesnar said.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. - Recognition of Southern Illinois University's contribution to the World Student Service Fund has just been received by University officials.

The report from Robert J. Fairgrave, assistant general secretary, states that the contributions were spent for the distribution of a number of small libraries in the various university centers of Germany. These libraries contain books of a reference type which have been almost impossible to find in that country.

A program of collecting money for the students in war-wrecked sections of Europe is conducted on Southern's campus each year. Contributions are made by the students and organizations and sent to the WSSF central office in Geneva, Switzerland.

Release Thursday p.m.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. -The vanguard of thousands of alumni of Southern Illinois University who will attend the 74-year-old school's Homecoming today through Saturday have begun to filter in.

Students have already begun Homecoming festivities, with a special assembly Wednesday, arranged to introduce the student steering committee for Homecoming and the nominees for Queen, chosen in Tuesday's election.

Tonight, a giant bonfire and pep rally will be staged on the north edge of the football field, when freshmen will burn their green ribbons and University President D.W. Morris, Dr. Leo Brown of Carbondale, president of the Southern Alumni Association, Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin, and Dr. Orville Alexander, director of Alumni Services, will speak briefly.

Friday morning another pep meeting will be held at 10 a.m. to introduce the football team, and classes will be dismissed for the remainder of the week. In the afternoon, students will attend a free movie.

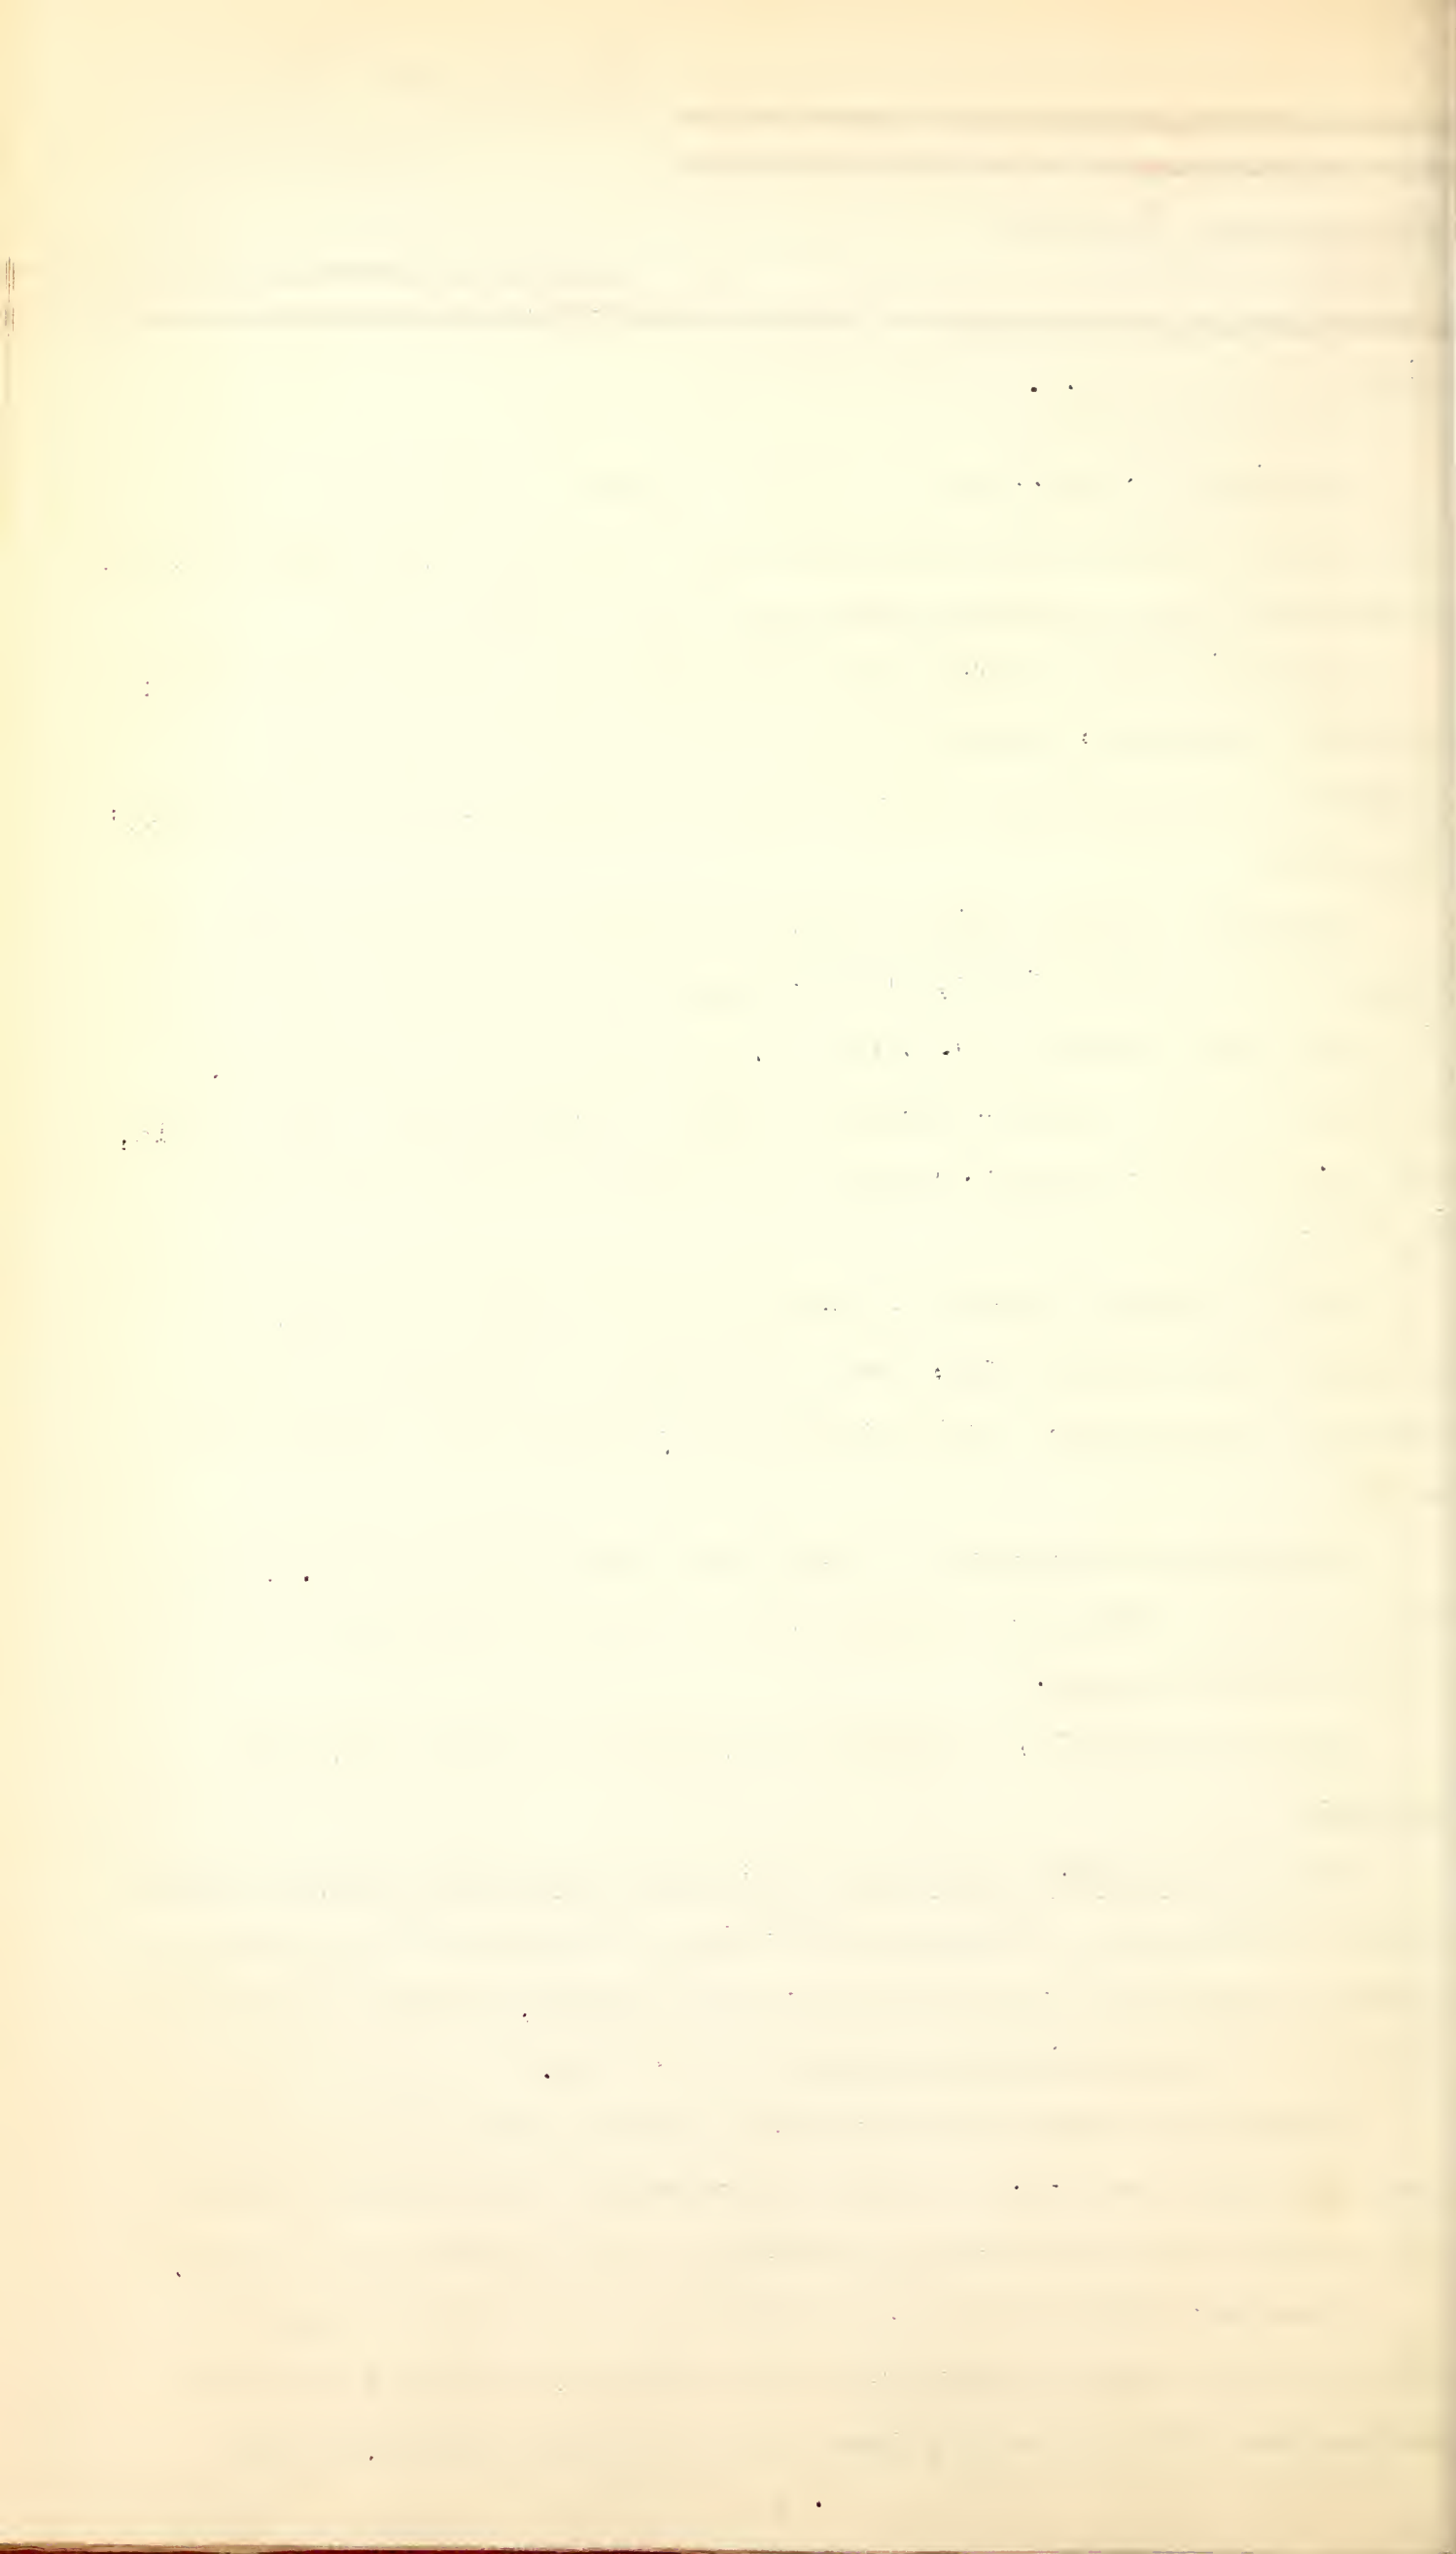

Homecoming officially gets under way Friday night at 8 p.m. The Little Theatre raises the curtain with its fall production, "Kiss and Tell," Broadway comedy.

Reunion breakfasts, luncheons and dinners dot the three-day program.

Saturday morning, after the Women's Athletic Association varsity-alumni hockey game, the Homecoming Parade is scheduled for 12 noon, to leave the downtown area and proceed to the Stadium, where it will pass in front of the grandstand beginning at 1 o'clock.

Kick-off for the Southern-Western Illinois State College football game is slated for 2 p.m. A dual cross-country meet between Southern and Western will also be run on Saturday, timed to finish at the half.

President Morris will extend greetings to the crowd during the half, and will present awards for the prize-winning floats and house decorations. The University Band, directed by Harold Hines, will execute special formations in tribute to the visiting alumni and to President Morris during the half.

The parade will include some 30 floats and several bands, according to student parade chairman Louis Gaskins of Harrisburg. Approximately 25 fraternity, sorority and other organized houses are decorating, Martha Spear of Carbondale, student chairman of house decorations, reports.

Approximately 1,000 "hotdogs" and 2,000 bottles of "pop" have been ordered by the concessions committee, headed by Bill Bonali of Freeman Spur, to refresh the crowds at various Homecoming events.

Joining the Homecoming Parade for its march through Carbondale will be the score of floats in the George Rogers Clark parade of the Greater Egypt Association which on Friday and Saturday is traveling through Southern Illinois over the route of the original Clark expedition.

Following the football game, an open house for all alumni will be held at Anthony Hall, girls dormitory.

Climax of Homecoming will be the dance on Saturday night, when at 11 o'clock the identity of the University co-ed chosen as Queen will be revealed. Dave Rendleman of Anna-Jonesboro, student Homecoming chairman, will serve as master of ceremonies. A half-hour program from the dance, including the coronation ceremony, will be broadcast over Station WJPF, Herrin from 10:45 to 11:15. John Corn of Benton, football captain, will officially crown the new queen. Music will be furnished by Orrin Tucker's orchestra.

Other students serving on the Homecoming Steering Committee and directing the activities of various committees, each with a faculty sponsor, include: Lewis Waters of East St. Louis, assistant general chairman; Pat Tope of Carbondale, secretary; publicity, Rodney Kraatz of Ullin; pep committee, Ruth Beach of Herrin; finance, Virgil Spruell of Mt. Carmel; Queen's committee, Dan Cox of West Frankfort; and dance, Ralph Myers of Grand Chain.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. --Although Southern Illinois University pounded out a decisive 20 to 6 victory over Indiana State on Saturday, their chances for continued success were dealt a major blow as Bob Colborn of Flora will be lost to the Maroons for the remainder of the gridiron season, because of an injury received in the Sycamore encounter.

Colborn, a member of last season's Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference All-Star team, suffered a dislocation of his left ankle and later X-rays disclosed a leg fracture just below the knee.

Bob was also chosen as the Most Valuable Player by his Maroon teammates last year and his loss will be keenly felt by the Martinnmen. His position will be capably filled by Galen Davis of Duquoin, a two-year letter winner.

The Maroons will open defense of their IIAAC championship Saturday when they entertain the Western Illinois Leathernecks in their annual Homecoming tussle. Western opened its conference play last week, losing to Eastern Illinois, 7 to 0.

Southern Coach Glenn "Abel" Martin indicated that he expects to have his Maroons at full strength, with the exception of Colborn, for the Macomb game. "Jarrin' John" Ruzich, pile-driving fullback from Johnston City and Warren Littleford of Vandalia, regular left tackle, both veiwed the Indiana game from the sidelines due to injuries but both are expected to return to action on Saturday.

Both Pat Kelly of Murphysboro and Billy Fly of Carbondale are continuing their battle for the signal calling berth but it appears that Fly still holds a slight edge over his more experienced competitor. Fly's aerials were instrumental in the Maroon attack against the Sycamores as he completed three in succession during one touchdown march.

The remainder of the backfield appears to be set with Dick Seelman of Flora operating from the left half spot and George Sawyer of Moro at the right half. If Ruzich is unable to be at full speed it is likely that Bob Neal, a 190-pound bulldozer from Zeigler, will get the call. Bob Divjak of East Chicago and Jack French of Murphysboro will also see considerable action at the fullback slot.

Southern's forward wall, which incidently held Indiana State to a mere 16 yards on the ground, will find Joe Hughes of West Frankfort and Davis on the ends, Jim Lovin and Captain John Corn both of Benton at the tackle posts, Chuck Heinz of Gillespie and June Gross of DuQuoin will handle the guard positions, and Bill "Cotton" Cosgrove will handle the pivot assignment.

Western's offense is built around a trio of veterans. Tom Laborac, former University of Illinois performer, will be a fullback and Ronnie Jackson and John Suehr will be at the halves. Jackson won the 100 yard dash in last spring's conference track meet as he did the distance in 9.7. With his speed, Jackson is a constant threat in the Leatherneck attack.

Coach Martin's charges appear to be improving with every performance and they will need to be at top speed for the Homecoming battle if they expect to retain their conference crown.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. -The "phase difference" microscope will be the subject of a talk by Dr. Carl C. Lindegren, professor of biological science and research at Southern Illinois University, at the Washington University School of Medicine on Oct. 13.

The advantage of the instrument, says Lindegren, lies in its control of light. Unlike the old type of microscope, the new one allows the scientist to see two transparent objects when they meet at the same point.

Invented in Germany in 1941, the instrument has been in use in the U.S. only since 1945. The one which Dr. Lindegren is using is one of the first to be utilized in this country.

-As an added attraction to the Southern Illinois University Homecoming football game on Saturday, the Maroons' cross-country contingent will run against Western Illinois during the half of the Southern-Leatherneck grid contest.

The thin clads of both schools will leave McAndrew stadium approximately four minutes before the first half has ended to enable them to return from their three and one-half mile jaunt before the beginning of the second half.

Joe McLafferty of Carbondale will head the Maroon six-man squad and Joe is favored to cop first place honors as he has been undefeated in seven consecutive matches. Other members of Southern's harriers include Art Menendez of East St. Louis, Ray Palmer of Belleville, Phil Coleman of Carbondale, Ed "Buddy" Miller of Carbondale, and either Lowell O'Daniel of Chicago or Valdean McFarland of Centralia.

Coach Leland P. "Doc" Lingle's charges opened their season at Eastern Illinois last week by losing to the Panthers 28 to 27.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. -Miss Helen Traubel, Wagnerian soprano of Metropolitan Opera fame, will be presented as the first Community Concert artist on the 1948-49 series here Tuesday evening, Oct. 19, in Shryock Auditorium at Southern Illinois University.

The concert series is sponsored by the Carbondale Community Concert Association and partially supported by the University for the benefit of students.

Miss Traubel, a native of St. Louis, first attracted the attention of Walter Damrosch, noted conductor, while singing a Wagnerian concert with the St. Louis Symphony. As his protege she became a star of a weekly network radio program broadcast from New York. After a year, she announced her decision to retire from professional appearances altogether, to devote herself to the achievement of her greater goal, Wagnerian opera.

Her triumph was instantaneous when she made her Metropolitan debut in "Die Walkuere." She has made numerous nation-wide concert tours and has sung with the nation's greatest symphony orchestras, as well as at the Colon Opera House in Buenos Aires and Mexico's National Opera House. She has also sung on many popular radio programs and has made numerous best-seller records.

For her concert here Miss Traubel will sing classic selections in English, German, Italian, and will close with a group of Negro spirituals and lighter songs.

She will be accompanied at the piano by Conraad V. Bos, who has been active as a musician since 1895. A former professional associate of Clara Schumann-Heink, Brahms, and Joachim, he has accompanied such artists as Casals and Schuman-Heink.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. -Indications are that more than 800 Southern Illinois high school singers will attend the 1948 Southern Illinois Choral Clinic-Festival to be held by the Southern Illinois University music department Oct. 23, according to Floyd V. Wakeland, festival chairman.

Guest conductor for the festival this year will be Dr. Harry Robert Wilson, professor of music education at Teachers College, Columbia University. Dr. Wilson is in charge of all choral and vocal activities at the Teachers College.

His training includes the master of arts and the doctor of education degrees from Columbia and two fellowships at the Julliard Graduate School of Music, one in composition under the late Rubin Goldmark, the other in conducting under Albert Stoessel.

Professional experience of this famous conductor includes active work in the public schools in choral and instrumental fields. He has attained a reputation as a singer, conductor, composer and lecturer in the field of music education, as well as a conductor of choral clinics and festivals. He is the arranger of a series of selected American folk songs and several song collections. His creative writings have been devoted to music in the schools and colleges of America.

Several of his compositions and arrangements will be used in the public concert to be presented here Saturday evening, Oct. 23, by the 800-voice massed chorus at the close of the day's clinics.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. -Usually performers occupy the stage, leaving an auditorium to the spectators.

But so many Southern Illinois high school choirs are coming to the annual Choral Clinic-Festival at Southern Illinois University next Saturday that the singers will be seated in the lower floor of Shryock Auditorium, while the conductor will have the stage to himself and the audience at the public concert Saturday night will sit in the balcony.

This is the latest decision of Floyd V. Wakeland, associate professor of music and chairman of the clinic-festival, as a means of accommodating the 23 Southern Illinois schools that have entered the event.

The schools will comprise an 850-voice combined choir that will rehearse all day under the direction of Harry Robert Wilson, professor of music education, Teachers College, Columbia University, who is guest conductor for this year's clinic-festival.

In the evening, at 7:30, the combined choirs will present a concert, to which the public is invited without charge.

The massed choruses will fill all save a few hundred seats in the lower floor of Shryock Auditorium, Wakeland said.

The clinic-festival is held annually under the sponsorship of the University's music department.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. -A 37-page survey of present and future physical plant needs of the Belleville elementary schools has been released by three members of the Southern Illinois University College of Education staff.

These faculty members, Dr. Howard Bosley, Dr. Earl Hall and Dr. Claude Dykhouse, were assisted by graduate students in school administration.

The report contains detailed recommendations for improvements on the ten elementary school buildings and the junior high school, and shows ratings of the strengths and weaknesses of each building as indicated on the Strayer-Engelhardt 1000-Point School Building score sheet.

Enrollment trends were analyzed from 1915 to 1948, and a complete census of pre-school age children was used to predict future enrollment of the city schools to 1958.

On the basis of this enrollment analysis, the survey group recommended construction of two new school buildings and additions to several existing buildings.

The report is now being studied by the Belleville Board of Education and several civic groups. The study was made by the University faculty and students during the summer at the request of the Belleville Board of Education.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. -"Must We Fight Russia?" will be the subject of a lecture by Major George Fielding Eliot, noted war commentator Oct. 25, at 8:30 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium at Southern Illinois University, according to Dr. Maurits Kesnar, chairman of the University Lectures and Entertainment Committee.

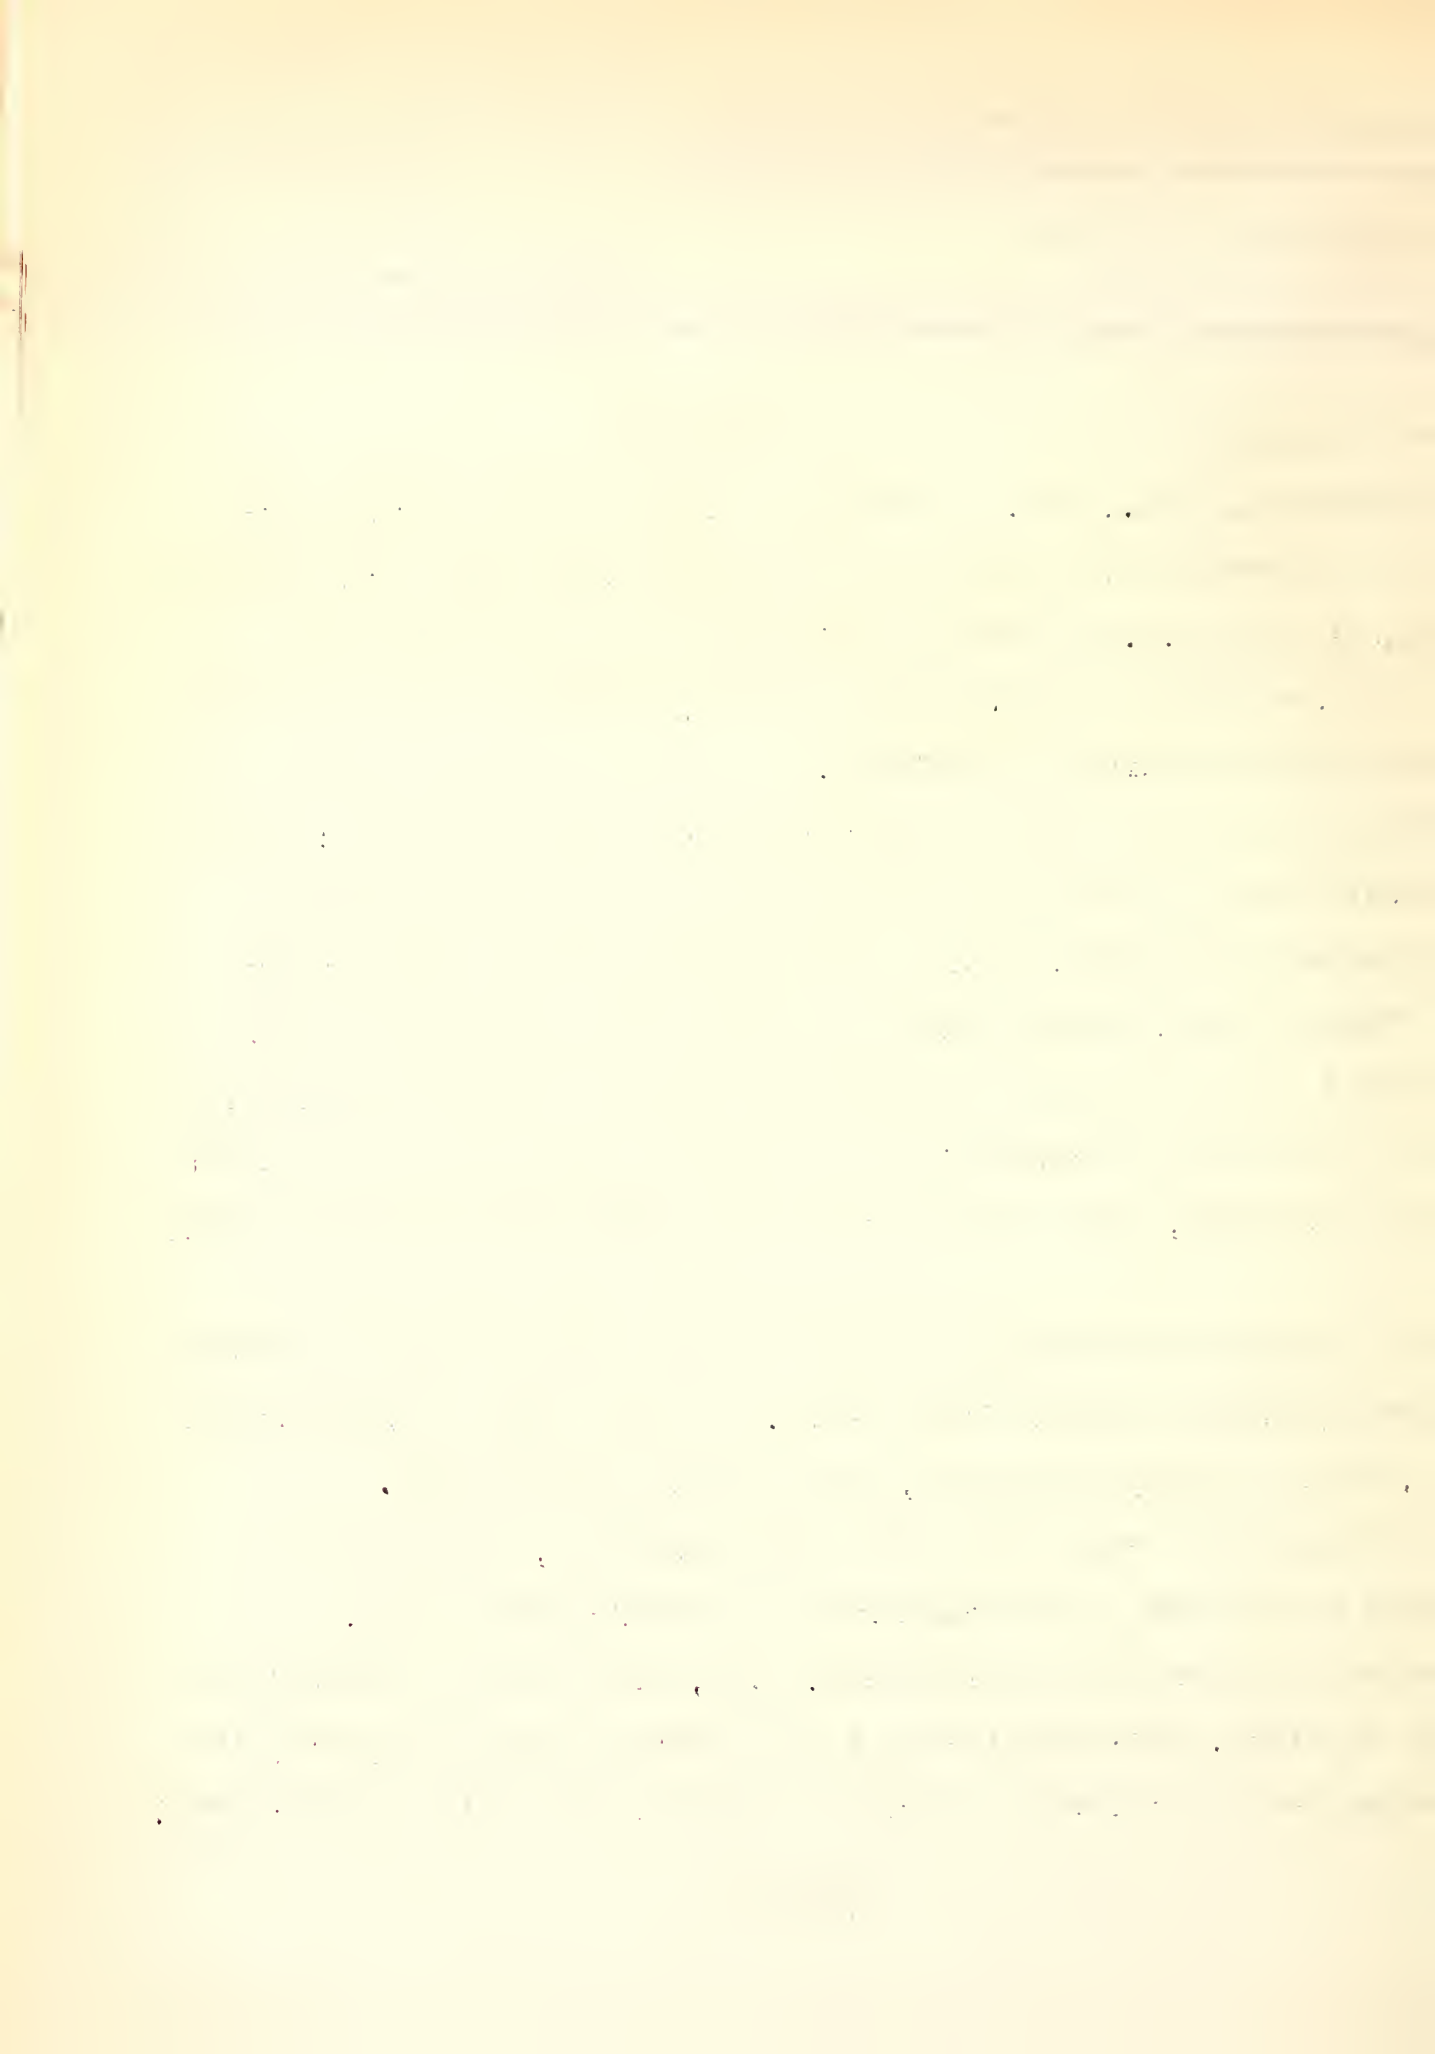

Major Eliot will raise and answer the following questions: Is war with Russia sure to come in 10 or 20 years, as many sober observers are beginning to believe? What do our military leaders think about this? What do the Russians think? Are both sides preparing for the inevitable? Are we all in the relentless grasp of a blind Fate, being dragged to an atomic holocaust? Or is there something we can do about it? To be precise, just what can the average American citizen do about it?

The speaker has recently returned to this country from an extended trip through Europe and the Middle East. He went first to England and France, then to Italy and Greece, and on to the Middle East.

He visited six out of the seven Arab countries, and was in Palestine at the time of the withdrawal of the British troops.

Major Eliot was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., but moved to Australia at the age of eight. Educated partly in the United States and partly in Australia, he is a graduate of Trinity College, University of Melbourne.

In World War I he served in the Australian Imperial Force, rising to acting major. From 1922 to 1930 he was an officer of the Military Intelligence Reserve in the U.S. Army.

A radio commentator, author, newspaper columnist, military analyst, and lecturer, he is the author of The Ramparts We Watch, Bombs Bursting in Air, Hour of Triumph, The Strength We Need, and Hate, Hope and High Explosives. Currently he is at work on another volume to be entitled The Strategy of War with Russia.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. -A cry for help was sent out yesterday by Glenn "Abe" Martin, football coach of Southern Illinois University, as four more of his Maroon regulars were sidelined by injuries in the losing battle against Western Illinois last Saturday.

Injured in the Homecoming encounter with the Leathernecks were Dick Seelman of Flora and Bob Johnson of DuQuoin, the regular half backs, Bob Neal, bone-crushing full back from Leisler, and the regular right end, Galen Davis of DuQuoin. Neal incidentally, toted the leather 30 times for 109 yards in the mud at McAndrew Stadium last week. None of the injuries were of a serious nature, but it is unlikely that any of the quartet will be at top speed for the DeKalb game this Saturday.

Add this group to the list of the previously injured and Coach Martin's call for help will be understandable. John Ruzich of Johnston City is still bothered by a bum ankle; Bill Cosgrove, regular center from Benton, is nursing a knee ailment; Warren Littleford of Vandalia, regular tackle at the start of the year, has never fully recovered from an injury in the Wayne University game; Jay Pieron, a regular guard from Murphysboro, remains on the sidelines with a sprained ankle; and Chuck Oyler of Hooreson hasn't responded to treatment of his broken foot. Now, to add to this list are Bob Colborn, All-Conference end from Flora, who received a broken leg against Indiana State, and George Sawyer of Moro who was declared scholastically ineligible last week.

With ten of the returning 17 letter winners on the shelf, Martin has called up five members of the Maroon "B" squad to aid the regulars as they prepare for their second conference game of the young season. Champions of last year's Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, Southern dropped its 1948 IIAC debut to Western 13 to 7 last Saturday.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. -Twenty-three Southern Illinois high school choirs, comprised of approximately 850 students, will be at Southern Illinois University Saturday, Oct. 23 for the annual Choral Clinic Festival, according to Mr. Floyd V. Wakeland, associate professor of music and clinic chairman.

Dr. Harry Robert Wilson, professor of music education at the Teachers College of Columbia University, New York, will be guest conductor and critic.

The Festival Concert to be given at 7:30 Saturday night will present four soloists from the University. Richard Morse, assistant professor of music and new faculty member, will play a flute solo. Mr. Morse comes to Southern from Baylor University where he was a member of the faculty. Harold Hines, instructor in music, will play a trumpet solo.

Two students at Southern complete the list of soloists. Miss Delores Blondi, soprano and freshman from Benton, and Miss Jacqueline Davis, soprano from Salem, will sing. Miss Davis is a sophomore.

Robert Mueller, instructor in music, will be one of the accompanists. Mr. Mueller is also a new faculty member. He comes to Southern from Wisconsin where he had been teaching in the high schools at Melrose and Jefferson.

Miss Betty Mitchell of Carbondale will also accompany. Miss Mitchell received her bachelor's degree in music at Northwestern University last year and this year is studying education at Southern.

The schools which will send choruses to Festival, and their choir directors, include: Anna-Jonesboro, Keith Whetstone; Benton, James E. Cockrum; Carbondale Community, Ernest Limpus; Carbondale University High School, Charles Patterson; Carrier Mills, Mary Jarvis; Cartersville, Irene G. Carbondale, Ill., Oct. -Twenty-seven hundred elementary teachers needed--six hundred college graduates from all Illinois institutions trained for the work.

That is the situation in the elementary schools of Illinois this year, according to Raymond H. Dey, director of the Placement Service at Southern Illinois University.

The trend which has been going on for at least the last five years is caused by retiring teachers, those leaving the profession, the increased enrollment in the lower grades, but most of all, to the small number of teachers preparing for grade school work.

The shortage in the elementary schools occurring while the high schools are not having the same degree of the problem--Dey attributed to four factors: (1) salaries in the grade school are lower than those of the high schools, (2) elementary school classes are too large, (3) high schools have better equipped buildings, and (4) there is added prestige to teaching in the high schools.

In order to fill teaching vacancies, many have returned to the profession from retirement, married women who had once taught have returned, and many who would have retired this year did not. A great many of these people need refresher courses, Dey pointed out, and others need additional training in order to keep their teaching certificates.

The probable solution, Mr. Dey concluded, lies in the system being used at present in some schools, that of using the same salary scales for both high and elementary schools. At any rate, increased salaries in the elementary schools are a necessity if the present shortage is to be overcome, he declared.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. -Pioneers of Southern Illinois and the way they lived are recreated in detail in the Museum of Southern Illinois University.

John W. Allen, acting director of the museum, in an article for the magazine, Illinois Education, pointed out that since 1940 the Museum has taken advantage of the rich field this region affords for the collection of artifacts connected with the earlier ways of life. The collection and arrangement of the articles has been governed by the conviction that the worth of anything collected is in direct proportion to its latent teaching value, Allen says.

An old shoe shop with the tools of the early day craftsman was assembled for the Museum, along with a pioneer kitchen containing the articles generally found in the homes of early Southern Illinois settlers. Other collections include a gunsmith's shop, cooper's shop, carpenter or cabinetmaker's shop, and an exhibit on home manufacture of cloth.

Dioramas constructed in correct proportion present scenes of such pioneer activities as house raising, log rolling, hog killing, and sorghum making. Wood carvings by Fred Meyers of West Frankfort show historic types of Southern Illinois people.

Also found in the Museum are collections of books, newspapers, letters, diaries, and other early documents that explain the many phases of Southern Illinois life during the 19th century.

From the material in the Museum, a series of booklets, one on each of the counties of Southern Illinois, is being published as a means of presenting to the people of the area a history of the people who settled this region.

During the past year, a number of teaching exhibits, especially those of historical implications, have been delivered to schools outside the immediate vicinity of the University. These exhibits have been used by the teachers as an aid to explaining life during the past century.

Guide booklets and maps, prepared for historical tours, are another of the many services of the museum.

This work is having a discernible effect in making the people of this area conscious of the significance of local history and its relationship to the history of the United States, Allen declared. He also says that it is helping to arouse a pride in the story of the region, and to bring to both grown-ups and youngsters a realization that history need not be remote.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. Miss Madeleine Smith, assistant professor of foreign languages at Southern Illinois University, has received two distinct honors while studying for the doctor of philosophy degree at Yale University, according to information received here by her associates.

An article by Miss Smith was chosen for publication in the first issue of a new literary journal devoted to French literature, the Yale French Studies. Her article on Sartre, was entitled "The Making of a Leader."

The second honor she received was the Tew Prize for French which she shared with a young Frenchman. The prize, an award of $100 in books, is granted to the ranking scholars among first-year graduate students in certain departments of the humanities at Yale.

Miss Smith was granted a sabbatical leave from Southern last year to carry on her doctoral studies at Yale, and this year received another leave to continue her work.

Two years ago Miss Smith was one of 100 teachers of French in this country invited to spend several weeks in France as guests of the French government to observe post-war reconstruction in cultural affairs.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. -Southern Illinois University's cross-country squad, fresh from their 20 to 35 conquest of Western Illinois, will attempt to make it two in a row on Saturday as they travel to Bloomington to engage the Old Normal harriers.

Joe McLafferty of Carbondale will once again risk his undefeated status in the Normal meet. McLafferty has not lost a cross-country decision since his enrollment at Southern in the fall of 1947. Saturday against the Leathernecks, he splashed through mud and water to win the three-and-one-half-mile jaunt in 18:02.

McLafferty's greatest competition is expected to come from his own teammate, Phil Coleman of Carbondale. Coleman, a freshman at cross-country, pressed McLafferty for the entire distance before succumbing in the final two hundred yards.

Others competing for Coach Leland P. "Doc" Lingle include Ray Palmer of Belleville, Ed "Buddy" Miller of Carbondale, Art Menendez of East St. Louis, and Valdean McFarland of Centralia.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. -A new "city" is born as Southern Illinois University students and faculty at the Crab Orchard Veterans Housing Project organize their community and give it the name of "Southern Acres."

Dr. W.J. Tudor, associate professor of sociology and faculty advisor for the group, says the project is to give the students some practical experience in government and other subjects which they are studying at Southern.

A constitution has been drawn up and last Monday night their first election was held. Tom Rich of Anna was elected mayor. Seven council members were also elected. They are: Lyle Beltz of Cobden, Jerry Shearer of Olney, John Manken of Gorham, Charles Mattingly of Gorham, Gene Shaffer of Carterville, Bob Lanier of Carterville, and Jack Donahue of Marion.

Committees organized for the organization include: Constitution, Gene Moore of West Frankfort; Lloyd Higginson of Valier; and John Catlin of Harrisburg.

Ways and Means: Tom Rich of Anna, Ted Sanders of Carterville, Lyle Beltz of Cobden, Bill Davis of Herrin, and Rex Karnes of Eldorado.

Beautification: Dick Carpenter of Carterville, Freeman Greer of Carterville, Barney Genisio of Valier, Joe Miller of Herrin, Maurice Holland of Carterville, Joe Jones of Golconda, and Jack Donahue of Marion.

Election: Joe Kern of Zeigler, Orlie Shannon of Grand Chain, Bob McClusky of Carterville, John Tregonning of Carterville, and Joe Miller of Herrin.

One of the larger buildings has been transformed into a combination recreation hall, church and town meeting hall. Dr. Tudor points out that "all donations of furniture for the hall will be very much appreciated."

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. -Appointment of Dr. Ted R. Ragsdale, professor of education, as director of teacher-training at Southern Illinois University, was announced today by University President D.W. Morris.

Assignment of Dr. Ragsdale to this full-time work, effective Dec. 6, at the beginning of the winter term, will make possible coordinated supervision of all student teaching in University High School, the Allyn Training School and the various affiliated public schools of the area.

Student "practice" teaching is an essential phase of the training program of the College of Education, and Dr. Ragsdale will have the responsibility of developing an integrated system throughout the campus laboratory schools and in off-campus schools where student teachers work.

Dr. Ragsdale has been a member of the Southern faculty since 1925, and has been acting principal of the Allyn Training School since 1945. He holds the bachelor of science in education degree from Southern, the master of arts degree from the University of Illinois, and the doctor of philosophy degree from St. Louis University. He has also done graduate work at the University of Iowa.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. -Balaji Mundkur, young scientist from India who is studying at Southern Illinois University, has been invited to make two talks in Benton Monday, Oct. 25.

He will speak before the Ladies Club in the afternoon and at a church brotherhood meeting in the evening.

Mundkur holds a faculty assistantship in the University's Biological Science Research Laboratory, where he is carrying on research to apply on the doctoral degree at Washington University, St. Louis. He is conducting his studies under the supervision of Dr. Carl C. Lindegren, internationally-recognized geneticist, who heads the laboratory at Southern.

Section 1

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the transparency and accountability of the organization.

It further states that the records should be maintained in a clear and concise manner, using standardized formats and procedures. This will ensure that the information is easily accessible and understandable to all relevant parties.

The document also highlights the need for regular audits and reviews of the records to identify any discrepancies or errors. This process should be carried out by an independent body to ensure objectivity and fairness.

In conclusion, the document stresses that the implementation of a robust record-keeping system is crucial for the long-term success and sustainability of the organization. It calls for the adoption of best practices and the continuous improvement of the system over time.

Section 2

The second part of the document focuses on the financial aspects of the organization. It details the various sources of income and the methods used to allocate funds for different projects and activities.

It also discusses the importance of budgeting and financial planning, as well as the need for regular financial reporting. The document provides a comprehensive overview of the organization's financial health and its commitment to fiscal responsibility.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. - A new honor has been created by Southern Illinois University for Prof. Eli Gilbert Lentz, for 34 years a member of the Southern faculty.

At the request of University President D.W. Morris, the State Teachers College Board, to which Southern is responsible, approved Professor Lentz' appointment as "University Professor," effective Nov. 1 of this year.

President Morris immediately announced Mr. Lentz' appointment as chairman of Southern's "Diamond Jubilee" Committee, to plan appropriate ceremonies in recognition of the University's 75th anniversary which occurs in 1949-50.

Southern has never before had a "University professorship," and the new title has been established as a special distinction for the man who is probably "the best loved of Southern's professors and one of the best known citizens of Southern Illinois."

In 1945, Dean Lentz requested to be relieved of his duties as part-time dean of men, and Dr. Chester F. Lay, then president of the University, appointed him director of the University's new Clint Clay Tilton Library of Lincolniana and Americana. A year later, President Lay appointed him University historian, to write a history of the University for publication on the occasion of the 75th anniversary.

In asking the Board for Dean Lentz's appointment as University Professor, President Morris said:

"The rank of University Professor is an honorary rank customary in a University which wishes to emphasize unusual accomplishment in teaching and scholarship. It would carry with it the privilege of teaching in any department desiring his services in his own or any other college of the University.

"Mr. Lentz is probably the best loved of Southern's professors and one of the best known citizens of Southern Illinois. He is an able scholar and historian, respected by students, alumni, and faculty members alike. He has won admiration for his handling of the difficult post of Dean of Men, and, since giving up that position, for his work as Curator of the Library of Lincolniana and Americana bequeathed to the University by the late Clint Clay Tilton of Danville, Illinois.

"Furthermore, Mr. Lentz has always found time to do notable work in community and regional affairs. Because of his long and distinguished service to the University as a teacher and administrator, Mr. Lentz has already been asked to write the University's history as a 75th anniversary publication to be issued next year. Granting him a University professorship and appointing him Chairman of the 75th Anniversary Committee would be an honor to him that would give pleasure to all of his associates and to the citizens of all Southern Illinois."

Dean Lentz, a slight, white-haired, soft-spoken "gentleman of the old school," was born May 27, 1881, at Wolf Creek, Illinois, the son of Eli and Lydia Hare Lentz. He married Lula Gillespie in 1904, and the couple has reared four children--Agnes (Mrs. Darwen Wright of Winnetka, Ill.); Blanche (Mrs. Orwin Pugh of Carbondale); Kathryn (Mrs. Paul Peterson of Bowling Green, Ky.); and Gilbert G. of Honolulu, Hawaii.

From 1899 to 1901 Dean Lentz taught in the rural schools of Southern Illinois; then from 1901 to 1914 he served first as principal at Creal Springs, then as superintendent at Cartersville and then Marion, Ill. During his seven years at Marion, he organized the Marion Township High School.

He came to the University (then known as Southern Illinois Normal University) in 1914 as instructor in history, was promoted to an assistant professorship in 1920, and to an associate professorship in 1927, attaining full professorship a few years later. In 1935 he began giving part of his time to the duties of dean of men.

In 1930, he completed work on the bachelor of arts degree at Indiana University, and two years later he completed the master of arts degree at the University of Illinois.

All through the years Dean Lentz has filled an important role at Southern, serving on many University committees. In recent years, since Southern has become a university, he has been asked to sit on many committees in order to give the "long-range" perspective to University policies, linking the past with the present and the future.

He is truly a citizen of Southern Illinois. He served the year of 1912 as president of the Southern Illinois Teachers Association, and under his administration brought that organization into the Illinois Education Association.

An active member of Rotary International for a quarter of a century,

Dean Lentz served as district governor in 1938, and continued to serve on the board. Largely because of his influence in Rotarian circles, District 149--the Southern Illinois district--a few years ago set up an International Scholarship Fund at Southern, to bring young scholars from Latin-America to this campus to study.

He is a thirty-second degree Scottish Rite and a Knight Templar York Rite Mason, and has held several high positions in that fraternal order.

While his early interest in history was in European history, he has through the years had an abiding fondness for the regional history of Southern Illinois, and has become quite an authority on Gen. John A. Logan, noted military figure of the Civil War days. He was one of the founders of the Southern Illinois Historical Association and has served as the organization's secretary since 1939. He also belongs to the Mississippi Valley and the American historical associations, and to the Abraham Lincoln Association.

His interest in Lincoln has of course been accelerated since he became curator of the University's Tilton Collection.

This collection came to the University in 1944, a bequest from the late Clint Clay Tilton of Danville, retired newspaperman. Originally comprising some 2,000 volumes, pictures, plaques and busts of Lincoln, the collection is serving as the nucleus around which the University is building a special library of regional significance. Several gifts have been made to the collection of rare items or cash for purchases, by former faculty members, board members, and Southern Illinois citizens. The original collection embraces a number of valuable Lincoln autographs, books about The Great Emancipator printed in French, Russian, Chinese and other languages, and several rare photographs.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. -A $7,951,533 biennial operating budget for Southern Illinois University was approved by the State Teachers College Board at a meeting in Charleston Monday.

The Board approved requests to be submitted to the Budgetary Commission of the Legislature for appropriations totaling $22,663,329 for the 1949-1951 biennium for the five colleges and universities responsible to this board. This figure compares with appropriations of $14,066,159 for the current biennium.

Southern's budget request, which must now go to the Budgetary Commission and then to the General Assembly, represents an 61.9 per cent increase over the current biennium.

Of the $7,951,533 total, $6,651,533 is being sought from the general revenue fund, while $1,300,000 represents earned income from fees and from the operation of auxiliary enterprises at Southern. The $1,300,000 from the income fund would be used as follows: $750,000 for educational operations, $550,000 for operation of auxiliary enterprises.

The request for general revenue funds (tax money) calls for $4,621,336 for personal services (salaries), $890,985 for contractual services, $37,950 for office expense, $70,365 for travel, $453,450 for commodities, $105,072 for pensions and annuities, $501,950 for equipment, $20,000 for postage, and $50,405 for printing.

New services, addition of 138 new faculty and staff members, rising costs of commodities and equipment, increased enrollment, and a new salary schedule already approved by the Board were cited as reasons for the large increase in requested appropriations.

The Board also received from the presidents of the five state colleges and universities their recommendations on immediate building needs for the five institutions. These requests were referred for study to a special committee of the board, composed of Lindell W. Sturgis of Metropolis, chairman; Richard Dunn of Bloomington, and L. W. Walker of Gilmer.

Southern's budget requests were presented to the Board by University President D. W. Morris, Dr. Charles D. Tenney, administrative assistant to the president, and Business Manager Edward V. Miles. Jr.

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. - Don't burn your leaves, bury them to make that leaf mould you'll be wanting next spring.

This is the advice of Dr. L. R. Tucker, acting chairman of the agriculture department at Southern Illinois University.

As the coal smoke from winter fires is already noticeable, Dr. Tucker suggests that the smoke of burning leaves need not be added to the smudge.

"In this territory, the supply of organic matter in the soil is very low," he points out. "Therefore it would be well if these leaves could be piled somewhere and weighted down with a little dirt until next spring when people will want leaf mould for flowers, gardens and lawns.

"Should you care to hasten decay and increase the fertilizer value of the material," he said, "a little inorganic nitrogen fertilizer could be added to the leaf pile.

"Of course if you can spread them where they will not blow away, maybe plow or spade them under where you want to use them, one handling will do the job.

"If you can't use them, maybe your neighbor can," he added.

Dr. Tucker thinks this disposition of leaves requires no more effort than burning, and "healthier, clearer air, and better and more beautiful plants are the rewards," he insists.

SPORT SHORTS FROM SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY

Fred Brenzel, Southern Illinois University's ace kicker from Staunton, has compiled an amazing 39-yard punting average in two Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference games this season. In the two league tilts, Brenzel has punted on fourteen occasions, his best effort being a 62-yard boot against DeKalb that set up the lone Maroon touchdown.

Bill "Cotton" Cosgrove, 190-pound center from Benton, has three football letters to his credit at Southern Illinois University/^{although} he is only a junior in school. The reason for the oddity is that Cosgrove enlisted in the Marine Corps at the conclusion of the 1944 gridiron campaign and re-entered Southern just in time for the 1946 season. However, this being his fourth season of football, he will be ineligible for further competition after this year.

Joe Hughes, a West Frankfort lad, is probably the most versatile of all Southern Illinois University athletes. Joe received the Henry Hinkley Memorial Award last week for being the most outstanding athlete on the Southern campus for the preceding school year. Plus being a regular end of the Maroons during football, Joe is also a regular on the basketball team, and was high-point man on the track team last spring.

One of the most prominent men in the Southern Illinois University forward wall this season is Jim Lovin of Benton. Lovin entered Southern in the fall of 1946 and immediately was put into the Maroon starting lineup at a tackle. He performed his duties so well that he was rewarded with All-Conference recognition and was later selected as the "Most Valuable Player" by his Maroon teammates. Last season, Jim was switched to a guard post and once again he was named to the Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference All-Star team. This year he has performed at both the tackle and guard positions and his versatility makes him a valuable asset to Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin.

John Corn, captain and tackle of the Southern Illinois University Maroons, has played a big part in the success of the charges of Glenn "Abe" Martin during the recent years. Corn, a 220-pound senior of Benton, was a member of the Maroons back in 1945 but left school to serve in the Army, returning to Southern in 1947. Last year, he was an instrumental factor in attaining the Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship and the post season Corn Bowl victory over North Central in Bloomington. As a reward for his superlative play, he was chosen as captain for the 1948 season, and was given a first team berth on the IIAC All-Conference team. Although the success of Southern this season has been limited, "Captain John" has had his charges fighting right down to the wire in every ball game.

Attention: Sports Editors

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. - Southern Illinois University, the defending Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference champions who have looked like everything but champs recently, will pit a rejuvenated lineup against Arkansas State in a non-conference encounter Saturday at McAndrew Stadium.

In an effort to strengthen the sagging Southerners, Coach Glenn "Albe" Martin announced today that Charlie Heinz, 195-pound power-packed guard from Gillespie, has returned to the backfield and will start at the right halfback post against the Indians.

Last season, Heinz, then known as "High Heels", operated at the fullback slot but returned to the line this year to plug a weakness in the maroon forward wall. The reason for the latest change was the injuries suffered by Dick Seelman of Flora and Bob Johnson of DuQuoin.

Seelman received a back injury in the Northern game and will see only limited service Saturday, and Johnson's knee has not responded to treatment since his accident in the Western fracas so that he, too, will be a part time performer this week end.

Bill Collard of Carmi, one of the few bright spots in the DeKalb defeat, will open at the other halfback slot and Bob Neal, of Zeigler, 195-pound pile-driver, will open at fullback in place of the injured John Ruzich of Johnston City.

Jim Lovin of Benton, twice a member of the IIAC All-Conference team, will switch from his tackle position to guard to replace Heinz, and Warren Littleford of Vandalia will fill the vacancy at tackle.

In Arkansas State, the Maroons will face one of their toughest assignments of the season. State, with a two-won, two-lost, and one-tied record, is endeavoring to play "big time" football and their schedule has been tough. They have beaten Mississippi College 14 to 0; Western Kentucky 13 to 12; have tied the unbeaten Delta State squad 13 to 13; and have lost to Kansas State 37 to 6, and to undefeated Middle Tennessee 14 to 7.

Down through the years, Southern has clashed 13 times with the Indians. Each team claims six victories with one game ending in a tie.

later as Bob Myers of Carmi intercepted a Joe Shaw pass to give the Maroons possession on the Arkansas State 42 yard stripe. Dick Seelman of Flora ran and passed the Martinmen to the Arkansas State three-yard line from where Bob Neal of Zeigler plunged over for the second Southern marker.

The third tally came on a fourth down pass that was complete to Joe Hughes of West Frankfort. Seelman, apparently trapped back on the 35-yard line, leaped high into the air and flipped to Hughes who was waiting in the end zone.

With only two minutes remaining, Arkansas stalled by running nothing but line plunges to keep possession of the ball.

The loss dropped Southern far below the five hundred mark as it was their fourth defeat compared to only two victories.

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - Southern Illinois University will play host to the Illinois Normal Redbirds in an all-important Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference clash this Saturday. Normal must win in order to keep its IIAC title hopes alive, whereas, Southern, the defending conference champions, will be seeking to gain its first conference win of the year and also to snap a three-game losing streak.

Eastern Illinois cinched a tie for the title two weeks ago by downing Old Normal, but if Normal can top Southern and then Southern can defeat Eastern, it would leave Eastern and Normal tied for the IIAC championship.

Southern's mentor, Glenn "Abe" Martin, was well pleased with the fighting spirit of the Maroons on Saturday as they spotted Arkansas State 27 points and then came back strong to score three times in the final quarter to narrow the count to 27 to 21.

Once again, Lady Luck played an important part in dropping Southern as an intercepted pass that was partially blocked and a blocked punt gave the Arkansas Indians two early tallies.

Leading 21 to 0 at the half, Arkansas State's power-packed backfield continued to dominate the play by adding another TD midway through the third period.

Apparently angered by their poor showing, the hapless Maroons finally began to click and tallied on the first play of the fourth quarter as Jim Lovin of Benton recovered an Arkansas fumble on the Indians 18 yard line and Pat Kelly of Murphysboro faked a pass and scooted down the sidelines to the one-foot line before being shoved out of bounds. Kelly scored on the next play and Bret McGinnis of Carbondale added the first of his three extra points.

Regaining their confidence, the Maroons tallied three minutes later as Bob Myers of Carmi intercepted a Joe Shaw pass to give the Maroons possession on the Arkansas State 42 yard stripe. Dick Seelman of Flora ran and passed the Martinmen to the Arkansas State three-yard line from where Bob Neal of Zeigler plunged over for the second Southern marker.

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. -First report of scientific testing of a new hybrid chicken compared to a high-producing strain of White Leghorns, conducted by the Southern Illinois University agriculture department, shows the new hybrids appear to be superior in several ways.

The tests, conducted by Alex Reed, assistant professor of agriculture, revealed a lower mortality rate, a higher average weight for cockerels, fewer culls among the pullets, a higher egg production, and a slightly heavier weight per egg among the new hybrids.

Reed took flocks of 194 White Leghorns and 202 of the hybrid chicks, which arrived within three days of each other, in mid-April.

Both groups were placed in electrically heated battery brooders under as near identical conditions as possible. Both groups were fed the same feeds. The cockerels were all sold by June 29, the pullets remaining on the range until they were housed Sept. 8.

His findings:

Mortality rate--3.47 per cent for the hybrids, 7.73 for the White Leghorns.

Average weight--hybrids, 3.01 pounds for 86 cockerels sold June 29; 2.76 pounds for 87 White Leghorns sold the same date.

Sale price--43 cents per pound was obtained for the hybrid cockerels, 39 cents a pound for the White Leghorns.

unirorm during the hardwood season. His loss comes as a terrific blow to Basketball Mentor Lynn Holder, as it was only a month ago that Bob Colborn, regular forward from Flora, received a broken leg on the gridiron..

Football Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin said today that he will hold only light workouts for his Maroons this week so that he will have eleven men ready for duty against Eastern on Saturday. Martin has lost 10 key men this season via injuries, six of those being of first-team caliber.

"This one test would not be sufficient evidence to conclude that all the hybrid cockerels are significantly better than all Leghorns although these did weigh a quarter pound more and were sold for a little higher price," Reed pointed out.

Culls--only 4 out of 109 hybrid pullets were culls, or 3.66 per cent, compared to 9 out of 92 for the White Leghorns, or 9.77 per cent.

Egg production--the hybrids produced a total of 528 eggs between Sept. 8 and Sept. 30, the White Leghorns 239. Both groups started laying before they were five months of age.

Egg size--on Sept. 30 the average size of the egg produced on that date was measured. The average weight of the 23 Leghorn eggs was 20.1 oz. per dozen and that of the 44 hybrid eggs was 20.98 oz. per dozen.

"No one of these items was very much but a combination of all of them is worth noting," Reed concluded. "A complete report on egg production will be made at the conclusion of the project."

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - A new director has arrived to serve the Student Christian Foundation, inter-denominational religious organization at Southern Illinois University.

He is the Rev. Elwood K. Wylie, who graduated from Wheaton College and received his seminary training at the Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville, Ky. While in training there, Mr. Wylie served as director of hospital visitation work and also directed high school and college youth work in the Church of Christ.

Mr. Wylie's home was originally LaSalle, Ill., but he comes to Carbondale from the pastorate of the First Baptist Church in Hutsonville.

The Student Christian Foundation is composed of students of all religious faiths. It holds regular non-denominational chapel services, plans discussion sessions to stimulate students' interest in religion and Christianity, and sponsors social activities centering in the Student Christian Foundation building.

One of Mr. Wylie's first duties was to work with students and faculty in the activities of Religious Emphasis Week on the campus Oct. 21-Nov. 5.

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - Lynn Holder, basketball mentor of Southern Illinois University, announced today that his Maroons will open their 1948-49 basketball schedule on December 4 by travelling to Beloit, Wis. to tangle with the highly touted Beloit College quintet.

The 21-game schedule includes six new opponents for the Holdermen. In addition to Beloit, these are Mississippi Delta, Ottawa University of Kansas, Culver-Stockton of Missouri, Illinois Wesleyan, and the high riding Kirksville five of Missouri.

This will mark Holder's third year as hardwood coach at Southern, and in his first two seasons, he has compiled an enviable record. Both years he captured the Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship and on each occasion, his team represented the state of Illinois in the National Intercollegiate Tourney at Kansas City.

Southern, who incidentally has captured the IIAC title for the past three years, will open defense of the crown on January 8 against Northern Illinois.

In addition to the regular schedule, Southern will also be a participant in the Vincennes Invitational Tournament during the Christmas vacation.

The schedule includes: Dec. 4, Beloit College, away; Dec. 11, Evansville College, home; Dec. 15, Shurtleff College, home; Dec. 18,

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - Although buried under a 48 to 0 avalanche by Illinois Normal on Saturday, Southern Illinois University, the defending Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Champions, still is the deciding factor in this year's scramble for the league leadership.

Eastern Illinois, victorious in all three of their conference tilts, must defeat the Southerners this weekend or possibly be forced to share the coveted I.I.A.C. crown with Illinois Normal. Normal, victim of Eastern earlier in the season, will be seeking their third conference win on Saturday against a powerless Western Illinois eleven. and should they win and Eastern lose, the two would end up tied, each with three-won and one-lost records for loop play.

Plus being downhearted about the Maroon's 48 to 0 defeat, which incidentally was the second worst in the history of the school and the most lopsided score in the 18-year series with Old Normal, the Southern supporters left McAndrew Stadium with a tear in their eye when it was announced that Joe Hughes, versatile West Frankfort athlete, had received a compound fracture of the right leg midway through the final stanza.

Hughes, a regular member of the Maroon basketball quintet and high point man of the track squad last spring, was voted the Henry Hinkley Memorial Award last spring. The award is given annually to the Most Outstanding Athlete of the year on the Southern campus.

His athletic prowess will be paralyzed for some 16-odd weeks and it is doubtful that he will be able to don a maroon and white uniform during the hardwood season. His loss comes as a terrific blow to Basketball Mentor Lynn Holder, as it was only a month ago that Bob Colborn, regular forward from Flora, received a broken leg on the gridiron..

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. -A course in "library school service" will be opened at Southern Illinois University for the winter term beginning Dec. 6, according to Miss Opal Stone, acting director of the Wheeler Library.

Such a course is required for teacher-librarians in the State of Illinois, Miss Stone pointed out, and is planned to qualify the classroom teacher to administer the small school library.

To be taught by Mrs. Zella Cundall, assistant reference librarian, the course will provide a rapid survey of the practical problems of the small school library, such as objectives and methods of service, organization of the book collection, book selection, budgeting and ordering, classification and cataloguing, training of student assistants housing and equipment, non-book materials, relation of the librarian to other school personnel, and library publicity.

The course will meet at 8 a.m. each Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday during the winter quarter.

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - Education is "big business," declared a Southern Illinois University educator in an American Education Week radio address here this week.

Dr. Woodson W. Fishback, assistant professor of education here at Southern, cited these figures for U. S. education:

(1) Annual expenditures total more than 2 1/2 million dollars.

(2) Present public elementary and high school enrollment total more than 26 million pupils, with an estimated enrollment of 34 million by 1960.

(3) Present college and university enrollment total 2 1/3 million students, with an estimated increase to 4 million in ten years.

(4) To cope with these large enrollments, 40 billion dollars in new construction (measured in terms of 1940 prices) is needed.

(5) A million teachers must be trained in the next ten years to meet recommended educational goals.

Dr. Fishback pointed out that only 2.2 per cent of our national income was spent for education in 1946, compared to 3.7 per cent in 1933.

"This decreasing percentage gives reason for alarm," he asserted, "but perhaps more significant is the fact that both these percentages were considerably less than the percentage of our national income spent annually on a few luxuries."

Need for more adequate financial support is one great educational need, he said. Another is "release from the grip of tradition" in the lag between educational theory and practice.

"Ninety per cent of the colleges of America follow a pattern which has changed little in over 25 years," he said. "New curricular designs are sorely needed in most secondary schools and in our colleges and universities."

He urged more liberal approaches of problem-solving, group discussion techniques, and the use of all media which will bring the student in closer contact with reality.

Dr. Fishback believes these problems will be met, pointing the strides that have been taken in the past. Eighty-six per cent of the youth 5 to 17 years of age were enrolled in school by 1936, compared to only 66 per cent in 1880. Junior colleges have increased from 7 in 1900 to 610 in 1941.

In 1870, 20 per cent of all persons in the United States were illiterate, he pointed out, while by 1930 only 4.3 per cent were found to be illiterate.

Dr. Fishback recommended four objectives to which the schools should give increased attention today and in the future:

(1) Increasing the power of our citizens to think critically--to "make fine discriminations, reduce propaganda to its basic elements, see issues stripped of their political and advertising 'halo,' and have an unshakeable faith in the enduring values of life."

(2) Developing international mindedness among our people--"in the past we have been, generally speaking, quite provincial, primarily readers of local news items, and slow to combat the spirit of intolerance and hatred against other nations and against racial and religious groups everywhere."

(3) Teaching of fundamental education both at home and in foreign lands--"compared to many countries our illiterary rate is very small," amounting to only 4.3 per cent of our citizens, compared to 50 per cent in the world as a whole, 85 per cent in India, and 80 per cent in China.

(4) Promotion of better understanding of the potentialities of atomic energy for our nation and the rest of the world--"whether we wish to admit or not the powers of atomic energy have the possibilities of either destroying man or building a richer better world."

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - Here's good news for Southern Illinois business and industry--a night course in how to make out income tax forms will be opened during the winter term by Southern Illinois University.

Dr. J. W. Scott, chairman of the business administration department, has announced that beginning Dec. 6, his department will conduct a course tax accounting. It may be taken by University students for credit, or by business and industrial bookkeepers and accountants who do not desire credit. The only admission requirement, Dr. Scott said, will be at least one year of accounting or its equivalent in other training or experience.

The course will be taught by William Matthies, new assistant professor of business administration, who is a certified public accountant.

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - The University Farm at Southern Illinois University is a State Game Preserve, according to Dr. Henry J. Rehn, dean of the College of Vocations and Professions.

Information has been received by Dean Rehn from the State Game Division of the Department of Conservation that "Under the Illinois State Game laws all state owned property within the State of Illinois, unless otherwise designated, is automatically a State Game Preserve."

"There should be many advantages from having game protected in this area," Dean Rehn pointed out. "Both sportsmen who are interested in the supply of game and those who wish to study game under protection will benefit from the fact that the University Farm is now posted."

Carbondale, Ill., Nov.

-A student-powered salute to a well-loved professor has been arranged by the student body of Southern Illinois University for Wednesday, Nov. 24, in honor of E.G. Lentz, for 34 years a member of the history faculty and recently accorded the honorary title "University Professor".

The student body is taking the initiative in arranging a special assembly at 10 a.m. next Wednesday, to which students, alumni, faculty, representative of the major organizations in which Professor Lentz has been active, and other friends are invited.

A large committee composed of the student council, class presidents Pan-Hellenic Council, Inter-Fraternity Council, Independent Student Union and Sphinx Club, honor society, is carrying out arrangements.

Professor Lentz, who for ten years served as dean of men, throughout his 34 years at Southern has held a strong position as "the students' friend." While today's student body does not know him as well personally as do students of former years, he is perhaps better known to more of Southern's 40,000 alumni than any other faculty member.

He retired from the deanship three years ago, and has been serving as curator of the University's special collection of Lincolniana and Americana, the Clint Clay Tilton Library, and for the past two years has been engaged in writing the University's history to be published as a 75th anniversary volume in 1949.

Recently, in tribute to his outstanding service to the University and to Southern Illinois--in educational circles, in Rotary International, in the Masonic order, in state and regional historical associations, in church activities--the honorary rank of "University Professor" was conferred on him by the State Teachers College Board on recommendation of University President D.W. Morris.

Mr. Lentz has also been named by President Morris as chairman of Southern's "Diamond Jubilee" Committee to plan ceremonies to commemorate the University's 75th anniversary next year.

To add their vote to the acclaim for "Dean" Lentz, the students have planned the special assembly as a public recognition of his new distinction.

The program will consist of a series of brief talks concerning Mr. Lentz' various professional and service activities. Among the speakers will be University President D. W. Morris; W.G. Cisne of Carbondale, representing Rotary; Dr. Leo Brown of Carbondale, representing the Southern alumni association; Dr. Norman Caldwell, associate professor of history at Southern, representing Prof. Lentz' former students; and Scerial Thompson of Harrisburg, representing the Southern Illinois Historical Association. A number of other speakers will be announced later, according to Bill Price of Texico, chairman of the student committee planning the occasion.

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - The man who scored a world-wide "scoop" with a 4,500-word eye-witness report of Hitler's capture of Southern Norway will soon lecture at Southern Illinois University, Dr. Maurits Kesnar, chairman of the lectures and entertainment committee, announced today.

Leland Stowe, noted foreign correspondent, Pulitzer prize winner, author of several war books, and lecturer, will be presented in a public lecture at 8 p. m. Dec. 8 in Shryock Auditorium, Dr. Kesnar said.

Stowe joined the foreign service of the Chicago Daily News in September, 1939, three months later starting his coverage of the Finnish-Russian war.

After covering the fall of Norway in dispatches which were published in scores of American newspapers and throughout the world, and in a 5,000-word story in Life Magazine, Stowe was the first Anglo-American correspondent to join the British-French forces in the Nameos sector above Trondheim. He arrived just in time to see the British front-line battalion tripped and cut to pieces by the Germans. His story of this disaster was a sensation in England and caused a stormy session of Parliament over the "appeasement" tactics of the Chamberlain government.

During World War II, Stowe served with the armies of seven different nations and visited 44 countries and colonies as a war correspondent.

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - Miss Carol Werner of Belleville, who graduated from Southern Illinois University last June, will be brought back to the campus to sing the contralto solo lead in "The Messiah" this year, Dr. Maurits Kesnar, who will conduct the pre-Christmas oratorio, has announced.

Miss Werner was an outstanding voice student during her four years at Southern, where she studied under Floyd V. Wakeland, associate professor of music. She sang in the Mixed Chorus, in the University A Capella Choir and in the select Madrigal Singers, and frequently appeared as soloist. Last year she sang as guest soloist at the Southern Illinois Choral Clinic Festival here.

This year, Miss Werner is teaching music in the public schools at Dupon.

"The Messiah" will be presented by the Southern Illinois Oratorio Society, composed of University music groups, and church choirs and individual singers from all over Southern Illinois, accompanied by the University Orchestra.

Three other soloists, artists of national reputation, will be announced at a later date, Dr. Kesnar said.

The Oratorio will be presented in Shryock Auditorium Dec. 12.

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. -At a meeting of Southern Illinois University football letterwinners this week, Jim Lovin of Benton was elected captain of the 1949 Maroon gridgers and was also selected as the "Most Valuable Player" for the season just concluded.

Lovin has been a valuable asset to Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin's charges for the past three seasons. In 1946, the 205-pound guard's freshman year, he was chosen as Southern's "Most Valuable Player" and was named to the Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference All-Star Team.

Continuing his prowess, Lovin was a repeater on last season's I.I.A.C. All-Conference team and proved to be a tower of strength in Southern's conference championship and inaugural Corn Bowl victory over North Central of Naperville.

As captain of next year's squad, Lovin will replace John Corn of Benton.

1. The first group of people who are interested in the results of the study are the researchers themselves. They want to know how well the study was conducted and whether the results are reliable and valid. They also want to know how the study was funded and whether there were any conflicts of interest.

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. -Some 20-year-olds complain because it takes them four years to get their bachelor's degree. But according to one 60-year-old senior at Southern Illinois University, it's still worth the time after 34 years of plugging away at requirements.

Southern's oldest full-time student, Miss Linna Hamilton is now enrolled for her first full long session and will receive her degree in June. All of her work has been done during summers, and through extension and correspondence courses beginning with the summer term of 1914. That term, she lived at Anthony Hall, girl's dormitory, during its first year of operation.

Miss Hamilton, whose home is in Broughton, Illinois, is a retired teacher with a record of 33 years of service. Her 23-year tenure in Broughton is the longest term of any teacher who has ever served there.

She is spry and active, and is a most conscientious student. She accounts for this by saying, "I never got enough of going to school. I like learning and have a great interest in all school activities, in fact, I haven't missed a football game all season."

Enthusiasm seems to be her most prominent characteristic. She is tall, erect, and has short graying curly hair. Not only is she a conscientious person but she is an exacting student. Age is no worry to her, and as a student, she is no different from the 3,000 other much younger people who are here for an education. Alertness seems to radiate from her, and interest in the people and events around her are are all a part of her warm personality.

During her intermittant career as student and teacher, Miss Hamilton has maintained an average of well over 4 point (B average) and one of her ambitions is to graduate with an average of 4.5.

As to her future plans, she said, "I don't think I'll teach anymore. I still have a great desire for learning, and I may work toward a higher degree." Her major is English and she is keenly interested in government and history.

Several relatives of Miss Hamilton have also attended Southern. Among them are her sister Grace Hamilton, brother Charles G. Hamilton, and nieces Hope Hamilton, Devern Hamilton Walker, Martha Hamilton Parmley, and Marietta Hamilton Munger. Three of her former students are also on the campus at the present time.

She is a member of the Presbyterian Church, Order of the Eastern Star, Rebeccas, American Legion Auxilliary, and the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

RELEASE Monday

11-19-48

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - Many young deaf children who would be considered mentally deficient are now known to have normal intelligence, thanks to a battery of tests devised by Dr. Marshall S. Hiskey, dean of men and professor of psychology at Southern Illinois University.

The test is now used in practically all universities, clinics, and schools for the deaf in this country, and sets have been sent to Bulgaria, Canada, England, Australia, and other countries.

Hiskey first became interested in the problems of the deaf child while specializing in tests and clinical work at the University of Nebraska in 1938.

A nine-year-old youngster who had been in a school for the mentally deficient for five years, was brought to him for testing. With the materials at hand, Hiskey found the child to be of almost normal intelligence but discovered him to be deaf. Because of his strange actions, the courts had declared him mentally deficient and sent him to the state institution for these children.

Hiskey began searching existing tests but could locate no satisfactory measuring device for deaf children below 7 or 8 years of age.

He then devoted two years to the problem of developing the test, and during that time, he lived with groups of deaf children in order to gain a practical understanding of the deaf child. He attended their parties, and observed them during their play and study periods.

The problems of the test were unique. One of the big obstacles was the fact that few young deaf children are able to read, and they have few if any word associations with what they see.

This means that each of the child's answers is the result of his remembering of mental images rather than the association of names for the items. Since the young deaf child can neither hear nor speak, the entire test is given with pantomime movements of the instructor's hands.

In its final form, the test contains 11 types of tests with 124 parts and 251 pictures. In the picture association part of the test, the person giving the test points to four pictures which are placed in a row before the person being tested. By motions of the hand, the tester indicates that the child should point out the picture related to two others which are mounted on a board held by the examiner.

In another part of the test, the child is given a group of pictures from which some detail is missing in each picture. The task of the child is to locate and draw in the missing parts. Wooden blocks which have been cut into varied shapes are given the child to construct so that it will resemble a complete block which serves as a pattern.

The parts of the test are colorful, and are devised in such a way that they create an interest in the child and minimize the need for instructions from the person giving the test.

Known as the Nebraska Test for Learning Aptitude for Young Deaf Children, the Hiskey battery of tests is now being assembled here at Southern.

11-20-48

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - The student body of Southern Illinois University tomorrow will pay homage to Prof. E. G. Lentz, recently given the honorary rank of "University Professor" after 34 years service.

In a special assembly at 10 a. m., arranged by a student committee, Mr. Lentz will be saluted by a student, an alumnus, one of his former students who is now one of his colleagues in the history department, and University President D. W. Morris.

Heads of all departments will be seated on the stage, and the remainder of the faculty will attend in a body.

The University band, directed by Harold C. Hines, will furnish special music for the occasion. The entire program will be broadcast over Station WCIL, Carbondale.

Speakers will include: Dale Kittle of Wayne City, representing the student body; Dr. Norman Caldwell, associate professor of history, a former student of Mr. Lentz's; John Gilbert of Carbondale, representing the Southern Alumni Association; President Morris; and Professor Lentz himself.

Representatives of the Masonic order, Rotary International, the public schools, the Southern Illinois Historical Association, church groups and other organizations with which Mr. Lentz has been closely affiliated have been invited to attend.

Mr. Lentz came to Southern as a member of the history department faculty in 1914, after having served in various teaching and administrative positions in Southern Illinois public schools. From 1935 to 1945 he served as dean of men, and in 1945 was appointed curator of the University's special collection of Lincolniana and Americana, the Clint Clay Tilton Library. In 1946 he was designated as University historian, to write the school's history for publication in connection with the 75th anniversary next year.

In announcing his appointment as "University Professor," President Morris also appointed him chairman of the "Diamond Jubilee" committee to plan the 75th anniversary celebration.

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - A committee to study the whole problem of administrative procedure, and effective organization for the development of the school, including faculty participation, has been elected by the faculty of Southern Illinois University.

This group was chosen at the request of the new University president, Dr. D. W. Morris, who, at his first appearance before the faculty last September, asked the group to suggest machinery or methods "by which this faculty can contribute most to the thinking that goes into the development of Southern Illinois University."

After two meetings for general discussion of the matter, the faculty has elected a committee to receive and study suggestions from all faculty members on this problem. Nominations were made by secret ballot, and the six persons receiving the highest number of nominations are to comprise the committee.

Those elected were: Dr. Willis G. Swartz, professor of Government and chairman of the Graduate Studies Committee; Dr. W. B. Schneider, professor of English; Dr. Douglas E. Lawson, professor of education and dean of the College of Vocations and Professions; Dr. J. W. Neckers, professor of chemistry; Dr. T. W. Abbott, professor of chemistry and dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences; and Dr. Vera Peacock, professor of foreign languages.

Prof. E. G. Lentz, curator of the Tilton Library, was one of the top six, but asked to be relieved since he is serving as chairman of the University's Diamond Jubilee Celebration committee.

Dr. Charles D. Tenney, administrative assistant to the president, was named ex-officio chairman by President Morris. Dr. Morris will likewise serve as an ex-officio member of the committee, meeting with it on occasions.

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - Improving the secondary school curricula through initiative in the local communities is the plan of the Illinois Secondary School Curriculum Program.

At a recent meeting of Southern Illinois University educators, Dr. C. W. Stanford, director of the state program, outlined the project as it is being conducted throughout the state..

Dr. Sanford pointed out to the group the objectives of the program, and emphasized the necessity of cooperation not only from school people but from persons in the community as well.

At the present time, according to Dr. Sanford, the program is following these six major points:

1. Conducting of research studies to determine what revisions in the curriculum are needed. Last year, studies were made concerning: the problem of students dropping out of high school before completing the four-year course, participation of students in extra-curricular activities, an evaluation of the guidance services available in the secondary schools, and costs to the individual student to attend school. This year, follow-up studies of these project are being conducted.

2. Sponsoring of developmental projects in which new curricula ideas are tested. At the present time, 52 projects are being conducted in 27 Illinois schools. The projects are on work which the local school considers important and which the state committee approves. Personnel is then made available through the state committee to local schools to cooperate with the faculty members in the development of the projects.

3. Establishing committee organization on the local level as well as state.

4. Preparation and distribution of publications.

5. Establishing better relations between high schools and colleges in the state.

6. Sponsoring and conducting education workshops. Last year, more than 600 school administrators attended one or more of the three workshops held in Illinois.

According to John Mees, principal of University High School, Southern has cooperated whole heartedly with the program in the past. In the future, Southern will assume primary responsibility to those communities in the area served by Southern Illinois University by making available consultants and services when requested by those schools conducting projects.

Release Tuesday

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - At the request of parent-teacher association leaders, Southern Illinois University will set up a course in "lay leadership" to be held early in January, according to Dr. Douglas E. Lawson, dean of the College of Education.

Dean Lawson has appointed Ralph Boatman, University health coordinator, to serve as coordinator of parent-teacher association activities, and to plan the proposed short course.

The non-credit course will meet four or five times, for two-and-a-half hour sessions, Boatman said, and will emphasize child development, stressing techniques of using group discussion in the training of lay leaders for parent-teacher work.

The course is being set up at the request of Mrs. Melvin Lockard of Cobden, director of adult education for the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - Only two years old, the Illinois Folklore Society is building up steam to launch a real expedition into the past, to recover and preserve the unwritten history of this region, according to John Allen, history curator of the Southern Illinois University Museum and Society president.

The 60-member Society will hold its next meeting here at the University on Dec. 3, with a top-notch folklorist as guest speaker.

Dr. Herbert Halpert, the first person in the world to receive the doctor of philosophy degree in the field of folklore, will speak at the dinner session.

Dr. Halpert is chairman of the department of languages and literature at Murray State College, Murray, Ky. He received his doctoral degree from Indiana University.

He will spend the entire day Dec. 3 on the University campus, under auspices of the University public lectures and entertainment committee, and will be available for conferences with any persons or groups interested in folklore.

Dr. Halpert is founder and co-editor with George Herzog of the Federal Theatre National Service Bureau series, American Folksong Publications, and he founded and for two years edited the Hoosier Folklore Bulletin. He is the author of scores of articles, essays, notes and reviews on folklore that have appeared in outstanding journals of the country.

The folklore meeting here will open with a luncheon at 12 noon at the University Cafeteria, where the dinner session will also be held.

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - Words and music for 25 Southern Illinois folk dances with such fetching names as "Swing Ma, Swing Pa," "Dolly Put the Kettle," "It's Nobody's Business," "Hog and Hominy," and "Turn that Cinnamon Around" are brought together for the first time in a new Southern Illinois University publication.

The 70-page volume, compiled by David S. McIntosh, associate professor of music, is entitled "Sing and Swing from Southern Illinois."

Mr. McIntosh has been collecting folk songs and dances for many years, as he has taught University extension courses in many Southern Illinois counties.

One of his courses has been "Recreational Music and Singing Games," and he has encouraged each class to do research in the folk music of that particular community. Each student has been asked to interview the older residents of the area who are known to be interested in the old songs and games. The student learns the songs and games, and brings them to class, where they are presented, recorded, and eventually transcribed.

Nine of the 25 selections in the booklet were discovered by Mr. McIntosh's own personal research.

It is Mr. McIntosh's hope that the folk music of this area may become more extensively used in Southern Illinois schools.

"There has too long been a tendency on the part of school teachers to ignore the culture of the area in which they work," he declared in his foreword to the booklet. "This is especially true of music teachers, who are inclined to look down upon the music of the local community."

The value of folk material is being recognized, however, he added, citing a recent series of music texts which includes at least 30 versions of songs and singing games that have been sung by the people of Southern Illinois for many generations.

"Southern Illinois University is launched on a program of development of the regional resources of the area it serves," Mr. McIntosh wrote. "The economic resources of the area are easily discernible; the cultural resources are not so apparent, but they are present.

"The cooperative spirit engendered by the singing game and the square dance was a definite aid to other cooperative ventures, such as the barn raisings, apple peelings, and corn huskings.

"In this day of machinery there is still great need for people to know each other, and to feel a spirit of neighborliness. Playing and singing together can help bring about this spirit of neighborliness."

The dances recorded in Mr. McIntosh's/^{volume}were obtained from persons in Saline, Randolph, Perry, Massac, Jackson, Franklin, Hamilton, Pope, and Hardin counties.

He credits "London" and "Come Along and Go With Me" to Mrs. Lessie Parrish and Mrs. Elsie Parrish McNeill of Carbondale; "Wave o'Wave" to Cecil Fulkerson of Raum; "First Couple Shuffle" to Hal Ryan of Galatia; "Lady Round a Lady", "Right Hand Across," and "'Round That Couple and Swing at the Wall" to Lawrence Clyde Cunningham of Pinckneyville.

"The Pretty Little Girl" and "Sally Gooden" to William Riley Jenkins of Cutler; "Swing Ma, Swing Pa" to Phillip Hottes of Tilden; "Higher Up the Cherry Tree" to Alice Mount of Harrisburg; "It's Nobody's Business" to Lushel Prather of Harrisburg; "Skip to My Lou" to Mrs. Maggie Walls of Harrisburg; "Old Dan Tucker" to Logan Bishop of Raleigh; "Dolly Put the Kettle On" to Miss Juanita Dryden of Harrisburg.

"Jolly Miller" and "Go Out and In The Window" to Henry Dudenbostel of Campbell Hill; "Turn That Cinnamon Around" to Mrs. Carmel Jones of Harrisburg; "Holly Brooks" to Wilma M. Gidcumb of Harrisburg; "Hog and Hominy" to Mrs. Cecil Herford of Rosiclare; "Shoot the Buffalo" to Hal Ryan of Harrisburg; "So Early in the Morning," to Robert Wilson of McLeansboro; "Cinnamon Tea" to Miss Lela Pearce of Harrisburg; "Old Pompey," to Gail Aiken of Marissa; "Poor Robin" to Mrs. Lean Willmore of West Frankfort; and "Green Gravel" to Mrs. Esther Tanner Bush of Brookport.

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. - Little Lynn Holder, basketball tutor of Southern Illinois University, has a Big Problem on his hands this year, his third at the helm of the Maroon quintet. In his first two seasons at Southern, he led his charges to consecutive Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championships and on both occasions to the N.A.I.B. tourney at Kansas City as the Illinois representative in the National meet.

This year, however, besides losing Captain Quentin Stinson of Eldorado and Oliver Shoaff of Mt. Carmel by graduation (and incidentally both men were named to the All-Midwestern College All-Star team), he has temporarily lost the services of two more regulars, Joe Hughes of West Frankfort and Bob Colborn of Flora. Hughes and Colborn, both flankers on the Maroon football team, each received a broken leg during the gridiron campaign to reduce the number of returning regulars to one, Jack Ladie of West Frankfort.

Colborn is expected to resume his hardwood activities after the first of the year but it is doubtful if Hughes will be available at all during the season, his being a compound fracture.

Lettermen returning from last season's team to aid Ladie include Jack Long, six-foot four-inch center from Flora, Charlie Goss of Marion, and Galen Davis of DuQuoin. Those graduating from the "B" squad of a year ago include Ernie Bozarth of Waltonville, Don Glover of Mt. Vernon, Bob Kissack of Hoopeston, and Jim Kenfro of Carbondale. To these men will fall the task of providing the necessary punch needed for a successful season.

Attention: Sports Editors

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - It will be a green and inexperienced Southern Illinois University basketball team that Coach Lynn Holder will take to Beloit, Wisconsin on Saturday of this week to tangle with the highly touted Beloit quintet.

Only four letterwinners will be among the 12 man travelling squad. Jack Eadie, a West Frankfort lad, is the only returning regular ready for action as Bob Colborn, last year's leading scorer from Flora, and Joe Hughes, versatile floor man of West Frankfort, both received broken legs during the gridiron campaign. Colborn is expected to rejoin the hoopsters after the first of the year but it is doubtful if Hughes will be available at all during the hardwood schedule.

Other monogramed veterans available are Jack Long of Flora, Charlie Goss of Marion, and Galen Davis of Duquoin. This trio was the second line of attack for the Maroons last season and they are expected to move into the vacancies left by Captain Quentin Stinson of Eldorado and Oliver Shoaff of Mt. Carmel who were lost by graduation plus the loss of Colborn and Hughes.

Newcomers expected to break into the starting lineup are Eddie Bryan, six foot four-inch center of Freeburg, and either Ernie Bozarth of Matonville or Frank "Pud" Gladson of Pinckneyville. The latter two will share the guard post with Eadie while Davis will be used as a first line replacement.

Gladson will be remembered as being instrumental in the Pinckneyville parade to the Illinois state championship of a year ago, whereas, Bozarth is a graduate of the Maroon "B" team.

Others expected to see considerable action are Bob Kissack, Hoopeston; Don Glover, Mt. Vernon; Truman Hill, Benton; Tom Millikin, Pinckneyville; and Bob Rhinehardt, Carbondale.

Holder, beginning his third year at the helm of the Maroons, has amassed a total of 41 victories compared to only 14 losses in his first two seasons, and his teams have copped the Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship each year, plus representing the state of Illinois in the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tourney at Kansas City on each occasion.

Southern won the National Championship in 1946 under the guidance of now Athletic Director, Glenn "Abe" Martin.

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - "How To Face A War-Worried World," will be the topic of a lecture presented at Southern Illinois University by one of our outstanding writers and lecturers.

Leland Stowe, Pulitzer prize winner, has served as a foreign correspondent for more than 20 years.

Since 1927 he has covered international conferences on five continents. During the war, he reported from 44 different nations and colonies and served with the armies of seven nations.

Stowe has been lecturing to American audiences since 1934. With reference to his lectures, he says, "It is not a lecturer's main job to try to be popular. In our revolutionary times, a lecturer on world conditions should be absolutely honest with his audience. He should give them straight opinions, as well as all the truth at his command."

Mr. Stowe will speak in Shryock Auditorium at 8 P. M. on Dec. 8.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - Seven Southern Illinois University football players gained recognition on the 1948 Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference All-Star team which was released yesterday by Fred Young, publicity director of the conference.

Leading the Southern entrees was Jim Lovin, captain elect for 1949 and chosen Most Valuable Player by his teammates this year. Lovin, a native of Benton, was selected as a first string tackle for the third consecutive season.

Second team honors went to Joe Hughes of West Frankfort who played a great game at end for the Maroons until his leg was broken in the Illinois Normal game and to Bill Cosgrove, scrappy pivot man of Benton. Cosgrove, a senior at Southern, was selected to the elite group on four different occasions, twice to the first team and twice to the second team.

Those receiving honorable mention include Bob Colborn of Flora, a first team choice of a year ago at an end position but he, too, received a broken leg in the third game of the schedule; John Corn of Benton, captain of the past season who missed two league games with injuries; Warren Littleford, power laden tackel of Vandalia; and Bob Neal, freshman fullback of Zeigler.

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - Future enlargement of services to this area by Southern Illinois University is being taken to the local school administrators who know the problems of their community.

Dr. Douglas E. Lawson, dean of the College of Education, in a letter to the administrators of the public schools of Southern Illinois, has asked for suggestions which they may have in connection with the program. He also has proposed a series of meetings to be held at Southern in which the problems of the area will be discussed.

According to Dean Lawson, the aims of the College of Education are:

1. To prepare "able, accomplished teachers" for the profession of teaching.
2. To provide professional services to the area.
3. To provide specialized education in recreation, guidance psychology, health education, and physical education, and
4. To carry on research in the three areas already named.

In providing professional services, Dr. Lawson declared that the University should be available for consultative service in connection with:

1. Reorganization of school units of administration.
2. Establishment of recreation programs and remedying of factors contributory to juvenile delinquency.
3. Surveys of job-opportunity and industrial trends in this area.
4. Coordination of the community and the school.
5. Discovery and diagnosis of clinically remediable deficiencies, maladjustments, and defects in individual children where such conditions are contributory to poor learning in school or to poor social or physical health.

In providing specialized education for teachers and other professional workers, Southern hopes to make available counseling for:

1. Clinical studies of physical and mental characteristics of the school child.
2. Analysis of school records.

The final phase of the program is to promote research through (1) surveys and planning, especially where industry, social agencies, communities of schools can benefit from the findings, and (2) training, in the graduate program, of competent research workers.

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - Christmas will come early to hundreds of Southern Illinois school children when they attend the play, "Little Women," to be staged in Shryock Auditorium at Southern Illinois University Dec. 9 at 2 p. m.

First of a series of three children's plays, "Little Women" will be presented by the Carbondale Branch, American Association of University Women.

The other plays scheduled are "Toby Tyler," Jan. 24, and "Hansel and Gretel," March 17.

All three plays are produced by the famous Clare Tree Major Children's Theatre.

Season tickets have been sold throughout Southern Illinois in cooperation with the public schools, according to Mrs. Alice Rector, ticket chairman. Approximately 450 have been sold in Carbondale, approximately 225 in Murphysboro, and smaller numbers in Harrisburg, Johnston City, Anna and other towns.

Schools may still send in orders for blocks of tickets, Mrs. Rector said.

"Little Women" dramatizes the story of the Louisa May Alcott masterpiece in authentic costumes and settings.

Timing of the production to take place here is especially appropriate, for the play opens with the March family's celebration of Christmas, shared with the poor family who lived nearby.

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - Two former Southern Illinois University basketball stars, John Sebastian of Odin and Ollie Shoaff of Mt. Carmel, have been ranked first and third respectively in scoring for the National Professional Basketball League, according to word received here.

Both are members of the Detroit Vagabonds, presently in last place in the Eastern Division of the National League.

Sebastian and Shoaff provided the one-two punch for the Maroons in their Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship of the 1946-47 season and later paced the quintet at the N.A.I.B. tourney at Kansas City.

This duet gave Southern one of the most colorful combinations in the school's history with their dazzling passes and trick shots. They are both disciples of the fast break and they provided many a thrill for the Southern supporters with their dazzling array of floorwork and shooting.

Shoaff was a member of last season's I.I.A.C. champs and Illinois representative to the National tourney. He was named to the all-league team and was later selected to the All-Midwestern College mythical five.

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - Miss Edna Thompson, a brilliant young Norwegian-American, has been selected to sing the soprano lead in "The Messiah" to be held here at Southern Illinois University Sunday, Dec. 12, Dr. Maurits Kosnar, conductor, has announced.

Miss Thompson, one of the rapidly advancing singers on Chicago's musical front points out that "her own people" of Norwegian ancestry were the first to acclaim her talents.

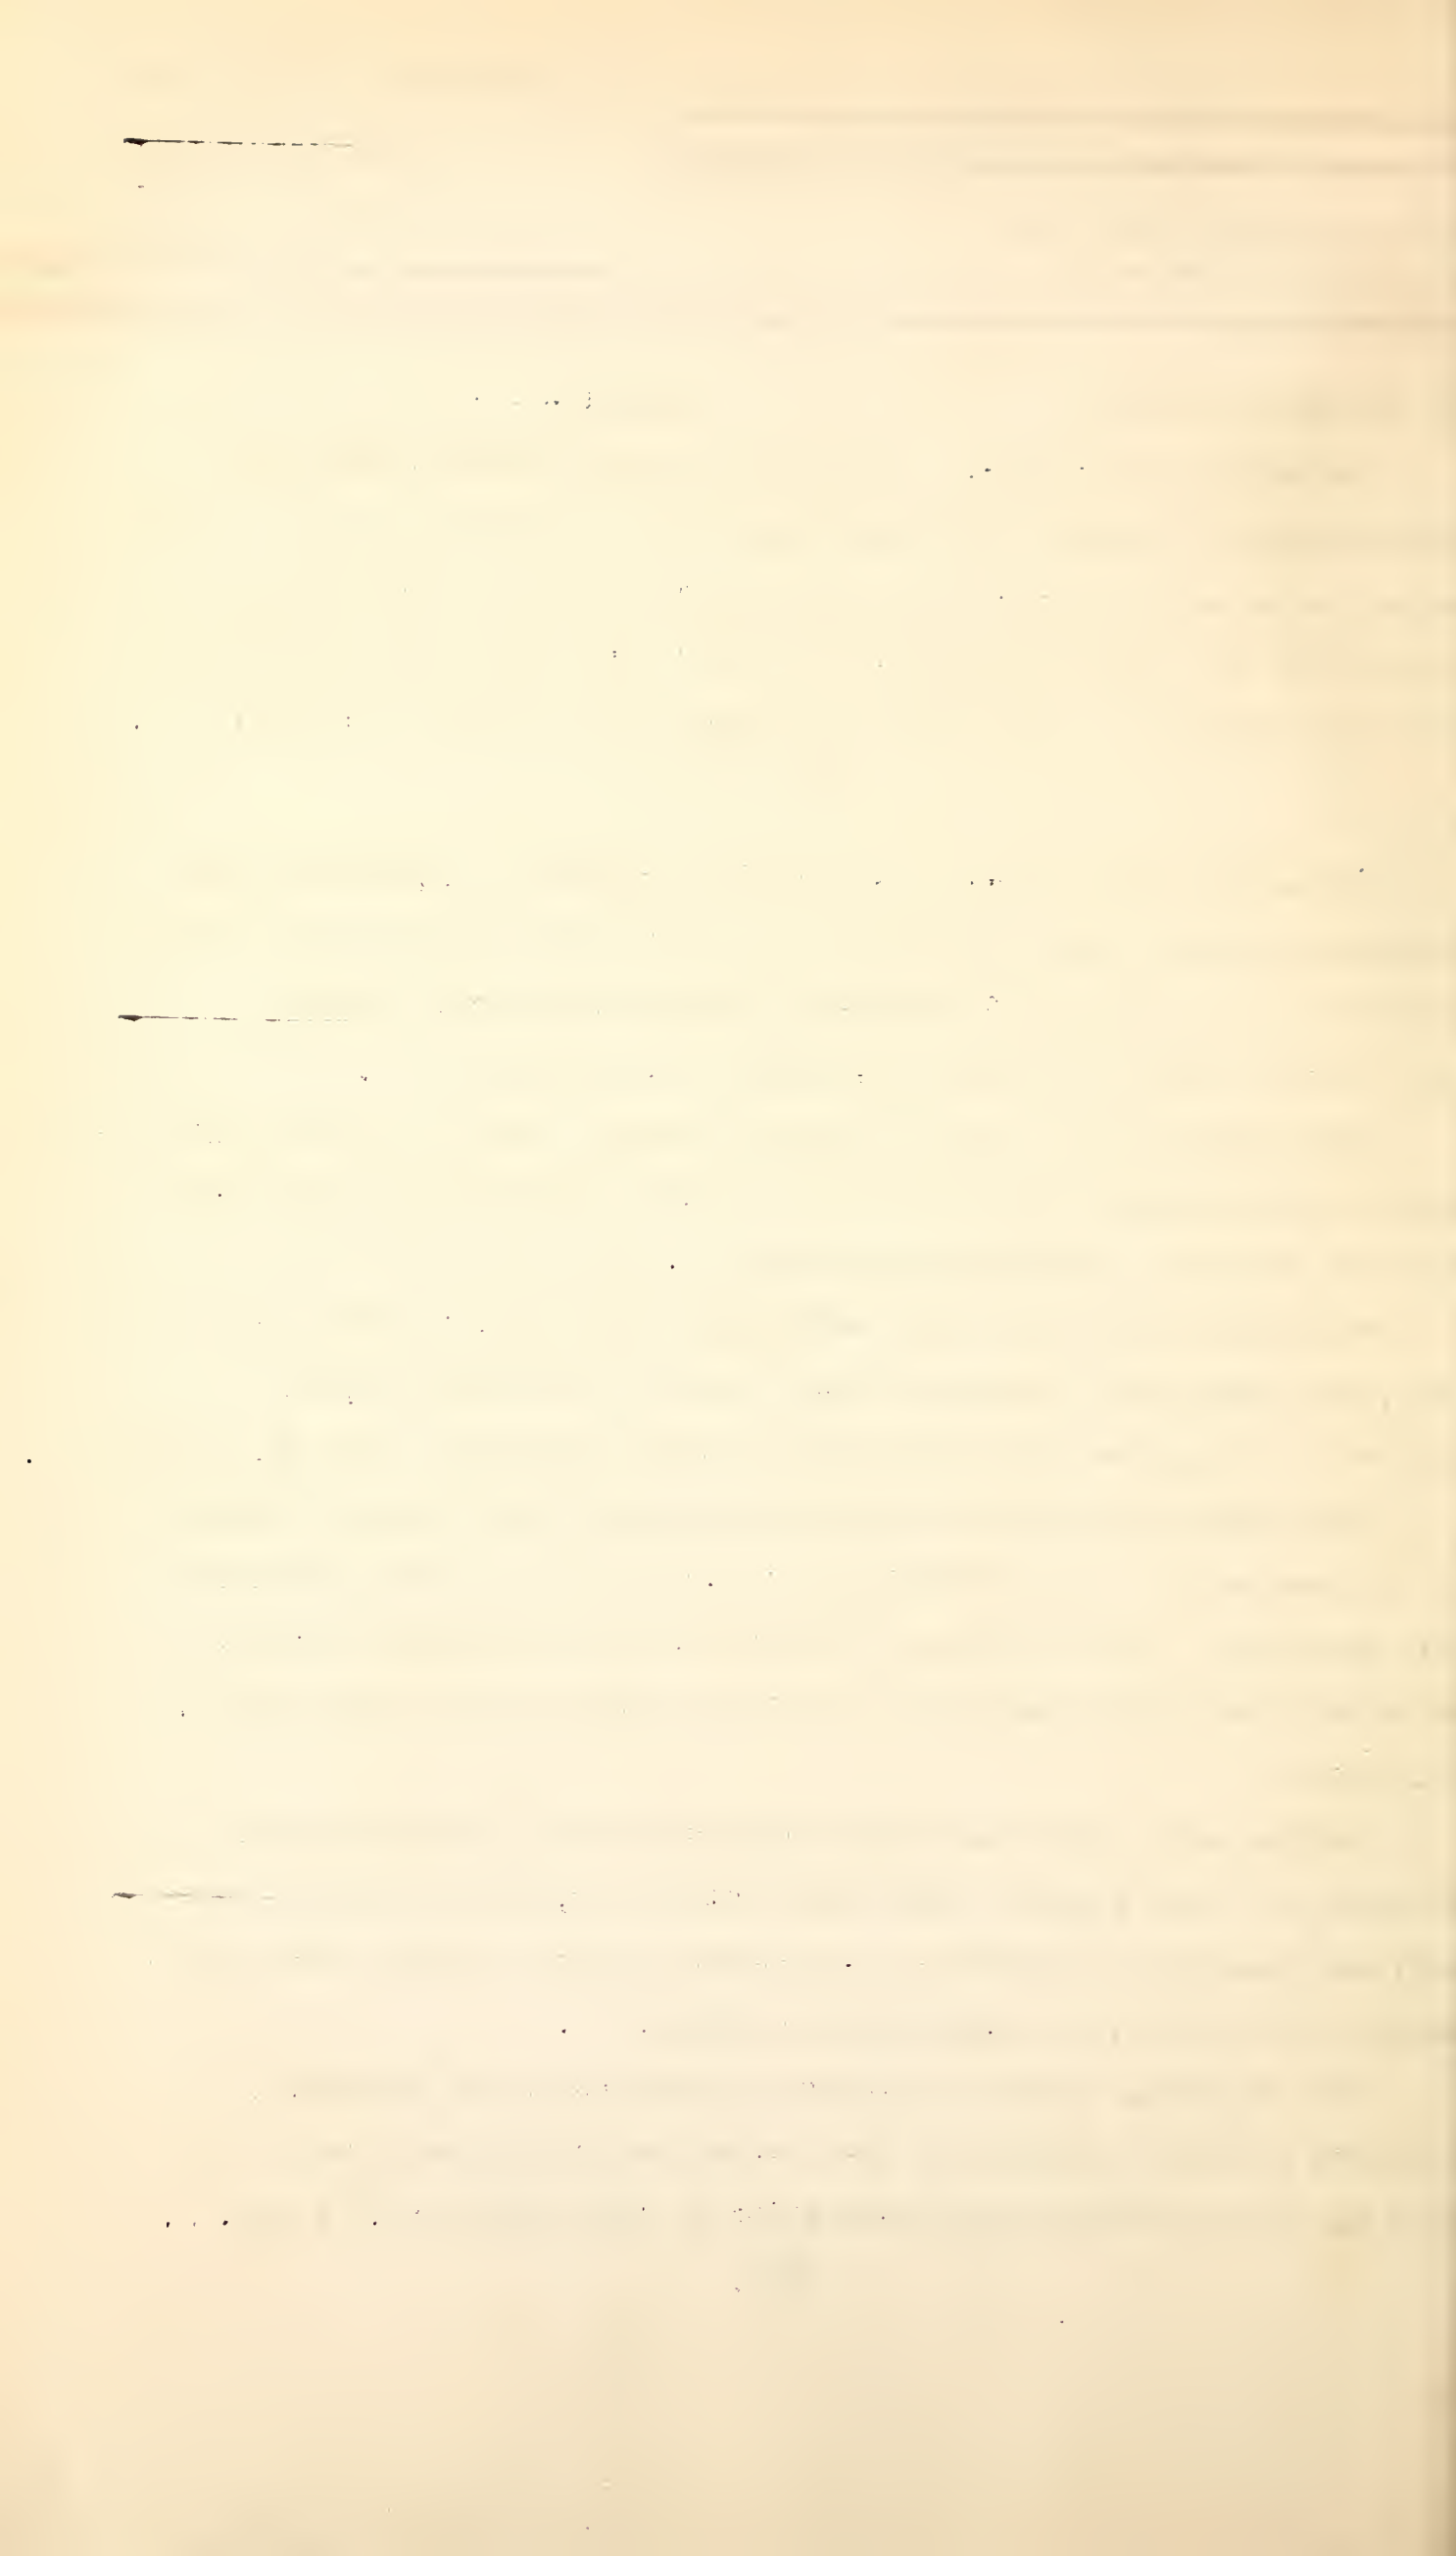

Following appearances with the Apollo Club, the Swedish Choral Club, the Grieg Male Chorus and many others in Chicago, she was selected to sing for Her Royal Highness Crown Princess Martha of Norway.

Miss Thompson has made several radio appearances on the "Hymns of All Churches," "The Northerner's," and the "Chicago Theater of the Air" programs. At the present time she is soprano soloist for the University Methodist Church and the Shaare Emeth Hebrew Temple in St. Louis.

Sharing solo honors with Miss Thompson in the Pre-Christmas Oratorio are alto soloist Miss Carol Werner, Southern graduate; bass-baritone soloist Carl Nelson, concert and oratorio artist; and tenor soloist John Tufts, St. Louis choral singer.

"The Messiah," which is presented annually by the Southern Illinois Oratorio Society, is open to the public without charge. It will be given in Shryock Auditorium at the University, at 8 p. m.

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - Southern Illinois is probably the chief crossroads of folklore in the United States, Dr. Herbert Halpert, nationally recognized folklorist from Murray State College, Murray, Ky., declared here recently before the Illinois Folklore Society.

Speaking at a dinner meeting at Southern Illinois University, Dr. Halpert cited the meeting ground of north and south, the river lore, the wide range of language groups, the mining, lumber and agricultural stories and customs--and termed this region a "vast reservoir of folklore."

He pointed to the two branches of Southern tradition--the white and the Negro--found here; the "Yankees"; the German, Irish, Croatian, Italian and other groups mingled with the Anglo-Scotch-Irish-French; and the variety of occupational activities practiced.

"With a Folklore Society organized and a university here at hand to serve as a center, you should go to work cooperatively to make a collection of folklore that would give us more about the way of living in this country than could be made anywhere else," he declared.

Several Southern Illinois folklorists are already widely known, he said, calling attention to David S. McIntosh, associate professor of music at the University, "who is doing more than anybody else in the country in collecting folk dances and games"; the late Charles Neely of the University English faculty; and Grace Partridge Smith of Carbondale, who collects folk customs.

Others who are engaged in folklore collecting are Dr. Norman Caldwell, associate professor of history, who is investigating place names from the historical point of view; Dr. J.W. Harris, associate professor of English, who is studying folk sayings; Miss Frances Barbour, associate professor of English, who is collecting proverbs for a proposed dictionary to be published by the American Dialect Society; Mrs. Eva Gersbacher of Carbondale, who is gathering folk plants and folk remedies; and John Allen, history curator of the University museum and president of the folklore society, who is becoming an authority on how antique tools and processes "worked."

"Folklore is a study of the complete way of life of a people, not just the collection of songs, dances, customs and sayings," Dr. Halpert insisted.

He urged that the society members work cooperatively, each investigating in his own speciality but reporting "finds" in some other specialized field to his associates who are interested in that field.

He also suggested that the society undertake the publication of a folklore volume or a series of books.

"You could do a job that would be a model for the whole country," he asserted. "No other state has so many people interested in so many different branches of folklore as here."

The two-year-old society now has a membership of 60.

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. 11 - The third annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" at Southern Illinois University is being given Sunday, Dec. 12 at 7:30 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium.

A 200-voice chorus, composed of church choir singers from all over Southern Illinois together with the University Mixed chorus, directed by Floyd V. Wakeland, associate professor of music; the University High School choir, directed by Charles Paterson; the Baptist Student choir, directed by Eugene Quinn; and Carbondale Community High School choir, directed by Ernie Limpus, will be conducted by Dr. Laurits Kesnar, chairman of the Southern music department.

The public performance on Sunday, accompanied by the University Orchestra, will feature four outstanding vocal soloists and a trumpet soloist.

Vocal soloists are Miss Edna Thompson, Norwegian soprano and soloist for the University Methodist Church and the Shaare Emeth Hebrew Temple in St. Louis; Miss Carol Werner, contralto, Southern graduate and music instructor at Dupon; bass-baritone soloist Carl Nelson, concert and oratorio artist; and tenor soloist John Tufts, St. Louis choral singer.

Mr. Harold Hines, band instructor at Southern, will play the famous trumpet solo "The Trumpet Shall Sound."

The "Messiah," which is sponsored by the Southern Illinois Oratorio Society, is complimentary to the public and all students and townspeople are urged to attend.

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - "Too pessimistic" about war with Russia was the charge a noted foreign correspondent leveled at the United States, in a lecture here at Southern Illinois University Wednesday night.

Pulitzer Prize winner Leland Stowe, in discussing the subject "How To Face A War-Worried World," reprimanded the American public for too much loose talk about war.

He pointed out seven "very material" reasons why Russia does not want war: The U. S. has (1) the greatest Navy in the world; (2) the greatest Air Force in the world; (3) the greatest long-range bombers in the world; (4) the greatest assemblage of technological and scientific minds in the world; (5) the greatest industrial plants in the world; (6) the greatest knowledge for a bacteriological war; and (7) X number of atomic bombs.

Stowe thinks that the Soviets have over-reached themselves in Berlin and their policy is backfiring on them. In the first place, they have unified the allies more than at any time since the end of the war. Also the people of Berlin are thinking more for themselves and many of them are going to the polls and voting freely.

War with Russia, he said, is not inevitable. There are many things which might happen in Russia to change their policy entirely. If Stalin should die, there is the great possibility that the resulting struggle among top men in the Kremlin would completely disrupt the government.

Stowe disagrees with those people who advocate an early war. In regards to this idea he says, "No one will win an early war, but we will be the greatest losers because we have the most to lose."

He pointed out that the only way to offset the strong Russian influence in Europe is a federation of the European countries.

"We must convince those countries that a federation is the only hope for the world," he said, and we should force the move through the loan policy if necessary.

"We must stop Russia, not with a war machine, but with a peace machine."

ATTENTION: Sports Editors

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - Southern Illinois University will open their 1948-49 home basketball season on Saturday of this week as they entertain the Purple Aces of Evansville College.

Lynn Holder's Maroons opened their schedule a week ago, in Wisconsin losing to the power-laden Beloit quintet 67 to 48. Beloit was sporting the same lineup that gained them a berth in the N.A.I.B. tourney a year ago and with four games under their belt, were too much for the Holdermen to combat. However, the local lads, minus regulars Bob Colborn of Flora and Joe Hughes of West Frankfort, battled Beloit on even terms for 33 minutes before tiring and allowing Beloit to fatten their six point advantage into a 19 point victory margin.

For Saturday's home opener, Southern will be sporting a very impressive record for play on their own court in recent years. Since February of 1944, the Maroons have amassed a total of 40 victories against only two setbacks. They dropped a close decision to Wright Field in 1945 and to James Millikin in the 1947 season. In the 1944-45 and 1947-48 seasons, the Maroons were undefeated on their own court.

With Colborn and Hughes still a long way from complete recovery, Holder will probably send Charlie Goss of Marion and Bob Kissack of Hoopeston to the forward positions, Jack Long of Flora to the pivot post, with Jack Ladie of West Frankfort and Ernie Bozarth of Waltonville being assigned to the guard detail. Valuable first line replacements who will see plenty of action are the Pinckneyville pair, Frank Gladson and Tom Millikin; Galen Davis, letterwinner of a year ago from Duquoin; Eddie Bryan, freshman center of Freeburg, Don Glover of Mt. Vernon; Bob Kinehart, a product of University High in Carbondale; and Truman Hill, six foot five inch center of Benton.

Evansville and Southern have met on the hardwood on 20 different occasions with the Maroons holding a 13 to seven edge in triumphs.

Following the invasion of Evansville this weekend, Shurtleff College of Alton will call on the Holdermen Dec. 15, Mississippi Delta on the 18th, and Ottawa University of Kansas will be the guest of the Maroons on Dec. 21.

The latter two games will afford the Maroon boosters in the southern half of the state an opportunity to get a glimpse of the 1948-49 edition of the Southern squad as the campus will be cleared on Dec. 17 for the annual Christmas vacation.

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - Fresh from a thrilling 61 to 59 victory over the Purple Aces of Evansville College on Saturday the Southern Illinois University Maroons will play host to the Shurtleff College Pioneers on Wednesday in an effort to hang up their second triumph of the young season.

Saturday's win extended the Maroons winning streak at home to 41 victories in their last 43 outings, but the outcome of the game was in doubt throughout the contest.

Seven points was the largest margin that separated the two teams during the entire fracas and that was early in the first half. After that, neither team could pull more than five points ahead. Southern, paced by Jack Ladie of West Frankfort in the first half, managed to gain a 30 to 25 edge at halftime, but Bob Barnett of Evansville put the Aces ahead with three quick buckets to open the second half and set the stage for the thrilling see-saw finish.

Ladie took individual scoring honors for the night with 14 points followed by Bob Barnett of the Aces with 12. Ernie Bozarth of Waltonville and Jack Long of Flora connected for 11 with Bob Kissack of Hoopeston close behind with 10 tallies.

Southern's ability to connect at the free throw lane proved to be the difference in the outcome of the game as they hit on 15 of 23 attempts whereas Evansville countered on only nine of 17.

Shurtleff College of Alton should provide a stiff test for Lynn Holder's charges on Wednesday as they have nine veterans returning from last season's squad.

The game should also give the Southern supporters some idea of the strength of the Maroons in conference play as Normal edged the Pioneers last week 54 to 46.

Pacing the attack of the visitors will be Ralph Miller, potent point producer, who averaged better than 19 points per game last year.

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - Christmas vacation begins today for the students of Southern Illinois University but there will be no vacation for Lynn Holder and his Maroon basketball team.

Tonight, the Holdermen will entertain the Mississippi Delta quintet and then on Tuesday, they will play host to the highly touted Ottawa University five of Ottawa, Kansas.

Following the two games at home, Southern will journey to Flora Dec. 23 to tangle with the Big Blue of James Millikin University in a Fireman's benefit game.

After a brief pause for exchanging presents, the Maroons will travel to Vincennes, Ind., to participate in the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Holiday Tourney, which gets underway on Dec. 29. Southern has drawn Eastern Illinois State College as an opponent in the first round.

With the students absent from the campus during the holidays, it will provide an excellent opportunity for the townspeople in the southern half of the state to get a glimpse of this year's Southern's scrappers.

Wednesday's encounter with Shurtleff College proved to be a thrill-packed, dog-eat-dog affair with the Maroons needing an overtime period to top the Pioneers 64 to 59.

Starting slowly, the Maroons found themselves five points behind at half-time and it took a basket by Jack Ladie of West Frankfort in the last minute to pull Southern even with their smaller, but much more clever opponents.

Eddie Bryan, freshman center from Freeburg, took individual honors with 23 points, with George Gaunder of Shurtleff following with 20.

The win extended the Maroons home record to 42 victories in their last 44 outings.

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - The teacher-shortage problem is getting worse--not better, according to a Southern Illinois University educator.

Dr. Victor Randolph, associate professor of education, has recently completed a report on substandard teaching certificates in the U.S. By means of a questionnaire, he determined to learn the extent and quality of the certificates for the school years of 1946-47 and 1947-48.

For the school year of 1946-47, excluding Connecticut, Massachusetts, Montana, Ohio, and the city of Baltimore, approximately 120,000 teachers, out of a total of 875,000, held substandard certificates. During 1947-48, it is estimated that from a total of 882,700 teachers, 122,000 are holding substandard certificates. This indicates that about one in seven teachers now do not hold standard certificates, Dr. Randolph estimated.

In the next three or four years, Randolph declared, increases in public school enrollment because of increases in the birth rate will place a new strain on the teaching profession. More teachers or larger classes will be a necessity. Many things can be done to alleviate the situation, but shortages of well-qualified teachers cannot easily be made up in a brief period of time.

Academic requirements for certification in some cases were extremely low, he found. There were instances where high school graduates or those with less training were accepted.

Randolph found that age was usually one of the important factors in the awarding of certificates. Usually 18 years was set as the minimum, with often a health and character check and a pledge to the constitution as further requirements.

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - With a total of 555 job registrants, the Placement Service at Southern Illinois University last year secured positions for 520, or 93.6 per cent.

In a report covering the period Nov. 1, 1947, to Oct. 31, 1948, Placement Service Director Raymond H. Dey shows 358 applicants accepted jobs in the teaching field, 15 went into work for which they had especially trained themselves, 59 have gone into other occupations, and 88 are enrolled in graduate schools.

Seven applicants decided they did not desire employment, 17 have not reported what job they accepted, and only 11 are known not to be placed.

The teaching jobs secured for applicants during the past year were in 66 counties of Illinois, and in 18 other states. The out-of-state placements included: 5 in Missouri, three in Ohio, 2 each in Arizona, Arkansas, California, Indiana, Michigan, New Mexico; and 1 each in Alabama, Colorado, Florida, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Nevada, South Dakota, West Virginia, and Wyoming.

Dey attributed this wide spread of placements to Southern's new status as a university, since students are now coming to the institution from a wider area.

"This is reflected when these students state their desires concerning teaching positions, as a number of them wish to locate in their home counties," he said.

Teaching positions were secured for applicants in the following Illinois counties: Alexander, 4; Bond, 2; Champaign, 9; Christian, 4; Clay, 1; Clinton, 1; Coles, 8; Cook, 4; DeKalb, 1; DeWitte, 1; Douglas, 1; DuPage, 1; Edwards, 1; Effingham, 6; Fayette, 4; Ford, 2; Franklin, 13; Gallatin, 4; Green, 2; Grundy, 1; Hamilton, 2; Henderson, 1; Iroquois, 3; Jackson, 40; and Jefferson, 8.

Johnson, 1; Kankakee, 1; Kendall, 1; Knox, 2; Lawrence, 3; Lake, 2; Macon, 6; Macoupin, 7; Madison, 8; Marion, 12; Massac, 3; Mason, 1; McHenry, 1; McLean, 1; Monroe, 2; Montgomery, 3; Morgan, 2; Moultrie, 4; Ogle, 1; Perry, 11; Piatt, 2; Pike, 1; Pope, 2; and Pulaski, 2.

The large majority of the placements were secured for 1948 graduates of the University, Dey's report showed. Of 340 graduates, 167 went into some field of education, 30 are employed in other occupations, 7 did not desire employment, 6 failed to report, 30 are enrolled in graduate schools, and only 6 are not placed.

Of the 244 graduates of the College of Education, 165 accepted teaching positions, three of them in colleges; 30 went into graduate schools, 11 of them holding graduate assistantships; but 30 entered other occupations.

The 72 graduates of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences veered heavily toward continuing their education, 19 of them accepting jobs and 45 entering graduate schools. Of those doing graduate work, 12 hold assistantships.

Of the 24 graduates of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, 12 entered work for which their major study had prepared them, 2 accepted high school teaching positions, two are attending graduate schools, and 2 are employed in other occupations.

Other placements were made for 18 undergraduate applicants, for 156 Southern alumni, and for five registrants from other colleges and universities.

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - Several internal reorganization moves at Southern Illinois University received approval of the school's governing Board, at the Board's recent meeting in Chicago, the President's Office has announced.

The Board also approved a new University seal.

These included: creation of a new department of philosophy, division of the department of physiology and health education into two departments, change of name for the present department of biological science and research, and reorganization of the student teaching supervision program in the College of Education.

Work in philosophy is currently handled on a "part-time informal basis," but has not been set up as an independent department assigned to the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Dr. Charles D. Tenney, professor of English and philosophy and administrative assistant to the president, is at present the only faculty member teaching philosophy, but because of his administrative duties he has little time to devote to teaching. He will, however, serve as acting chairman of the new department until a staff can be built up.

A new department of physiology has been established in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, with Dr. Marie A. Hinrichs, professor, as chairman, and a new department of health education, with Ralph Boatman, instructor, as acting chairman, has been set up in the College of Education. Work in these two fields was formerly taught in a department of physiology and health education.

Faculty members in the two fields have been assigned to the two new departments, without change in their present ranks or salaries, as follows: Health Education, Mr. Boatman, instructor and acting chairman; Miss Florence Denny, assistant professor; Miss Frances Phillips, instructor; William McBride, faculty assistant; Physiology-- Dr. Hinrichs, professor and chairman; Mrs. Edna Bradley, Mrs. Helen Goetz, Miss Pauline W. Lander, Mrs. Naomi Manering, and Miss Jane Mezo, faculty assistants.

The present department of biological science and research has been changed to the department of microbiology, a terminology which more accurately describes the work offered. The new department has been assigned to the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Dr. Carl C. Lindegren will continue as chairman of the department, and the status of other faculty members in the department will not be changed. Dr. Lindegren will also continue as director of the Biological Science Research Laboratory, a research agency which is part of the general University administrative set-up.

Several changes in assignments to accomplish the reorganization of student teacher supervision in the College of Education were approved by the Board. These included: Dr. Ted R. Ragsdale, former acting principal of the Allyn Training School, appointed director of student teaching; Dr. Charles D. Neal, former associate professor in the department of education, appointed acting principal of the Allyn Training School; Troy Edwards, instructor in University High School, assigned to duties as assistant principal of U. High; and George Bracewell, associate professor of education, designated as coordinator of rural schools.

The new University seal, approved by the Board, features a sketch of the Old Main Building, with the motto "Deo Volente" on a scroll beneath it, and the word Carbondale inscribed below the motto. "Southern Illinois University Chartered 1869" encircles the sketch. The Board requested that the word "chartered" be used instead of "instituted" in the submitted sketch.

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - Southern Illinois University has been authorized by its governing Board to conduct a careful survey of Southern Illinois to determine the degree of need for a nursing education program and the most practical way to set up such a program at the University, President D. W. Morris has announced.

The survey will be started in the immediate future, President Morris said, and it is hoped that results will be available in time to be presented to the General Assembly when that body begins consideration of Southern's proposed 1949-51 operating budget.

Southern has been requested by the nurses licensing division of the State Department of Registration and Education to develop a nursing education program, in order to help meet the urgent need for trained nurses.

Release Thursday

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - Coach Lynn Holder's Southern Illinois University quintet will play James Millikin University at Flora tonight.

The Maroons, riding the crest of three straight victories, including a 20 point triumph over Mississippi Delta College last Saturday night, will go to Flora for one of their toughest games of the year.

For the last few years, a basketball rivalry has been building up between Southern and Millikin. Last year, the two teams split with one game each during the regular seasons play. The sectional play-off of the NAIB tournament matched them again, at which time, Southern tipped the scales by three points in taking the game and the privilege of playing at Kansas City.

During 1946, Millikin did what no other college team has been able to do in four years--they beat the Maroon squad on Southern's court.

Millikin has eight returning lettermen and last year's whole first five. Included in that group are the outstanding performers Toby Althoff and Scott Steagall.

When the team goes to Flora, two of Southern's cagers will be going home. Jack Long, first string center, is from Flora. The other Flora boy is someone Southern fans have been waiting to see in action for sometime. He is Bob Colborn who was high point man on last year's conference winning team. He has not played as yet this year because of an injury during the football season. He will be dressed at Flora, however, and there is a chance that he will sneak into the contest for a short time.

Release Thursday

12-21-48

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. - With approval of its governing board, Southern Illinois University is preparing to ask the General Assembly for appropriations to carry on a major building program totaling $36,955,170 during 1949-51.

This appropriation would provide the University with 15 projects of its proposed 40-project long-range expansion program.

The plans for the 1949-51 biennium call for:

- (1) completion of the No. 1 unit of the training school now under construction.
- (2) completion of the power plant, now under construction, and service shops.
- (3) construction of the first unit of a new library.
- (4) completion of unit 2 of the training school.
- (5) construction of a commerce building.
- (6) construction of a health unit.
- (7) construction of farm buildings.
- (8) construction of a life science building.
- (9) construction of two women's dormitories.
- (10) construction of an education building.
- (11) construction of an industrial arts building.
- (12) construction of a student union building.
- (13) construction of a field house and Southern Illinois community center.
- (14) construction of a special education building.
- (15) construction of an administration building.

The $36,955,170 sought for the next biennium would provide for land acquisition needed for the new construction, site development, mechanical services, furnishings and equipment, professional services (architectural), and actual construction of the buildings.

"These buildings are all needed at once in order to enable us to provide adequately for our present student body of 3,000 with its present rate of increase", University President Delyte W. Morris declared today. "We are not asking for expansion, we simply want to

'catch up' with the construction that is needed right now."

Until work was started during the past year on the new training school, Southern had not had a single classroom building constructed in 20 years, President Morris pointed out.

Even the training school, when completed, will not provide classroom or laboratory space for the University's 3,000 college-level students. It will simply provide observation and practice teaching opportunities for senior students in the College Education; even these students must continue to take their regular University class work elsewhere.

"Today, with 3,000 University students enrolled, Southern is operating in the same eight permanent educational buildings it had in 1928, when only 1,132 college students were enrolled," President Morris explained.

"In the meantime, enrollment has almost tripled, and continues to rise while that at most colleges over the country levels off or decreases.

"Furthermore, Southern has become a university, with three specialized undergraduate colleges and a graduate school, yet the limitations of our present physical plant have made it impossible to provide the specialized laboratories and equipment necessary for technical and scientific study and research."

A survey of Southern's present physical plant facilities reveals that only 65 square feet per student is available in the present permanent educational buildings, compared to a figure of 185 square feet per student recommended by the President's Commission on Higher Education.

By the use of temporary structures--former Army barracks and former residences now owned by the University--it has been possible to provide 83 square feet of space per student, a figure still far below the recommended 185 square feet.

"There is not a single instructional or service department at Southern which is adequately housed and equipped," President Morris declared.

"Since condemnation of the present library, books are stored in the basement of the girls' dormitory, in a barracks building that was the former paint shop, and in the basement of the Old Science Building.

"Laboratory classes are forced to meet at night in order to provide facilities for all who wish to take the courses.

"Classes are being held in the auditorium, in the Little Theatre, in basements, in makeshift quarters in former residences.

"Student publications are housed in dark, airless crannies in the basement of Parkinson Laboratory. There is only one lounge for the University's 1,800 men students, and that is three tiny rooms in a former residence. There is only one general lounge for the University's 1,100 women students--the Women's Athletic Association room in the women's gymnasium.

"Only one dormitory is available for women students, and 120 girls are crowded into space designed for 72. There is no dormitory for men students.

"There is no place available where the entire student body and faculty can gather for an all-University assembly or convocation, nor is there a place where large groups of several thousand Southern Illinois citizens can come for concerts, plays, or public meetings.

"There is no place where students can carry on their recreational and social activities, which are such an important phase of their University experiences."

President Morris cited that the school's governing Board and the General Assembly, in converting the former teachers college into a university, recognized the needs of Southern Illinois for broad higher educational opportunities.

"The continuing growth in enrollment and the influx of students into the liberal arts and sciences, the vocations and professions, and the graduate fields are evidences that the youth of this region are anxious to take advantage of the opportunity for a university education at Southern.

"No university can be stronger than the weakest link in its framework," he asserted. "Our weakest link is undoubtedly our physical plant."

"The $37,000,000 which we are requesting will help us 'catch up,' so that we can begin to plan for the future."

For Immediate Release

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. 28 - Twelve members of the Southern Illinois University basketball team departed early Wednesday morning for Vincennes, Indiana, where they will compete in the annual two-day Invitational Holiday Tourney sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Vincennes.

The four-team tourney also includes Evansville College, Eastern Illinois, and Georgetown, Ky.

Evansville and Georgetown will open the classic Wednesday evening with Southern and Eastern playing the second game of the double header. Then on Thursday evening, the two losers will meet in the consolation games with the two victors battling for the championship at 8:30.

A year ago, Evansville nosed out the Maroons 62 to 60 in the final contest to emerge as tournament champs.

Wednesday's encounter with Eastern should give Coach Lynn Holder some idea as to how his charges are going to stack up in league competition later in the season. Eastern, however, is highly favored to cop the crown from Evansville and Southern will enter their opening game as definite underdogs. Earlier this year, the Maroons took the measure of the Purple Aces of Evansville 61 to 59. Little is known of Georgetown except that the nationwide Dunkel rating list them in the low thirties whereas the other three tourney teams are near the sixty mark.

Attention: Sports Editors

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. 28 - Jack Ladie, basketball's sixth highest scorer in the nation during 1945 and a regular member of the Southern Illinois University contingent for the past two seasons, has decided to withdraw from the sport, it was disclosed today by Lynn Holder, basketball coach of the Maroons.

The West Frankfort lad, a member of the 1945 Service All-American squad, related that he was forced to drop basketball and go to work if he was to remain at the University. He plans to work at a coal mine near West Frankfort on week-ends, going to school during the week.

A married veteran and a junior in school, he was the only available returning regular from last years IIAC championship team as Joe Hughes of West Frankfort and Bob Colborn of Flora were previously sidelined with broken legs.

The news of Ladie's departure came on the eve of the Maroons' journey to Vincennes, Indiana, to compete in the annual Holiday Journey. The Holdermen are matched against the power-laden Panthers of Eastern Illinois in the second game of a double header on Wednesday evening.

Ladie had tallied 57 points in the six games played to date but was used sparingly due to a leg injury.
